Ashland enjoyed a "white" Christmas, with the typical setting of nearly a foot of snow on the level in this territory. The gala event of the day was the entertainment at the Vining theatre, given by the Elks in behalf of the little folks. In the afternoon those from infancy to eight years of age were the guests, and in the evening those whose ages ranged from 8 to 12 were recipients of the hospitality of Ashland Lodge No. 244. The invitation to the festivities was general to the children and each one received a substantial gift. This event is a fixed one in the Elks calendar.

Mrs. Robert Hall of Harvard, Ill., was a holiday visitor with relatives in the Nims, Saunders and Bagley families. She is on her way to southern California and will visit here again before returning to the central west next spring.

The Beaver and Yockey clans to the number of about a dozen were the guests on Monday of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Calhoun, at a Christmas dinner and family reunion at Easterling's restaurant. The hostess is the mother of Mrs. A. M. Beaver and is a remarkably spry old lady 88 years young.

After routine business matters have been disposed of there will be an open meeting to which all Odd Fellows are invited, including Rebekahs.

Another meeting to further the organization of a rod and gun club will be held at the city hall on Friday evening of this week. The time is propitious and it is planned to get the new club lined up to effectively assist in enforcing the fish and game laws.

Fred Putnam met with a severe loss on Christmas day in the death by accident of his favorite horse, "Chub." Everybody knows "Chub" and "Hal," Fred's fine team of sorrels. On Christmas morning they were turned out as usual at the barn premises on First street for an outing in the yard. "Chub" in his playfulness got hold of an electric light wire with fatal results. The wire was one of the ordinary light classification, capacity 110 volts, but this was too much for equine resistance, as it proved. The animal was an unusually fine one and a general favorite. The team was well matched and efficient workers.

Beebe & Kinney have gone out of business, their big store on the Plaza having gone out of existence by liquidation last Saturday evening. The firm, in its various ramifications, has been a center line in this vicinity for over thirty years, and the familiar headquarters are well known throughout the entire country.
