EM-TEES

MODERN NURSERY RHyme: One misty, misty morning and cloudy was the weather, I was tackled by a big healthy, husky panhandler, and he was as tough as leather. "Say partner, could y'—"

On account of the war, brooms will be made with only one handle on the handle.

FABLE

Once upon time a man sat watching a moving picture and when the thrilling part came the people in front of him didn't get up to go out.

A tooth brush without a handle would be an unhandy piece of machinery.

Mr. Roberts went to Kansas City with a car load of hogs. Several of the neighbors went in together to make up the car.—Iola, Kas. Rochester.

Spaghetti is now served on spoons in Naples owing to the shortage of spaghetti cutters on account of the war.

A derby with skull chains to prevent it from sliding down over the ears has been perfected by a Denver hatter.

When mailing a letter with more than one stamp it is advisable to place the stamps side by side instead of on top of one another.

TO END CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 4 ounces of Perminol (double strength), and add to it one-quarter pint of hot water and four ounces of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head pains. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. A man who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should visit Drug Store, Atanga's Drug Store, Medford Pharmacy, West Side Pharmacy, Mackin's Drug Store and apply you.

SLIPPERY EVASIONS

WITH a great show of "frankness" the "hundred per cent candidate" is beginning to reply to questions as to what he would have done had he been president. And his replies, instead of clearing things up for the voters, add to the obscurity of the situation.

At Louisville, it will be remembered, he was asked what he would have done if he had been president when the Germans torpedoed the Lusitania. His reply was that had he been president the Germans would not have torpedoed the Lusitania.

At Sioux City, more recently, he was asked: "Will you urge the repeal of the Adamson eight-hour law for railway men, if you are elected president?"

To which he made this reply: "You cannot repeal a surrender."

The partisan republican newspapers are commending their candidate very highly for his "frankness with the people," etc.

Taking the Hughes reply at Sioux City for a text, the Chicago Herald winds up an enthusiastic half-column editorial with the comment:

"It is good for candidates to go on record on matters of vital importance."

It certainly is; that's exactly what the voters have a right to expect.

And now if the "hundred per cent candidate" will tell us what he would have done about the Lusitania and whether he will urge the repeal of the eight-hour law, we shall be glad to publish the answers for the enlightenment of our readers.

Certainly neither Candidate Hughes nor his newspaper supporters have so low an opinion of the intelligence of the voters as to expect that such slippery evasions will be accepted as answers.

AS TO GROVER CLEVELAND

THOSE of us whose middle life is abreast of the present day can well remember the abuse that was poured upon the head of Grover Cleveland by the same men who are now resorting to the same methods to defeat President Wilson.

And it seems to us the rankest hypocrisy that the Hughes spellbinders, particularly Roosevelt, are now referring to Grover Cleveland's "strength, courage and firmness" in comparison with what they are pleased to call Wilson's "weakness, cowardice and vacillation."

"Oh, for an hour of Grover Cleveland!" cries Roosevelt. "There was strength for you, and courage and firmness."

But Roosevelt does not say to what end the "strength, courage and firmness" of Grover Cleveland were directed.

The fact is that they were exerted to guide the nation into ways of peace against the influences that would have dragged the country into war then, as they would now.

Let us read a few words from Andrews' history, "The United States in Our Own Time," published in 1903:

"With his party and the people at large Mr. Cleveland's foreign policy was for a long time even less popular than his procedure touching tariff and finance. His ratification of an extradition treaty with Russia was violently criticized, as also his refusal to press Turkey for the human treatment of Christians in that empire. When, wholly without warrant, a Spanish gunboat fired on the Alliance, a United States passenger steamer off Cuba, many thought our government indecently dilatory in demanding reparation. When Great Britain occupied Corinto in Nicaragua, to compel the payment of $75,000 in reparation for Nicaragua's expulsion of Consul Hatch, an influential paper bitterly assailed the president for permitting this affront to the Monroe doctrine. Not a few felt that we meanly deferred to Great Britain, and even to Nicaragua. These complaints were not wholly partisan; democrats joined republicans in viewing Mr. Cleveland's foreign policy as spiritless and 'un-American.' The severest reprobation met his dealings in Hawaii."

