FIRST CONGRESSWOMAN PREPARING FOR HER INVASION OF WASHINGTON

MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 23.—What's to become of congress with a woman in its ranks?

While the nation was still rubbing its eyes over the novelty of a woman's winning a place in the national body of lawmakers, the woman herself, Miss Jeannette Rankin, is at home here with her family, soberly preparing for her invasion of Washington.

First of her sex to win these national honors, she is saying nothing as to what she proposes doing when she gets to the capitol. In the meanwhile the nation is doing its utmost to make her a curiosity.

Newspaper men and movie men are besieging her home by night and by day, but with gentle rebuffs Miss Rankin is consistently denying them a peep into her political plans.

For eight years she has worked for suffrage. She has sacrificed her time and money. Through her campaigns to place her sex on a par with men at the polls she has achieved national prominence.

A young western woman is Miss Rankin. Her life was begun on a Montana ranch. Her education was gained in a western university, the University of Montana, here at Missoula.

During her college career Miss Rankin paid frequent visits to the east. The swarming tenement districts, with their neglected, half-starved children, aroused her sympathies. She plunged into a deep study of social conditions. And this led to social settlement work in the great eastern metropolis and San Francisco.

Miss Rankin generated the campaign for the suffrage amendment in Montana's legislature in 1911-12. And she was chairman of the Montana Suffrage association which waged a statewide campaign in the winning fight of 1913-14. She is a republican.

During that time, too, she carried on the fight elsewhere. In 1911-12, she lobbied in the New York legislature for suffrage as field secretary of the National Suffrage association. To her was entrusted the suffrage

Mrs. M. D. Way, her sister, Miss Harriet Dayton, and Miss Carrie Mitchell left on Thursday for Long Beach, to winter in California.

Dr. Earl R. Abbott, former Ashland boy and son of a well-known Methodist pastor in earlier days, has graduated in dentistry and opened offices in the Selling building, Portland.

A committee will meet with the legislative representatives-elect on Friday evening, November 24, to discuss and plan the campaign for reopening the Normal school here.

The number three is a hoodoo to a certain stretch of track on the Southern Pacific near Kennett. Within three days three men were killed on a section of the line three miles in extent. Two of the victims were trespassing on the right of way and the third fell from a train.

E. E. Phipps has made a formal announcement as candidate for city recorder, pledging economy and urging reform.

The new officers of the Civic Improvement club will entertain the former ones at a 6 o'clock dinner, at Hotel Austin, Friday evening this week. Covers will be laid for an even dozen. This banquet implies that both guests and hosts will not only dine sumptuously, but that they are also eager to outline and renew policies of municipal betterments for the year 1917.

The Shriners, after their recent ceremonial, contributed the aftermath of the traditional banquet to the needy, the distribution being under auspices of the Sunshine society. The remembrance was timely and thoughtful, and it is hoped that other organizations under similar circumstances will do likewise.

The threatened invasion of this terminal by the I. W. W., dug here Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, at the hands of a band of malcontents who had been expelled from Washington and northern Oregon centers, did not materialize to the extent which threatened to assume the proportions of a disturbance. Without even seeking food and shelter, the normal hobo travel at this season of the year is proceeding in relays to the sunny southland, oblivious to low round-trip fares and the car shortage.

Pat Smith and family, late residents here, are now occupying the Wilson ranch on the Pacific highway near Talent.

VIENNA IN MOURNING FOR HER DEAD RULER

VIENNA, Nov. 24.—(Delayed).—A leaden sky, wet streets, mourning flags, with the black beating against walls, the mournful tolling of bells, made Vienna today a veritable city of grief.

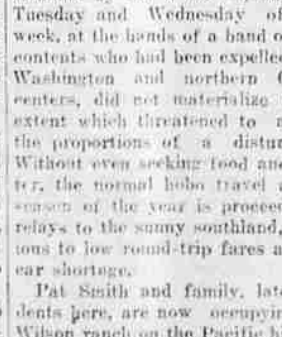

Our emperor," does not yet refer to the young man who ascended the throne last night. It is still meant for the old man who for nearly seventy years presided over the dual monarchy, the ten races of which gave him their love and devotion.

