

SAYS NOTHING CAN STOP LANDSLIDE TO WILSON IN EAST

Fred Heath, the druggist, has received the following letter from H. J. Kentfield, president of Electric Traction, a magazine devoted to electricity, dated Chicago, October 20, which gives an interesting glimpse into the political situation in the central states:

"I have just returned from the east. I talked with a great many big men in the manufacturing line and in the railroad business, and eight out of ten of them seem to think there is such a Wilson undercurrent started that nothing can stop it. I talked with men that have from 100 to 10,000 men under them, and they say that the labor vote is so strong for him they don't see how he can lose, no matter how much the employer hates him.

Labor for Wilson.

"I know one man who has over 600 men and nearly 100 women, and he told me they took a secret ballot and about 80 per cent of them were for Wilson and that he would vote against him, but had bet nearly a thousand dollars that he would be elected.

"I talked with a railway manager that I know well and he is a republican, and he told me that they took a poll along the interurban, and it is a big one, and the farmer vote is for Wilson by a big majority. Several big independent daily papers in the east have been taking secret polls in different localities, and outside of the owners of factories and some business men, the count shows Wilson way ahead.

"Cleveland has all kinds of war orders, and every man has a job. Common foreign laborers get 35 and 40 cents per hour, and yesterday I was told by Pete Witt that he thought the republican manufacturers would vote for Wilson, and even if they did not, that he would get such a vote from the laboring men that the county would almost swing the state, and he would not be surprised to see it go democratic.

Give Up Illinois.

"Even the Chicago Tribune, that can't say a good word for Wilson, came out this morning in two-inch letters and told about the 18,000 that got in to hear him last night, and the 25,000 that fought to get in and could not. The Herald said that no man since 1906 ever got such an ovation, and that the republicans have cancelled all the dates of the big speakers for Illinois, as they look at the state as lost.

"I believe it, as I heard a big steel man, a republican, say, and that is he thought the republicans would wake up the morning after election and pinch their legs and wonder how it happened.

"I saw a couple of good stickers down in New York state that were used locally. One was: 'General Sherman said, "War is hell." Will you vote to send your boy to hell?' The other was less raw: 'Sherman said, "War is hell." Are you going to vote to go?'

"I talked with a man I know on Wall street, a republican, and he is a good sport, and he told me the newspaper talk about 2 to 1 or 10 to 7 he thought just talk and paid for, as he never saw for the past four weeks better than 100 to 80, and now it's even."

MULES SMASH UP AUTO THAT GIVES THEM FREE RIDE

A pair of Missouri mules had the better of an encounter with a Maxwell car driven by Fred Collins late Monday afternoon. Collins was driving west along North Fir street. The team of mules belonging to William Stewart were proceeding south along Central, hitched to a wagon. Collins looked back for a moment and turned back to find the team of mules in the car, having driven the nose of the car under their middles and broken off the wagon tongue. Before the car was stopped the mules had been carried a hundred feet.

The mule which bore the brunt of the attack was cut in several places, while its companion was almost unhurt. The car is almost a wreck, the windshield being shattered, the cowl torn loose, the upholstery ruined and one side of the tonneau being torn completely loose from the body. Collins was unhurt except for a few cuts from flying glass. The only result, as far as the driver of the team was concerned, is a boundless astonishment at having his team carried away with so little warning.

Another accident occurred Monday afternoon when C. R. Wilson of the Overland agency struck a Ford driven by Carl Tengwald at the corner of Main and Central avenue, smashing the headlights of the Wilson car and breaking the rear axle of the Tengwald car.

Both accidents are a result, according to bystanders, of driving at too high a rate of speed and disregarding traffic approaching from intersections to the drivers' right.

OHIO FOR WILSON

But it is different this year, and nobody knows this any better than the republican managers.

The difference is just this—partisan prejudice, strong as it is in most of the rural communities, is not enough this year to overcome the deep seated conviction that the man in the white house has kept this country out of war, and that he deserves re-election for that reason, if for no other, even though he is a democrat.

