SAYS MRS. HANLEY IS BILLY SUNDAY OREGON POLITICS

(By LEONE CASS Haer in the Sunday Oregonian.)

THE DALLES, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Mrs. E. B. Hanley is the Billy Sunday of politics.

There's just one fault to find with whatever little Columbus first put her on the political map.

Last night she made a whole theater full of folk stand up, sit down and jump through just wherever she wiggled a slender forefinger.

Right behind the band we rode up to the portals of the theater. At the first "zoom zoom" and the blare of trumpets, or maybe they were cornets, the primal woman sleeping under Mrs. Hanley's skin woke to life.

I wish I could tell you all of the thousand and one things she talks upon, but no one could.

WHEN YOU'RE TIRED, QUIT WE repeat—when you're tired, quit. That doesn't mean, necessarily, quit work.

It means quit spending so much time in other ways that you don't get enough sleep to furnish you with the proper working energy.

You can, of course, keep going on black coffee and your nerves. But whenever you spend more energy than you are getting, you're issuing checks against the bank balance of future health.

TURKS CAPTURED BY CAMEL CORPS

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Successful operations by British camel corps on the Egyptian western front have resulted in the clearing of hostile forces from large areas and the capture of some 175 prisoners.

On October 22 on the western frontier, camel corps detachments operating with armored cars successfully swept the Dakhla oasis to its edge, capturing 175 prisoners after some opposition.

A similar operation on the same date in the Baharia oasis (110 miles west of the Nile) by camel corps detachments resulted in the capture of 50 prisoners, including a quantity of arms and ammunition.

No casualties have been reported from either force.

THE COPPERHEAD

COLONEL ROOSEVELT in his copperhead speech at Phoenix, accused President Wilson of being guilty of murder of Americans in Mexico as accessory to the crime. The same charges in an indictment would lead to trial for murder.

As Everett Colby, the progressive leader who twice nominated Roosevelt, says of these intemperate charges: "I am truly sorry to see Mr. Roosevelt give way to his passions and indulge in such unrestrained, excited and bitter tirades against the president.

"There ought to be some limit to party rancor and personal hate; and I deeply deplore the fact that a man who has rendered such services to the nation as Colonel Roosevelt should descend to such vulgar attacks upon a man, who is not only loved by his countrymen, but admired by the world as few men in our history have been loved and admired."

Mexican outrages against Americans have been frequent for thirty years—yet it was never deemed necessary to plunge the nation into a war of conquest on account of them.

Under Roosevelt's own administration the "humiliating" incident occurred frequently of American citizens taking out certificates of registration from the British consulate at the City of Mexico to secure protection to their property.

In 1911 President Taft wrote the governor of Arizona, who had telegraphed him that unless the American government acted, the people of Douglas, Ariz., would have to vacate the town:

"I cannot order the troops to cross the border, but must ask you and the local authorities in case the danger occurs again, to direct the people of Douglas to place themselves where bullets cannot reach them."

Up to 1915, when partisanship began to assert itself, all the leading republicans backed up the president's Mexican policy, which was simply a continuation of President Taft's policy. Senator Root declared that even a threat of force would be "to reverse the policy of the United States and take a step backward in the path of civilization."

The Mexican problem has been a national, not a party problem, ever since the passing of Diaz. Able and honest men of both parties have agreed and disagreed over it—have agreed and disagreed with their own party heads over it. It should be dealt with by the people as it has been dealt with by our president—thoughtfully, conscientiously, justly.

But no one expects honor or decency from Roosevelt—the Villa of American politics, who is as disloyal to his government as Villa is to his, and whose trip to the border is that of the copperhead, to stir up discontent, dissension and disloyalty among the people at a time of national crisis, and foment treason among the troops of the United States against their commander-in-chief.

