OUT OF SHOPS IN EIGHT HOURS IS FORD SLOGAN

way: 'Well, here's eight hours of hustle. I'll hustle and earn my fair wage, and then I've got all the rest of the time to myself. I can improve myself. I'm not worn out, tied down, I'm a man.'

Profits Increased.

"I don't know what the increased profits have been to our company. But we've got so much money we don't know what to do with it. The eight-hour day has increased our earnings by millions and made our men better off. And it would do the same for other properly conducted businesses."

"How about the railroads, Mr. Ford?" asked the interviewer. "They claim the eight-hour day would be impossible."

"They don't run their locomotives eight hours at a stretch, do they?" he retaliated. "Why do they work their men more? Is it because there are more men than locomotives? Or because men are easier to get?"

At this point the motor-maker handed out a free tip to the railroad operators.

Cars Too Heavy.

"Tell them to diminish the weight of their rolling stock. Use better, lighter steel. There's plenty of it, and it costs only a trifle more than the bad, heavy stuff they now use. They can cut the weight of their cars in half, carry more freight and passengers, make more money, use less fuel and avoid wear and tear on their roadbeds. Why, there is no greater waste in the United States today than the waste of weight in steel."

"But other manufacturers say," the interviewer suggested, "that it's all right for Ford to talk, but 'we couldn't make the eight-hour day and the $5 wage pay us.'"

"I've already said," replied the Detroit manufacturer, "that any business man who can't make the eight-hour day pay is not managing his business properly."

Producers Denied Share.

"The great trouble with this country is that labor has never properly shared in the profits it has earned for capital," Mr. Ford went on. Then he drew a beautiful picture of "real prosperity"—every workingman owning his machine, every one who wished living in the country, ten or twenty miles from his place of employment.

"Make the lot of the industrious people more comfortable, and the whole nation will be better off," he continued. "And that's what Woodrow Wilson has in his heart—the peace and comfort of the industrious people.

"I hope every workingman who knows me and my attitude toward workingmen will vote for the president's return. And I hope the employers of the industrious will take my advice, too, for they will reap much greater profits.

No Honor Sacrificed.

"Mr. Wilson has not sacrificed the slightest fraction of the national honor in keeping us out of war. You, I, all the rest of us would fight if it were really necessary, but we're not going to fight for Hearst's ranch in Mexico, or for the gains which the interests might make if America were involved in the European slaughter. We shouldn't be pushed into the carnage by 'the unseen hands' of Wall street.

"I haven't heard a single sound reason put forward why Mr. Hughes should be elected. And there is against him the great big reason that Wall street and the interests are all for him. Remember how these same interests pushed McKinley? And who paid? We, the industrious people. We'll pay again, with lives and wealth and comfort, if we are pushed into this war by these same 'unseen hands.'"

NO CANADIAN LUMBER IMPORTED BY OREGON

PORTLAND, Oct. 12.—No lumber of any kind, or shingles, has been imported into Oregon from Canada at any time during the past 10 years," Judge Thomas C. Burke, collector of customs, made this statement today in answer to a multitude of inquiries being received at his office.

"Inquiries are coming to this office by 'phone and from parties calling in person, asking information as to the amount of lumber at present coming into this state from Canada," said Collector Burke. "To economize time in answering similar requests, he has made an official statement to the press of the city, basing his assertion on an official examination of the records of the port for the past decade.

NAVAL PATROL ESTABLISHED ALONG ATLANTIC COAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Indication that an American naval patrol has been placed on duty along the north Atlantic coast was given today when Captain McDonald of the steamship Manamar, in from Cuban ports, reported that off the Jersey coast about 6 o'clock this morning an American destroyer dashed up through the mists and circled his ship several times. Captain McDonald said that he broke out the national colors and the destroyer immediately headed northeast, soon disappearing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The whole submarine situation, both as to the recent raid on the New England coast and the broader question of agitation in Germany for a ruthless resumption of the warfare shows signs in official quarters of having practically cleared up. No new developments are reported and no disturbing information has come to the state department, according to officials, to change the decision arrived at by President Wilson and Secretary Lansing.

The entire destroyer force, active and reserve, assisted by light cruisers, navy tugs and other auxiliary craft, will be employed to protect American territorial waters and also to prevent the establishment of any secret issues ashore and communication between shore radio stations and belligerent craft.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett

Bert Higinbotham of Flounce Rock spent the night with us Thursday on his way home with a load of seed wheat and flour. Those men who live back in the hills have to prepare for winter while the roads are so that they can haul a load, and Bert is improving the time this beautiful weather. While here he told of J. S. Tucker selling his farm, the Stone House ranch, for $20,000 to a Californian, but he did not learn his name.

Thomas Riley, Jr., son of ex-County Commissioner Thomas Riley, Sr., and his partner, Carl Roberts, are husking out their corn and storing it in the Snowy Butte mills warehouse. They are boarding at the Sunnyside while at work.

