ASHLAND AND VICINITY

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Glenn return this week from an extensive residence at Glendale, Cal., in the vicinity of Los Angeles. They will occupy their old home here indefinitely, the length of their stay depending upon Mr. Glenn's condition as to freedom from asthmatic troubles.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational denomination will give a patriotic social in the Sunday school rooms of the church on Friday evening of this week. Refreshments will supplement a literary program. Proceeds are to go towards securing a flag for the church.

The house and three lots on Sherman street, belonging to the estate of the late A. W. Atterbury, has been sold to Dr. W. E. Buchanan, principal of the Bellview schools, who will occupy it, and make substantial improvements. The sale was made by the W. H. Hodgson agency.

Bruce Linniger, another of the local naval reserves, left for Bremerton on Sunday evening.

Burkhardt's shoeshop, now located in the Allen block, is to move soon into the Cunningham block a few doors west, making room for the installation of the Jackson County Abstract company's offices in the Allen property.

Prof. A. L. Peck, member of the Q. A. C. faculty at Corvallis, lectured Monday night at the library, his topic being "Landscape Gardening and its Application to Park Improvement," an opportune theme in view of the scope of improvements now under way here along these lines.

Consolidation being the order of the day the Dodge car agency has been merged with that of the Ford, with Lee Hall as manager of both apartments at Ford headquarters, Hotel Austin annex.

Bob Tweed and Jim Adams, former Ashland boys and members of First company, now engaged in graduate work at the O. A. C., Corvallis, have been commissioned as first lieutenants, subject to call for active service from the officers' reserve corps. Qualification for these exacting requirements was galvanized by virtue of experience with the cadet organization at the state institution.

The Ride of Paul Revere

Today is the one hundred and forty-second anniversary of the ride of Paul Revere, and here is Longfellow's poem describing that famous event of our early history:

Listen, my children, and you shall hear Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere, On the eighteenth of April, in seventy-five; Hardly a man is now alive Who remembers that famous day and year.

He said to his friend, "If the British march By land or sea from the town tonight, Hang a lantern aloft in the belfry-arch Of the North church tower, as a signal light— One if by land, and two if by sea; And I on the opposite shore will be, Ready to ride and spread the alarm Through every Middlesex village and farm, For the country-folk to be up and to arm."

Then he said good night, and with muffled ear Silently row'd to the Charlestown shore, Just as the moon rose over the bay, Where, swinging wide at her moorings, lay The Somerset, British man-of-war: A phantom ship, with each mast and spar Across the moon, like a prison-bar, And a huge, black hull, that was magnified By its own reflection in the tide.

Meanwhile his friend, through alley and street, Wanders and watches with eager ears, Till in the silence around him he hears The master of men at the barrack door, The sound of arms and the tramp of feet, And the measured tread of the grenadiers Marching down to their boats on the shore.

Then he climb'd to the tower of the church, Up the wooden stairs, with stealthy tread, To the belfry-chamber overhead, But mostly he watch'd with eager search The belfry tower of the old North church, As it rose above the graves on the hill, Lonely, and spectral, and sombre, and still.

And, lo! as he looks, on the belfry's height, A glimmer, and then a gleam of light! He springs to the saddle, the bridle he turns, But lingers and gazes, till full on his sight A second lamp in the belfry burns!

A hurry of hoofs in a village street, A shape in the moonlight, a bulk in the dark, And beneath the pobbles, in passing, a spark Struck out by a steed that flies fearless and fleet:

That was all! And yet, through the gloom and the light The fate of a nation was riding that night; And the spark struck out by that steed, in his flight, Kindled the land into flame with its heat.

He heard the beating of the flock, And the twitter of birds among the trees, And felt the breath of the morning breeze Blowing over the meadows brown. And one was safe and asleep in his bed Who at the bridge would be first to fall, And startled the pigeons from their perch On the sombre rafters, that round him made Masses and moving shapes of shade; Up the light ladder, slender and tall, To the highest window in the wall, Where he paused to listen and look down A moment on the roofs of the quiet town, And the moonlight flowing over all.

Meanwhile, impatient to mount and ride, Booted and spurred, with a heavy stride, On the opposite shore walk'd Paul Revere, Now he patted his horse's side, Now gaz'd on the landscape far and near, Then impetuous stamp'd the earth, And turn'd and tighten'd his saddle girth; Who that day would be lying dead, Pierced by a British musket ball.

You know the rest. In the books you have read How the British regulars fired and fled; How the farmers gave them ball for ball, From behind each fence and farmyard wall, Chasing the redecoats down the lane, Then crossing the fields to emerge again Under the trees at the turn of the road, And only pausing to fire and load.