Emperor Francis Joseph was the foundation upon which the dual monarchy rested. This fact gives to the death of the old emperor and the accession of the new a peculiar significance.

While in Budapest last night there were shouts of "long live the king!" the Viennese still enjoy themselves with the passing of the old man who was their co-citizen for so many years and to whom they owed allegiance. The emperor had come to be regarded as an institution predestined to live forever and when the hour came to prove that there is nothing on earth eternal, it found the minds of the people wholly unprepared.

HOBOS HELD FOR TRYING TO SHOOT TRAIN BRAKEMEN

Louis Lavine and George Botts were bound over to the grand jury this morning by Justice Taylor on the weapon. Bond was fixed at $500 each, which they were unable to furnish.

W. H. Carroll of Dunsmuir, Cal., appeared as complaining witness, testifying that Lavine shot at him from a distance of four feet Sunday night when Carroll, who is brakeman on a freight, ordered the men off the train between Mistletoe and Stine-man, on the Siskiyou.

Following the shooting the men jumped from the train, catching on, however, further back.

Carroll's clothes, but bullet holes through the right side just above the waist, were shown. Except for a ridge raised by the bullet, the brakeman escaped unharmed.

Other witnesses were F. A. Maxwell, another brakeman, who testified to having seen Lavine fire at Carroll; H. D. Barbour, conductor, who also witnessed the incident, and O. E. Thomas, special agent of the Southern Pacific.

Sunday night an attempt was made by the men to escape from the jail at Hornbrook, where they were held until Monday, when they were lodged in the jail at Jacksonville. Late Sunday night flames were discovered in the jail, the men having set their bed on fire, thinking that in the confusion a chance to escape might arise.

Latter in the night an attempt to break open the jail from the outside was frustrated. As both men bore I. W. W. cards, it is thought that some of the members of that order had tried to release them.

The case will be heard by the grand jury in the February session.

NO REASON TO BE SCARED OVER U-BOAT CRISIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Revival of rumors of a renewal of ruthless submarine warfare by Germany and consequent action by the United States, were met today by the statement of officials here that the situation, while delicate, was absolutely unchanged and would be until the United States had gathered all the evidence on the recent attacks.

The state department still is waiting the result of investigation and meanwhile officials reiterate that the position of the United States as laid down in the last correspondence with Germany is unchanged.

It made clear that a severance of diplomatic relations would follow any violation of the pledges from Berlin. Referring to reports of an alarming situation, Secretary Lansing authorized this statement:

"I do not know the origin of the stories regarding the submarine situation, but I have the impression that they are emanating from some source in this country."

It was made clear that the situation was unchanged.

BRITISH STEAMER ERNASTON SUNK BY SUBMARINE

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Twelve members of the 3000-ton British steamer Ernaston were landed today. They reported the steamship had been sunk. The captain and the remainder of the crew are in another boat, the whereabouts of which is unknown.

VILLA TWICE DEFEATED

(Continued From Page One.) short time to the concentrated fire of the remaining Villa forces. But Ozuna's work was beginning to tell.

During the last phase of the battle, General Trevino remained on Santa Rosa, directing the artillery which played until about 7:30 p. m., when darkness rendered further work ineffective.

The casualties of the battle were extremely heavy. The Villa forces, exposed to trench fire during the assaults, are believed to have lost about 400 men, killed and wounded. Villa himself directed his command from a hill in the neighborhood of the dam.

General Trevino, at the end of the day, considered the enemy decisively beaten, nevertheless took every precaution against a surprise attack.

POPULATION OF U. S. NOW 102,826,309

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The population of continental United States on January 1, 1917, will be 102,826,309, and with its outlying possessions 113,309,285, the census bureau estimates, upon the increase as shown by the federal census of 1900 and 1910.

Treasury department statisticians using a different method of calculations, estimated the population of continental United States as 102,002,000 on November 1.
