"Rhodes' grass" is the name of a forage crop entirely new to this valley, although J. W. Bybee has been experimenting with it for three years on his ranch near Jacksonville. It is a native of South Africa and is an attractive grass in appearance. It probably belongs to the Sudan grass family, although it is more delicate in stem and foliage. The sample left on exhibition at the Commercial club rooms is about five feet in height and is said to have grown to that length in five weeks, showing a most vigorous and rapid growth. It appears to be a very succulent plant and Mr. Bybee says it is apparently very palatable to stock. No statement is available today as to its productivity. Should it be a generous producer in yield, it is worth a careful trial in his valley.

DOCTORS NEEDED ON FRENCH FRONT

Goodwin, ranking medical officer of the Balfour commission today appealed to the American Medical association convention to send 200 doctors and 200 nurses to the western front each month, declaring that human endurance cannot stand much more than the surgeons of the entente allies are now undergoing.

"On a short line there are from 20,000 to 30,000 wounded in but few hours," he said. "Shall we leave them there are get them to the hospitals? I think you will realize that the medical men must be on the firing line if the wounded are to receive proper care. Our losses of medical men have been considerable."

Among the speakers today was Dr. R. W. Corwin of Pueblo, Colorado. Dr. Arthur D. Bevin of Chicago, was elected president of the association for the year of 1918-19.

WANT ROCK PILE FOR DRUNKARDS TO WORK OUT FINES

During a short informal debate last night every member of the city council and Mayor Gates expressed himself vigorously as favoring the strict enforcement of the state bone dry law, and as in favor of compelling all intoxication prisoners who are unable to pay fines imposed to work out their fines in some sort of employment for the city, and commented also that prisoners be made to tell where they got their liquor.

The debate was precipitated by the monthly report of Police Judge Taylor, which showed that three men arrested for intoxication and who were unable to pay their fines had been released. The entire discussion was brief and informal, but it is probable that in the near future steps will be taken by the council to compel a more strict enforcement of the law.

Police Judge Taylor politely stated Thursday that he was doing his part and that the councilmen should do theirs before talking wildly about compelling prisoners unable to pay fines to work them out for the benefit of the city.

Wants a Rock Pile. "I am perfectly willing," he said, "to make drunks work out their fines if the city will provide work for them to do, and always have been. I think from now on I will put the issue squarely up to the council by sending every man to jail who is unable to pay his fine. That is all I can do, and it is then up to the city council to provide work for the man."

"For years I have advocated that the city have a rock pile or something like that at which prisoners can be made to work out their fines. The county, too, should have the same thing."

"Under the law offenders must either pay their fines or work out their sentences in jail at the rate of $2 a day. A judge, of course, is always supposed to use common sense judgment in imposing sentences or remitting them. The odd part of this council flare up last night, as I heard it related, is that a number of the councilmen have repeatedly told me not to send prisoners who were unable to pay fines to the city jail, because such procedure was only an expense and bother to the city as the city had no way of letting them work out the fines."

Three Cases Cited. "Now take these three cases that started this council discussion last night. What would any councilman who criticized have done as judge under the circumstances?"

"C. F. Detwiler, for instance, pleaded guilty to intoxication. I fined him $10 and costs. He had no money and he had a family to support. Then there was Samuel Sanders who was arraigned before me for intoxication. He was without a cent and was in very poor health. I continued both these cases pending good behavior. Both these men got drunk at Hornbrook, California, and then came here in that condition and were arrested."

"The third case which was included in my report to the council was that of a man who gave the police the name of S. Smith and put up cash bail of $15 for his appearance in my court. He never appeared and his $15 was forfeited. I never even saw him, but of course put the case in my monthly report."

Got in California. "In the big majority of intoxication cases that come before me the prisoners got their booze in California. Every intoxication case before me is called to the attention of County Prosecutor Roberts both by myself and the police and he makes an investigation as to where each got his liquor on which he became intoxicated."

Robert Corcoran who got off train 16 last night in a badly intoxicated condition and was arrested by Officer Timothy, was sentenced by Judge Taylor this morning to pay a fine of $10 or be sent to the city jail for five days. Corcoran said he preferred to go to jail and so he was committed to that place of confinement.