There is not the slightest doubt that tens of thousands of voters in the rural counties of the state who never before voted for a democrat for president, will vote for Woodrow Wilson, "the man who kept us out of war."

There is not the slightest doubt that a greater percentage of the labor vote in the big cities will be polled for Wilson than has ever been polled for a democratic candidate for president.

For the Workingman.

This is not due alone to the president's attitude on the eight-hour law, but even more to the indisputable fact that the president and the democratic congress have been responsible for more legislation in the interest of the man who works with his hands than any four previous administrations.

That the candidates on the republican state ticket, particularly Herrick for the senate, and Willis for governor, appreciate the hopelessness of the Hughes cause is indicated by the character of their campaigns. Herrick is going it practically alone, hoping to win in spite of the Hughes load, on the strength of his record as ambassador to France. Willis is making his campaign almost exclusively on state issues.

It is agreed all around that Wilson is very much stronger than his party in Ohio; there is a great difference of opinion how much stronger.

It would not be surprising if the vote shows him to be a hundred thousand stronger; that is, that he will get that many votes more than Pomerehne or Cox.

Such a result would be most unusual, of course, but this is an unusual campaign.

None of which should be considered as prophecy. Nor is this prophesy: If Wilson runs a hundred thousand ahead of Cox or Pomerehne their defeat does not necessarily follow.

Roosevelt carried Ohio by more than 250,000 plurality against Parker in 1904.

And there are those who are so little impressed by the "hundred per cent candidate" that they put him in the Parker class.

WOMAN ORATOR PROVES SENSATION WILSON CAMPAIGN

In the person of Mrs. Laura J. Ahning, who resides on a farm near-by, Phoenix has furnished the oratorical surprise of the campaign. Without fireworks or hysteria, with quiet ease, Mrs. Ahning won the confidence and sympathy of her audience and sways them with a subtle and effective eloquence. For an hour at Phoenix Tuesday evening she held her large audience spellbound as she enumerated the reasons why every woman should support Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Ahning has lived in the valley for five or six years, but owing to poor health has never before appeared in public. She was the first woman to hold an elective office in the United States, having been elected years ago state superintendent of schools in South Dakota. She is a sister of Judge E. E. Kelly and lives with her husband on a ranch west of Phoenix. Medford people will be given a chance to hear her at the Wilson rally at the Page theater November 3.

Phoenix high school auditorium was packed with 160 or more people to hear about the Wilson administration. Miss Marian Towne, the first woman legislator in Oregon, acted as chairman. Other speakers were Porter J. Noff, who discussed the foreign policies, and Judge Kelly, who enumerated the domestic legislative program. Music was furnished by the Phoenix brass band. The speaking was followed by a box social.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Danielson of Vancouver, Wash., are spending the week in the city. They are considering making their home permanently in this locality.

Congressman Hawley addressed a Central Point audience on campaign issues Tuesday evening and Mark Weatherford a good sized audience at Ashland.

There is a Real Difference

Cream of tartar, derived from grapes, is used in Royal Baking Powder because it is the best and most healthful ingredient known for the purpose.

Phosphate and alum, which are derived from mineral sources, are used in some baking powders, instead of cream of tartar, because they are cheaper.

If you have been induced to use baking powders made from alum or phosphate, use Royal Baking Powder instead. You will be pleased with the results and the difference in the quality of the food.

HELPFUL LECTURES AT BAPTIST CHURCH

"It ought to be understood that in these days there is something for parents to study as well as for the child to study," said Dr. J. D. Springston last evening in the Sunday school workers' institute at the Baptist church, which is in session this week. "And the father or mother who points out defects so as to make them appear as marks in their children is a murderer in degrees." Dr. Springston is delivering the most helpful lectures every afternoon and evening this week, and a large number of the workers are availing themselves of this profitable course. If thousands of fathers and mothers could have learned some of the characteristics of children as Dr. Springston explains them, there would doubtless be fewer criminals today.
