GOVERNOR WITHYCOMBE IS GIVEN LUNCHEON

Governor Withycombe was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Ashland Commercial club Tuesday noon at the Austin hotel in that city. Nearly one hundred men and women of Ashland attended and gave the chief executive of the state a hearty and enthusiastic reception. Fred D. Wagner, former state representative, presided as toastmaster, and speeches were made by Withycombe, Mayor C. E. Gates, and W. H. Gore. The governor spoke of the serious crisis now confronting the nation and urged the people of Oregon to bend every effort to keep the state at the head in the task of bringing the war to a speedy and successful conclusion. He said Oregon was the first state in the union to have its full quota completed and believed the record of prompt and loyal support of the government would be sustained.

Mayor Gates delivered a strong plea for the $6,000,000 good roads bond issue and declared there should be a school house campaign carried on throughout the rural districts. He volunteered to do his part as a campaigner.

W. H. Gore closed the speaking by urging the ladies to assist in the good roads campaign and said that the success of the measure really depended upon the ladies getting into the fight throughout the county.

A. L. Cross of Butte Falls is a visitor in the city today.

WATER RATES FOR IRRIGATION FIXED

The city council at its meeting last night amended the water ordinance to fix rates for the food preparedness gardens and lots of the city. For the season of irrigation the cost is 5 cents per every 100 square feet. This makes the water charge for an ordinary lot of 100x50 feet, $2.50 for the season.

The proposed ordinance to have all movers report weekly to the chief of police the names of the people they moved, where they were moved to and where they moved from, was defeated.

The jitney license ordinance was amended to permit each public vehicle of that kind to carry 25 per cent passengers over its seating capacity.

The council also voted to have the banks having on deposit city money furnish surety company bonds for $10,000 each instead of the personal bonds as heretofore.

An ordinance was passed restricting the passage of heavily loaded trucks and tractor engines over city streets.

PATRIOTISM SHOWN.

Form but shouldering rifles, immediately followed by the Medford members of the National Rifle association, also carrying rifles.

Now with military bearing and marching stride, wearing plug hats, came those men of peace, the ministers of all denominations in the city. At their head was carried a banner reading "Medford Clergymen," and a large flag.

Then followed the Medford lodge of Elks, the first fourteen Elks in the line carrying a huge flag. The Elks had about 200 men in line, probably the largest single delegation of the parade.

The Woodmen of the World delegation was next in line, with a small cabin mounted on wheels at their head. All the Woodmen carried red banners and small axes.

Schools in Line.

The public school delegations followed led by the high school band. Following immediately in the rear of the high school students came the children of the grade schools, most of them carrying small flags. Not a few had wooden guns on their shoulders and others carried rakes and hoes. The costumes of many of the children were varied.

Headed by a large flag and with each man carrying a small flag came the Rogue River University club of Medford. At their head was carried a banner on which were printed the following: "Our Families, Vocations, All—we place on the altar of our country's call."

Mounted on horses then came the Ashland round-up delegation, the riders, men and women, all being in cowboy costume.

Then came the Japanese delegation of Medford, marching three abreast. The first three were women, the center one being garbed as a Red Cross nurse, and the other two wearing dresses.

The Ladies Riding club of Medford followed mounted on spirited horses. The Commercial club of the city was next in line, followed by the Army of the Hoe, with County Agriculture Agent Cate at their head. The army consisted of citizens armed with hoes, rakes, pruners and pitchforks. This delegation was appropriately followed by a load of straw on which sat a man holding a pitchfork on the handle of which was fastened a cute little flag. The Willow Springs school children, riding on a huge auto truck came next. The last feature of the big procession but not quite the least consisted of "Shorty" Garnett marching by himself, holding aloft a huge ho which had at its top a small flag.

"God's Country and the Woman," a drama of the Northwest is from the story by James Oliver Curwood. There have been many pictures shown of life in the wilds of the Northwest but none that exceed this in interest and artistic treatment. The photography is splendid, and each and every member of the cast is a finished player. The result is one of the best pictures that the Vitagraph Company has ever produced and shown.