WATER SHUT OFF FROM IRRIGATION VIOLATORS OF CITY

No immediate relief is in sight in the water situation and the best promise that the city officials can hold forth is that within the next two or three days there will be a normal supply of water both for irrigation and ordinary use.

The situation was much improved today. Less water is pouring from the Fish lake dam and consequently Little Butte creek is lowering gradually and the water in the creek is beginning to clear up. It was that by tonight the work of repairing the break at Fish lake dam would be completed by the Rogue River Canal company. When the repair work is completed the flood gates of the dam which have been opened to allow the dam water to run through will be closed, and then the creek will clear up.

City Water Superintendent Arrspiger is at the city water intake, 13 miles this side of the dam with a crew of city employes ready to begin the work of making quick temporary repairs at the intake. Before returning to the intake this forenoon he said that within six hours after the flood gates of the dam were closed and the high creek water had subsided he could have the creek water pouring into the intake and on its way to the city. It is expected that the creek water will clear up very quickly after the flood gates are closed.

Then the Wassen canyon water which has been supplying the city since last night will be shut off.

Under orders of Mayor Gates the water connections of a large number of consumers were today shut off by the city water department, because of their offense in continuing to irrigate lawns and gardens in defiance of the city's orders not to do so.

This drastic action was decided upon when it was discovered this morning that the city reservoir was lowered eight feet during the night thru surreptitious irrigating against orders. This policy of shutting off the water connections of offenders will be continued until normal water conditions are restored and irrigation is again permitted.

The city reservoir was shut off completely from the water system today as a matter of fire precaution. The only water being supplied the city today was from Wassen canyon, which ran direct into the city mains.

HOME GUARDS WILL RECRUIT TO 100; NEW LIEUTENANT

The telegraphic news received today that the bill of the war department to officially recognize the Home Guard organizations throught the country and to arm them with rifles had passed the house, and was now a law, was pleasing news to the members of the Medford Home Guard company. The bill had previously passed the senate.

Strong efforts will be made at once to fill up the ranks of the local home guard company until it numbers at least 100 men. Last night the company held the best drill it has yet had, about fifty members being present.

First Sergeant Blaine Klum was elected first lieutenant in place of E. E. Kelly, and Sergeant "Doc" Wright was elected first sergeant in Klum's place. A successor to fill the sergancy made vacant by Wright's promotion will be held next Wednesday night.

Lieutenant Kelly was dropped from his office because of his non-attendance at drills, it was stated by officers of the Home Guards today. At last night's meeting a rule was also adopted that hereafter any member who is absent from drill three successive drill nights will be dropped from membership.

COLUMBIA RIVER STEAMER GROUNDS

THE DALLES, Ore., June 7.—The river steamer Ellen today was fast on the submerged rocks of Three Mile reef in the Columbia river, near here, where she stranded last night. No boatmen from here have yet dared to cross the swift waters of the flooded river to rescue the four men aboard.

From the shore it appears the boat is in no immediate danger of sinking and if there are enough supplies aboard the men are safe. It is believed the Ellen was caught in the swollen current and carried in the darkness on to the rocks. She sent up distress rockets last night.

The Ellen is an 80-foot stern wheeler owned by the People's Navigation company of Portland, and was being taken up the Columbia to be used on the Lewis river. Charles Steelsmith, Portland, superintendent of the line, is one of the four men aboard.

LAST OF CHICKS LEAVE POSTOFFICE

The last of the chicks hatched in the federal building incubators were taken away this forenoon by their owners. From the 5000 eggs that were placed in the electric incubators over three weeks ago, 2230 eggs were hatched, a percentage of 52 percent.

Of the many persons who had eggs placed in the incubators Mrs. Inguie of Apple street was the most fortunate person, as she got chicks from 88 percent of her eggs. Some patrons got chicks from only four percent of their eggs.

Assistant Postmaster Warner, who originated the plan, is very much pleased with its outcome. He says that public gratitude should go to the ladies of the Greater Medford club who assisted in the project and turned the eggs in the incubators over twice daily for 18 days.