So through the night rode Paul Revere; And so through the night went his cry of alarm To every Middlesex village and farm— A cry of defiance, and not of fear— A voice in the darkness, a knock at the door, And a word that shall echo for evermore!

For borne on the night-wind of the Past, Through all our history, to the last, In the hour of darkness, and peril, and need, The people will waken and listen to hear The hurrying hoof-beat of that steed, And the midnight message of Paul Revere.

—Henry Longfellow.

Chet Bryant, well known railroad man and who during the past winter has been conductor of the Swing freight between Redding and Gerber, has been transferred to the local freight service on the Klamath Falls branch.

The city in behalf of its police department has invested in a cop auto in order to respond quickly to emergency calls. Type, an Overland; capacity, seven passenger; speed, geared to whatever may be the requirements when the patrols are summoned.

Katherine Trevette, of Chicago, recidivist and impersonator, will appear at the high school gym, Friday evening, April 20.

Mrs. Chester Stevenson has returned from a recent visit to Mrs. Jane Hansen of Medford.

Polk's Gazetteer for 1917-18, the standard publication which is authority as to all towns and their activities, is being delivered to subscribers throughout this section.

Dr. J. S. Parsons, veteran local practitioner, is consulting physician of the Ashland Red Cross chapter, headquarters of which are now established in fine rooms in the Elks' temple, which have been fitted up and are being equipped with every requisite at the hands of business men and citizens in general.

Alpha Chapter initiated a bevy of young ladies into the Eastern Star order on Tuesday evening, the girls taking upon themselves the obligation of fraternal fellowship affiliations in behalf of Red Cross and Honor Guard service assumed recently. This accession to the ranks of the younger social element of the chapter was made the occasion of a large gathering of the Star membership.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nash, of Long Beach, Cal., have been recent visitors here with relatives in the family of J. P. Dodge. They were on their way to Winnipeg, Manitoba, to look after property interests where they formerly resided.

D. M. Lowe of the Valleyview district, attended a meeting of the Jackson County Business Men's association, at Medford on Monday evening, and reviewed the status of county fair matters. Lowe is the right-hand man of fair exploitation methods and urges early action along all lines in behalf of the 1917 exhibit. As to crops, "Plant early and diversify," is his motto as an expert.

Over 125 tickets were sold here for the New York Symphony Orchestra entertainment which was given at Medford on Tuesday evening.

A suggestion has been made, following example set in other towns, that patriotic fund boxes be placed in local hotels, banks, theatres and stores in general, in order that odd nickels and dimes casually contributed may find their way to add an extra measure of comfort to the boys' field and in garrison.

Marsh Wagner celebrated his birthday anniversary on Sunday at the family home on Oak street, in the presence of many Ashland relatives and a visiting contingent from down the valley. A composite dinner afforded a sumptuous repast as prepared from the best recipes of a score of skillful cooks among the ranks of three generations. Al Kinney carved the plum pudding, Thad Miles of Medford gave thanks, and one and all pronounced a benediction upon the superlative merits of the birthday cake which was a gaily decorated 42-centimeter affair, although it is a matter of record in old pioneer history that the guest of honor is over fifty years young.

The cottage and nearly an acre of ground on Quincy street owned by E. P. Greenman, has been sold to J. V. Wright at present residing on Lincoln street, who will take possession of his new purchase at an early date. The Beaver Realty company negotiated this deal.

Ad Helms of Medford was in town Tuesday on business. Oriando Didra has rented his fine home on North Main street, near the Methodist church, and will return with his family to his former location at Waseca, Minn. D. M. Watt, now occupying the Estes property on North Main, will move into the Didra residence, inasmuch as Mr. Estes is to return soon from Oklahoma for his customary summer outing here.

These several changes will take place in May.

In efforts to conserve the supply, Redding is to institute a survey of foodstuffs, a work which in its scope will include all of Shasta county. Klamath county is contemplating a like survey.

Louis Dodge is in Portland this week on a business trip.

The Neil creek school district will hold a local institute on Saturday, April 21, with morning and afternoon sessions. Among those on a program replete with live topics are local and outside parties, including Miss Blanche Hicks of the Ashland library, Earl Kilpatrick of the University of Oregon, Mrs. Eva Lane Walker of Central Point, and County Superintendent Ager of Jacksonville.

Dinner will be served by the parent-teacher circle of that district. The institute being held on Saturday, a number of Ashland parent-teacher workers will attend.

Without further ado over the matter, compulsory military training is in effect at the state university, Eugene.

Scott.

SALTS IF BACKACHY AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink lots of water and stop eating meat for a while if your bladder troubles you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water seals and you are often to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.
