

BITS OF METAL FROM BOMB SHOWN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Three physicians and a newspaper man were the first witnesses called today at the resumption of the trial of Mrs. Rena Mooney for the bomb murders of last July.

Bits of metal, steel jacketed bullets, hunks of paged iron and other articles which had been taken from the bodies of various of the ten victims of the bomb explosion were offered in evidence.

Dr. Jeremiah Maher, an Oakland, California, physician, identified a large piece of iron which he testified he had removed from the body of Jeremiah McCarthy, one of the victims. Each of the other medical men gave similar testimony and identified relics of the tragedy.

Fred Hinkle, a reporter, said that a piece of metal had struck him, falling to his coat pocket. He was standing near the scene of the explosion.

SAXON TRAIL BLAZER IS MEDFORD VISITOR

The Saxon national boundary trail blazer, A. W. Schlobach, arrived in Medford Monday in his grey Saxon roadster, and was a guest of A. W. Walker, the local agent.

Mr. Schlobach said: "In blazing a trail for this route, which will be the longest motor trail in the world, the Saxon Four roadster is only a jump ahead of a strong public demand that such a project be rushed to completion. Motor car owners in all parts of the country have been seeking a route which could be taken in either summer or winter with pleasure.

The national boundary highway in itself will give not only a scenic change embracing practically every possible kind to be found in this country, but it also will take the motorist from one climate extreme to the other. And more than that, taken in conjunction with the already established highway, it will form two inner circles, each having an outer edge on the boundary line, which can be traversed in a moderate time and at either the warm or cold season of the year.

The southern route, lying along the Atlantic coast and across the southern boundary line with a return on the lower of the transcontinental highway will give an ideal roadway for a winter tour, while the northern boundary trail with the upper transcontinental highway will form an exceptionally fine tour for the spring, summer and fall months.

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

Red Cross campaign week will extend from June 18 to 25. A patriotic meeting in Lithia park on Monday afternoon, June 18, will usher in the campaign for raising $5000 which has been placed as Ashland's apportionment. There will be a luncheon picnic in the park, followed by music and speeches, the addresses being by E. B. Piper, editor of the Oregonian, and Prof. Irving Vining. The program will begin at 2 o'clock, and the business houses will close from 12 to 3. E. V. Carter is chairman of the local committee and is devoting practically all his time in behalf of the work.

Unselfish devotion to the Red Cross cause has dictated that all social activities should be dispensed with during the week indicated in order that active workers may have full rein in directing their efforts. This means systematic planning preliminary to systematic giving and the committee is shaping its plans accordingly.
