JAP OBJECTIONS FAIL TO DEFEAT IMMIGRATION BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The senate late today, by a vote of 62 to 19, re-passed the immigration bill over the veto of the president, despite a warning from the state department that the Asiatic exclusion section might result in disturbing amicable relations with Japan. The measure, containing the literacy test, fought over for twenty years and vetoed by three presidents, now becomes a law. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—New objections from Japan to the language of the Asiatic exclusion section of the vetoed American immigration bill were disclosed in the senate today when Senator Reed, fighting the proposal to re-pass the bill over the president's veto announced he had been authorized by the state department to say that the Japanese embassy had called attention to the provisions. The bill as finally passed was thought to meet all objections. The house already has re-passed the bill over the veto. There were some indications that the international situation might influence the senate not to re-pass the bill, although it was expected to do so under ordinary circumstances. The administration already has successfully used its influence to prevent passage of anti-alien land bills in Idaho and Oregon objected to by Japan, and a desire not to irritate relations with Japan now is evident in all administration quarters. This has been accentuated by the favorable reception in Japan of President Wilson's action in breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany which has been most gratifying to the government.

STOCKS RISE ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Wall street began the day in a mood more serious than at any time since the beginning of the war. On the stock exchange the attendance, despite the storm, was larger than any day since the memorable first day of August, 1914, when the exchange entered upon an enforced and prolonged period of suspension. The tone of the market at the opening was strong with gains of 1 to 3 1/2 points in American smelting, Lackawanna Steel, Utah Copper and Central Leather. United States Steel made an initial gain of 2 points at 106 on its offering of 2,500 shares. Bethlehem Steel old stock rose 15 points, while the new stock was off three points.

SCHOOLMASTERS CLUB DISCUSSES PROPOSED LAWS

The Schoolmasters' Club of Southern Oregon met at Phoenix Saturday, February 3rd. The meeting was held in the high school building. The session was called to order at 10:30 a. m. by President E. B. Stanley of Central Point. The business session was devoted to the discussion of proposed school legislation. Round table discussion, "Vocational Guidance," P. H. Daily, leader. Following are a few excerpts from the different views given by the speakers. Superintendent Briscoe said that vocational training should be studied from some other source than that of a specialist. The specialist has the same remedy for all conditions. The boy or girl should realize the importance of any hire of work, and what will be expected of them if they follow this particular hire of work. The world has a right to demand this of you. Principal Matthews stated that "Vocational Guidance" should lead the pupils to ask "What the work of the world is, and what it expects of us?" Principal Stanley said "That not over 50 per cent of the graduates of the O. A. C. followed the hire of work for which they had prepared themselves." Superintendent Hull stated that the vocation was largely decided by the community and that the boy or girl had but little to say about the selection of a vocation. The vocation is thrust upon us. Character building should be the larger element of the school. The first duty of every one is to make the most and best of one's self. Superintendent Hills said he believed that "Vocational Guidance" should be a special subject and taught under the supervision of an expert. The afternoon session was opened by a musical program given by the pupils of the Phoenix schools and greatly enjoyed by those present. Porter J. Neff spoke on the "County Unit," stating that eighteen states have already adopted this method and that it was one of the live issues before the people of today. Mr. Neff said if this method could be adopted in our own state it would have a tendency to improve the conditions of our rural schools. Then followed a talk by Superintendent Daniel Hull of Grants Pass "On the demands which the junior high school has brought about." The junior high school is an organization which takes into consideration the problem of pre-adolescence, and tries to fit itself to the needs of the boys and girls from twelve to fifteen years of age, holding the best features of the early grade work and using such features of the high school as are best suited to the pupils of this age. Its organization permits more liberty than the grade school and less than that of the high school. The domestic science department of the Phoenix school served an excellent luncheon at the home of the Misses Towne. The next meeting will be held about the middle of April in the high school building at Rogue River. P. E. Terry of Corvallis is a Medford visitor for a few days.

JACKSON COUNTY ICE AND CREAMERY FACTORY BURNS

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the wooden building of the Weinhard ice plant and the Jackson County creamery this morning. When discovered by persons on Main street, who observed the flames breaking through the peak of the roof, the fire had gained good headway. Firemen discovered the blaze from the fire station and turned in their own alarm. With three lines of hose on the flames, they succeeded in saving all the butter and ice-making machinery. The pasteurizer and butter-making machines were in operation and the noise created by these machines is thought to have been responsible for employees not being aware of the fire. No estimate has been made of the loss. The building, which is owned by the Henry Weinhard Co. of Portland, was originally a brewery and was constructed with double walls having sawdust between. There was $3000 insurance on the building. A stock of parchment paper valued at $700 was partially destroyed. Temporary offices for the company have been established in the Korinek building. S. A. Kroschel, manager of the creamery, stated this afternoon that it is probable that the plant will be rebuilt. Ralph Everts of Tillamook, Ore., is a Medford visitor for a few days.