O. A. Millican of Trail is supplying this section with some fine beets.

Frank Ditsworth of Peyton stopped here for dinner the middle of the week on his way to Medford. He was looking over the potato market.

Mrs. Pete M. Pratt of Medford was here for dinner Tuesday, canvassing for some of the high-grade magazines and seemed to be meeting with considerable success. She is a good talker.

Lee Bradshaw of Brownsboro has been loading lumber from the Eagle Point Lumber yard to build a new barn, and the Gressett's of Lake Creek have been getting a quantity of lumber and shingles at the same place.

Henry Tone of Lake Creek brought in a fine lot of chickens Tuesday. The foregoing Eagles were left over when I wrote Wednesday, as I was afraid I wrote Wednesday, as I was afraid I wrote too much for fear of trying the patience of the editor.

Mrs. J. M. Vogel, wife of the man who kept the Tavern and saloon near the P. & E. depot, that was burned down, has been here visiting Mrs. Frank Rosen.

Last Thursday there was quite a number of ex-soldiers went from here to attend the Pioneers' reunion at Jacksonville, but I put in my time the most of the day working for the Mail Tribune. Starting out in the morning, I went to the Ringwood orchard and found the proprietor, A. G. Bishop, busy cleaning up his smudge pots and getting them ready for next season. He said that they had a fine crop of pears, but that the frost injured the apple crop, but that his corn crop is fine. In fact, from what I can learn about all of the corn in this section of the country has proved to be good. While I was there he renewed his subscription to the Daily Mail Tribune. From there I went to Swan Bergquist's fine farm and orchard, found Mrs. B. busy canning tomatoes. She is one of those thoughtful housekeepers who believes in taking time by the forelock. There I had to wait for awhile until her husband came in with a load of stove wood, but when he came he paid up arrears and paid for another year on the W. M. T. He is a man who believes in paying as he goes. From there I went to W. P. Holbrook's, found him working in his corn, but he stopped long enough to write out a check for a year's subscription to the Daily Mail Tribune. From there I went to see J. L. Frink, but the lady I met at the door told me that he was not at home, and so I did no business there.

By this time I began to think that it was about time for me to start for the Sunny-side, and when I reached there about 1 p. m. found D. R. Hill, one of our leading orchardists; A. W. Morey of San Francisco and J. C. Barnes, the real estate man, at the dinner table; they had came in late. I did not learn their business or where they were going, as they were in a hurry. After they were gone I asked Mrs. Daley, who had charge of the house during the absence of Mrs. Howlett and Hattie, if she had had many for dinner, and she said that the three who had just left made fourteen besides our regular boarders. After dinner I wrote a letter and then started to go up the creek, but got switched off up to the Corbin orchard and found Mine Hostess Mrs. J. S. Quackenbush preparing for the evening meal. Went down in the orchard, where I found Mr. Quackenbush and about twelve or fifteen men picking apples. Now, talk about apples—so far as quality and quantity were concerned, they were surely up to date, for I think that I saw some as fine-looking apples there as I ever saw at any of the fairs in Portland, Seattle or San Francisco, and as for quantity, the trees seemed to be loaded. Mr. Q. showed me one tree, a Spitzenburg, that he gathered fifty boxes off last year, but he said that he did not expect to gather over forty boxes this season. Mr. Q. is making a change in the management of the orchard, and instead of letting it go and realizing nothing but fruit, he has sowed, at least the part that I saw, to red clover and lets the hogs run in the orchard all the time, thus raising hogs with little or no expense, and keeping the codlin moth out of the fruit, for if any of the apples have any of the eggs in them and fall off the hogs will eat the apple and thus destroy the germ. When the late Henry Brown of Brownsboro was living he adopted that plan and said that he seldom had a wormy apple, but if that is merely a notion, by that means they can raise a fine lot of hogs and put on the market that will help pay the expense of caring for the orchard. Before I left he renewed his subscription to the D. M. T., and after loading me down with samples of apples I started for home, reaching there tired and hungry.

Friday, among others who came in for dinner was Howard B. Hill, a son of D. R. Hill, the orchardist, and in the course of conversation he asked me, "Who is going to be our next president?" and I answered, "Why, Wilson, of course." And that led to the subject, and he remarked that he and his father had been republicans all their lives and voted the republican ticket, but that this time they were both going to vote for Wilson, and he related an incident that happened a few days ago in Medford. He said that Mrs. ——— was organizing Hughes clubs and asked him and his father to sign up, but he reminded her that she at the last election was working for the progressives and that they were still progressives, and thought that Wilson was really the only progressive candidate in the field. And that brought up the subject of who was supporting Wilson, and I remarked that for the past month or more I had been keeping tab on those who come here and expressed their views, and that I had found a very large percentage of the republicans were working for Wilson—in fact, almost all of the voters in Eagle Point, except a few of the "yellow dog" kind, are for Wilson. Speaking I have that the republican candidate for district attorney, S. M. Roberts, signed the petition to have the brewers' beer amendment placed on the ballot.

