Alfred L. Parkhurst, of the Crater Lake company, returned to the lake Wednesday after a hurried trip down Tuesday evening for supplies. He states that the road has been opened up as far as White Horse canyon for autos, but that it will be at least the fifth of July and perhaps later before the lake can be reached.

The snow is as heavy in the park as a year ago, but is melting faster. Tourists can secure accommodations at Aune Creek camp or at the lodge at the lake, but there is no conveyance to get them there as yet.

A party of a hundred are coming from Klamath Falls on Sunday to shovel snow and open a path to the lake for the benefit of visitors to the railroad celebration at Klamath Falls July 4. In the meantime, Mr. Parkhurst has a force of men busy shoveling drifts and expects to have the road opened to Aune Creek by Sunday.

Some 47 tourists have hiked over the snow to the lake this year, as against 167 at this time last year. Indications are for a heavy auto traffic with many hotel bookings for the season.

In the opinion of Will G. Steele, supervisor of Crater Lake, who returned to the city last night after having spent a day at the headquarters camp at Crater Lake, the opening of the tourist or travel season to the lake will not be possible until about July 15, about the same time as the opening last year.

from the Klamath side, but made no effort to reach the rim of the lake. There was too much snow to attempt it.

"The snow conditions in the Crater Lake territory are about the same as this time last year," said Mr. Steele. "The snow is about two feet deep on the level. Teams can cross in the early part of the day if not loaded too heavily.

"Automobiles can get within four miles of headquarters on the Klamath side and within four miles on the Medford side. The first car to reach headquarters last year was on July 5.

While the season will not open until about July 15, the hotel will be open for business before that date. Alfred Parkhurst of Portland, who has charge of the hotel and other concessions, is now at the lower camp with about 17 hotel employees. They arrived in Medford last Sunday from Portland on a large auto truck, and on Monday went on up to the lower camp.

GOLD BEACH HIKERS RETURN FROM TRIP

Porter B. Neff, Paul M. Jenny and Dr. R. J. Conroy, famed amateur pedestrians, on paper, before they started, returned late last night from their long hike to Gold Beach and back. They returned in automobiles, but this fact will not count in their official pedestrian records—with them.

It was a great hike and the long journey there and back was made by means of walking—sometimes or just occasionally—and by liberal use of an automobile and a gasoline launch. Originally planned as a hike to Gold Beach and thence to Crescent City and back to Medford by July 1, the trio went to the Alameda mine near Galilee by auto from this city last Friday, and there hit the trail along the river for Gold Beach.

In four days of walking and resting they finally reached Agnes, a distance of 60 miles. Then because of cold feet, or perhaps it was sore feet, they held a consultation and decided to go the rest of the 30 miles to Gold Beach in a gasoline launch on Rogue river, and sent back word for Dr. Conroy's automobile to meet them at the Beach yesterday morning.

The long walk back to Medford yesterday was much enjoyed—in the automobile.

Golden Rule Store

Now, more than ever before is the time to look for the Golden Rule store. Why?—50 stores buying direct from the largest manufacturers in the world and selling over $3,000,000 worth of merchandise. Altho there have been advances in every line of merchandise we carry, our prices are still under the wholesale prices of today and will remain so until after the 4th of July. Then our Fall merchandise will be coming and we will have to raise our prices, as we have had to pay advance prices. But don't forget this: Our prices are always the lowest on the same grade of merchandise.

We sell for cash. Our prices are the same to every one. We never advertise a sale. Our sale lasts from Jan. 1st to Dec. 1st of each year. We mark our stock as low as it can be sold when it comes in the store. We mark our merchandise on the manufactured cost—not on the patterns and the way it may look to us. We carry a large stock of