What else could one expect from a man so shameless as to fake heroism at the battle of San Juan, in which he never participated; to boast of shooting a Spaniard in the back at Kettle Hill, where there were no Spaniards; of one who, to dodge paying taxes, swore that he was no longer a citizen of New York and the next month swore he was to run for governor; of a president who at the dictation of Wall street set aside the laws he swore to uphold to permit "discovered" a South American river, which had been cruised by Spaniards for rubber for over 150 years; of a statesman who pledged eternal faithfulness to the progressive principles and then basely betrayed his following to the very men whose corruption he had loudly denounced.

Roosevelt is evidently disgusted with the anaemic, colorless, flabby campaign made by Hughes and is "putting a punch" in it that is sending it tottering to its final collapse—and will leave him without a rival to lead the G. O. P. in 1920, on the principle enunciated by Barnum that the public likes to be humbugged.

WHEN YOU'RE TIRED, QUIT

WE repeat—when you're tired, quit. That doesn't mean, necessarily, quit work. It means quit spending so much time in other ways that you don't get enough sleep to furnish you with the proper working energy.

You can, of course, keep going on black coffee and your nerves. But whenever you spend more energy than you are getting, you're issuing checks against the bank balance of future health.

And as these checks are cashed the balance dwindles. One "night" tonight must be repaid in later life—with compound interest.

SUBMARINES SINK TWO MORE SHIPS

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The sinking of the Danish steamer Hebe and the Dutch steamship Fortuna of 1,254 tons, was reported today at Lloyd's shipping agency. Ten survivors of the Fortuna were landed. The captain and 15 others, it is feared, were drowned.

It was also announced that the Donaldson liner Cabotta of 4,369 tons gross was believed to have been sunk. The Cabotta was 385 feet long and was built in 1909.

FLOUR PRICES RISE 50 CENTS A BARREL

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—Flour prices increased 25 to 50 cents a barrel here today as a result of the bullish condition of the wheat market, and reports of a strong foreign demand.

Flour patents, which sold Saturday at $9.95, were quoted today at $9.55. This grade of flour has increased 65 cents a barrel in one week. First clears sold for $7.50 today, an increase of 30 cents, while second clears sold at $5, an increase of 50 cents a barrel.

T. R. REPUDIATED BY PROGRESSIVE WHO NOMINATED HIM

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 24.—In the name of "all progressives by principle and conviction," Bainbridge Colby of New York, foremost leader of the progressive party, Saturday night nominated Woodrow Wilson for president of the United States, before an audience of 4,000 in the armory.

Mr. Colby was introduced by William Hanley, progressive candidate for United States senator from Oregon in 1913, as the man who twice had nominated Theodore Roosevelt at the progressive party national conventions in 1912 and 1916. This led Mr. Colby to offer an apology and to name for president the man who is now recognized as the true exponent of progressive principles.

"I want to say," continued Mr. Colby, "there never has been a nomination that will be followed so soon by an almost unanimous election. I am supporting President Wilson for re-election because he is the foremost progressive in the country today. I cannot understand how any progressive principle and conviction can do otherwise. The President's record of progressive achievement constitutes a claim on progressive support which no true Progressive can ignore or fail to heed, and I seriously question whether our party, had it prevailed in the 1912 election, could have accomplished half as much."

"Thirty-one separate and distinct planks of our 1912 platform have been translated into law by the Wilson administration and all the major principles for which, as a party, we progressives have stood and fought, are now effective statutes. I have no time tonight, but it is sufficient merely to call their impressive roll."

"How can any progressive hesitate? How can any progressive refuse his support to such a president on such a record without being false to his profession as a progressive?"

"Remember, my friends, it is the part of the independent in politics to approve and support, as well as to protest and revolt. We revolted in 1912 against conditions that had become intolerable in our public life. It is agreeable in this election to find that we can, with right good conscience and entire consistency, throw our strength as progressives to sustain an administration that has been honest, patriotic and efficient."

T. R. Not a Progressive. "And I say this notwithstanding the fact that the great man whom the progressives were wont to delight to honor has taken a different course and has advised us to combine with the republicans in this election."