G. W. Brandon, one of the new owners of the Snowy Butte mills, has moved into the Tillie Nichols house.

Mrs. M. D. Stoddard, wife of the Butte Falls hardware merchants, came out from Medford Friday afternoon, spent the night with us and took the P. & E. train for her home Saturday morning.

James Ed Conley has purchased the Heath store, he has become an occasional boarder here.

Jack Florey, Jr., who has been in the hospital in Medford, having been operated on for appendicitis, has returned and is on our streets again.

M. C. Logan, recently from Crook county, Oregon, has moved into our town and rented the old A. J. Daley (Dick) property, but will not be able to move into the building for a short time, owing to the sickness of Ralph Potter, who is confined to his bed with a rupture of one of the valves of the heart.

John Foster, Miss Dewey Howe and Miss Ruby Ash of Trail and Miss Norma Smith of Lake Creek were among the guests Saturday for dinner. Miss Howe is teaching school at Trail and Miss Smith is teaching at Lake Creek and Miss Ash is the postmistress at Trail. They all three went to Medford Saturday afternoon.

There were nine passengers on the P. & E. car Saturday morning on their way up the country.

Mr. Whiteside of Agate bought a load of hogs from Joe Hannah, Sr., Friday.

Gene Bellows took his beef cattle to Medford Monday.

Britson Bros. sold part of their hogs to Mr. Smith of Tolo.

Jasper Hannah is very busy making some fine flavored sorghum.

Pearl Stowell and Alec Betz called on Lloyd French Sunday.

Misses Denie Howe and Rena Ash were Medford visitors Saturday.

The Jackson-Josephine Counties Teacher's Institute will be held at Grants Pass this week. Among the teachers who will attend are Misses Ida Houston, Ina Austin, Mae Maulthby, Duele Howe, Clara Skyrman, Helen Moore and Lola Hudson from this vicinity.

Miss Eula Houston is teaching in Klamath county this winter.

Howard Rogers and family spent Sunday at the W. T. Houston home.

Nearly every farmer wants a man to help him.

Among the Eagle Point visitors this week were Mrs. Gene Bellows, Henry French and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hammel.

Mr. Blackden is surveying in this vicinity.

FLOUNCE ROCK FRILLS

We are sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Brown of Roseburg, brother-in-law to Grandma Nye and father of our friend and former neighbor, Temple Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson have sold their ranch in Langel Valley and returned to their old home at Peyton. The neighbors are delighted to have them back.

Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield and baby started to Independence, this state, Saturday afternoon to attend a Jersey sale. They went in their car and expect to return Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin and children and Mrs. Fitch went to the valley Monday.

Mrs. C. A. Thompson and four daughters of Derby came up on the stage Saturday evening to attend the dance at the power plant. The ladies returned home Monday.

Nelson Nye came home Saturday from valley towns where he had been buying goods.

Mrs. Lewis of Flounce Rock ranch came home Saturday from Medford.

Mr. Kelley and a young man from California expect to trap together this winter and went last week to the solitudes above Prospect to cut trails for their trap lines.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Vincent and daughter Fern came over from Klamath county last week and are camping on the old Vincent place below the Gordon place preparing to erect a nice bungalow and make their home there.

Mr. Vaughn and son Roy and Robert Gordin are driving the Gordon cattle over the mountains to the Klamath side.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ditsworth visited the Vincents Sunday.

Mr. Peterson visited this and neighboring schools recently.

There was a dance at the power plant Saturday night which was well attended, several from a distance being present.

Frank Ditsworth made a business trip to the valley recently.

Misses Ora Ditsworth and Belle Whisenant went out on the stage Saturday morning to Medford and both expect to attend the institute later.

Miss Belva Walker and Prof. Broomfield expect to leave Tuesday to attend the institute. Mrs. Broomfield plans to accompany her husband to Medford and visit Mrs. Broomfield, Sr., for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd of Trail were in this vicinity Monday.

James and Earl Peyton took a load of sheep to the valley last week to a buyer and returned Sunday.

Earl Peyton has resumed work at Mr. Mansfield's.

There were five contributors to the birthday box at Sunday school Sunday: Mr. Peyton, Paul Peyton, Mr. Blanchard, Fred and Robert Nichol.

SOLDIERS GOT RELIEF FROM SORENESS

Boys on the Border Relieved Their Pains and Aches with Sloan's Liniment.

Once upon a time Norman Jones, serving in the National Guard at El Paso, returned to camp after a strenuous 15 mile hike foot-sore and leg-weary. He had not been long in active service and his shoulders, back and limbs felt the after-effects of marching.

Remembering Sloan's Liniment, Jones applied it to the sore spots and went to bed. He writes: "I arose the next morning feeling fine; in fact I had entirely forgotten about the hike and went out for a four-hour drill in the sun as spry as ever."

Private Jones passed the experience along, and many a boy on the border relieved the agony of sprains, strains, bruises, insect bites, cramped muscles, rheumatic twinges, etc., by the use of Sloan's Liniment.

Easily applied without rubbing. At all druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00.