And it should not be forgotten that except in the case of Hawaii, Grover Cleveland's decisions finally stood and were accepted by all.

HIS PEN OR YOUR LIFE

ONE of the best editorial indorsements of the campaign is that given by the Detroit News, an independent newspaper, to President Wilson in the following:

"A great deal of fun has been had over note-writing, although we used to be fond of quoting, 'The pen is mightier than the sword.' But President Wilson has had just two tools he could use—his pen with his brain behind it, or your life.

"That is all he had. He could send notes, or he could send human lives. He had to use either the tools of diplomacy, or he had to use American fathers and brothers and sons—of whom you likely would have been one.

"Now, aside from partisan preferences, which would you prefer a president to risk first—his pen, or your life? President Wilson tried his pen first. If the pen had failed through any weakness in its handling, he would have had to fall back on the bodies of American men, offered as sacrifices on the altar of battle.

"But the notes did not fail, because they were not weak notes, and they were not written by a weak man."

THE GENTLE COLONEL

IN his speech at Gallup, New Mexico, Colonel Roosevelt thus replied to a heckler:

"Yes, and the reason you're working is that the war offset the effects of the democratic tariff." "But we were not working in 1907 and 1908 when you were in." "Friend," rejoined the Colonel, "I never in my life asked you to vote for me on the ground that I would keep your belly full. I have no claim on the man who puts his belly before his soul."

Yet, the Colonel was making this "appeal to the belly" when interrupted—it's the sort of a soul appeal the Colonel and the old guard always make.

Unable to answer the railroad man's heckling, the Colonel called him "a fool and a coward," and told him "to go home and sober up."

A temperate, self-respecting and dignified retort from a former president of the United States, fully in keeping with the self-control, patience and dignity of the gentle Colonel, contrasting forcibly with the "wobbling, weak and vacillating" replies of the president he is so roundly abusing.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK FOR HUGHES SEEN IN N. Y. HERALD POLL

The New York Herald poll of last Sunday indicates that Wilson will sweep the country on November 7. The Herald says:

"With election day just fifteen days off, the presidential tide is drifting towards Wilson. Mr. Hughes has made gains in states which are ordinarily republican, but which this year are not only in doubt, but likely to decide the election. The states in which Mr. Hughes, in the Herald's straw vote, has made gains, are New York (top-state), Connecticut, Idaho, Massachusetts, Montana, South Dakota and New Jersey. The states where the president has made gains are Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Mr. Hughes has been losing. He is much weaker than his party. President Wilson has been gaining. He is much stronger than his party."

Wilson is given 208 votes as assured. Hughes 147, and 176 are classed as doubtful. The Hughes list includes California, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming, many of which are claimed by the democrats. The doubtful states are listed as Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island, Washington, all of which are claimed by the democrats. The Herald admits that Wilson can win without New York, but that Hughes cannot.

Considering the fact that the poll is taken by newspapers supporting Hughes, like the Portland Oregonian, Los Angeles Times, etc., and that the Herald is supporting Hughes also, the outlook, as the Herald says, "is gloomy for Hughes."

HANG OUT FLAGS FOR OBSERVANCE OF WILSON DAY

Tomorrow there will be a nationwide observance of "Woodrow Wilson day" by the Wilson leagues and clubs. Special programs will be read and a proclamation by the president on Americanism will be read. As every day is Wilson day with the local Wilson workers, there will be no special observance, but Wilson admirers are asked to hang out American flags on their residences.

The president will receive a big delegation at Shadow Lawn. The day has been designated as "New York day" there, and already hundreds of prominent business men have signified their intention of making the pilgrimage. To these visitors the president will read his proclamation.

Messis, Kelly and Neff spoke on Wilson policies at the Willow Springs school house Thursday evening and received hearty applause from the assembled farmers. Tonight they speak at Lake Creek and Saturday evening at Agate.