"I had assumed that Colonel Roosevelt in his speeches would have something to say to the progressives, explaining his refusal longer to continue the fight for progressive principles. You progressives distinctly recall his pledges, delivered in 1913, that I win or lose, whatever the outcome, I am with you, and I am for this cause, to fight to the end."

"But I find that he now is not a progressive at all, but is a repentant republican."

Wilson Has Brought Prosperity. "His wise and progressive legislation has brought about an unparalleled prosperity throughout the nation, a prosperity falsely attributed to the war in Europe, but in reality due to such enlightened progressive measures as the currency act, the federal trade commission law, the rural credits law, and the agricultural education act, to mention only a few of the achievements of the Wilson administration."

"He has left the sordid and reactionary republican opposition nothing out of which to construct a genuine issue. The campaign of Hughes has already collapsed. His speeches are a source of dismay to his friends. His treatment of the progressives in all his speeches shows what Hughes wants.

Is Candidate of Reactionaries. "Hughes is the candidate of the reactionaries. His campaign is managed by the old guard. His party is the party of reaction. No progressive should be found among the following of Hughes. The action taken by the progressive national committee in endorsing Hughes was a breach of trust to the party. It has been repudiated in every state where discussion has been free and action unimpeded. And by the same token, regardless of the sentiment of attachment that still exists for him personally, will be declined by the progressives of the country."

Will Not Be Led Backward. "Roosevelt may be very angry, but we progressives also perceive that he is very wrong. He and the progressives have come to the parting of the ways. He refuses to lead us forward and we are determined that he shall not lead us backward."

The republican campaign is now in full cry. The air is filled with hissings, shrieks, rantings and ravings. Every detonating humbug and political calloph in the country has been drafted into service, and the noise is something awful. But it's only noise after all. The Jeremiah O'Leary's, the Roosevelts, the Koolbies, the Roots, the Beveridges, are endeavoring to envelop the presidency in a curtain of fire, under cover of which the cohorts of Wall street and privilege hope to sweep once more into power."

Hughes Seeks Disloyal Votes. "In the meantime Hughes pursues his dark lantern campaign of cowardly invasion, hoping to draw unto himself the support of every disloyal, alien, corrupt and un-American element in the country. His course in this campaign reminds me of the line spoken by the comedian when asked what he would be willing to do for $10,000. Trembling, he replied, 'I am ashamed to tell you.' What Mr. Hughes would do to attain the presidential office we now behold. He would apparently stoop to any distortion of facts, suppression of truth, crafty evasion, self-seeking, duplicity, and even if he is not ashamed to do it, I am ashamed to enumerate all that he apparently is willing to do."

50 LOSE LIFE IN LAKE ERIE STORM

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—Local managers of the steamer Merdia, owned by the Valley Camp Shipping company of Midland, Ont., conceded today that the ship was lost in Friday night's gale on Lake Erie. The admision came after seven bodies of the crew had been picked up in mid-lake by two other ships. So far as known, not a man of the crew of 23 survived the tragedy.

The loss of the Merdia makes four lake steamers which went to the bottom of Lake Erie in Friday's storm. The total loss of life is 50. The Marshal F. Butters sank with no loss of life, 12 of her crew being saved. The F. F. Filer went down with six of her crew only, the captain surviving. The James B. Colgate's crew of 22, with the exception of the captain, perished while every man on the Merdia is believed lost.

How do you make the Owl mellow? JUST use mellow tobacco," says Alec Wise-acres. But wait! Mellow means "thoroughly cured." And curing takes time. 18 months it takes—sometimes longer.

No ordinary, slap-dash manufacturing method will turn out a sure-enough mellow cigar. You've got to be sure every leaf is mellow before you use it.

They do this in the OWL factories. It takes a lot of time. It takes work—careful work. It takes an investment of over a million dollars in reserve leaf that is waiting to reach the proper degree of mellowness.

But the results make the effort worth while. For the OWL is a mellow smoke.
