

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

Wednesday, July 18, was "Patriotic day" at Chautauqua. In the morning there was a lecture by F. G. Brainerd on civic matters. In the afternoon a concert by the Musical Arts Quartet was a prelude to a lecture "The Mind of Germany," by Dr. Frank Bohn, European correspondent of the New York Times, who is recognized as one of the foremost writers on military affairs of the many experts which this country has sent to the battlefields of Europe. In the evening there will be a popular concert by the Musical Arts Quartet, and a lecture "Rebuilding the Temple," by Montavilla Flowers, formerly president of the Instructional Lyceum association. On Thursday there will be another lecture by Brainerd. The Junior Chautauqua will stage a pageant, and Annie Therese Devault will render a most convincing illusion of the entire play "Polly of the Circus." On Thursday evening James Bradford, bass-baritone of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will appear in grand concert. Ruth Ray, violinist, and Robert Gale Smith, pianist, are assisting artists.

Instruction regarding forwarding mail to the various army camps in this country as well as to soldier of the American expeditionary forces overseas are now available at the local postoffice, and it might be well to investigate the rules and regulations before mailing either letters or packages to domestic or foreign addresses. Julian Provost of Portland, a brother of Pierre Provost of this city, has been visiting numerous relatives here of late. The brothers are both in the seventies. They are French Canadians by nationality and deeply sympathize with the allies in the war, but are widely divergent in views respecting the enforcement of conscription in their old province of Quebec. Julian is "overwhelmingly" in favor of the proposed measure, whereas Pierre is the more conservative and wants the question referred to a referendum.

An electric and dust storm prevailed on Monday afternoon, but there was no rain. Instead of moisture there was a series of beautiful rainbows throut the Grizzly Peak region. In addition to Rev. M. C. Reed's duties as pastor and president of Chautauqua, Willamette university at Salem has seen fit to elect him a member of that educational institution's board of trustees. Instead of the customary circus given by the physical culture classes during closing hours of Chautauqua, a play entitled "The Toy Shop" will be staged in the main auditorium under the direction of Miss Irene Peck, instructor in the Girls' School at Palo Alto, California, who has been a member of the Chautauqua faculty throughout the session, instructing the girls in athletics. This interesting event will take place on Friday evening, July 20.

John Maly, merchant tailor has moved from the Ashland Improvement company's block to the rooms formerly occupied by L. J. Orres on Oak street. The army encampment at American Lake is to be known officially as Camp Lewis; that at Palo Alto, California, Camp Fremont, and Linda Vista site as Camp Kearney. Soldier boys and their relatives will do well to bear these names and locations in mind by way of reference as occasion demands. Judge J. R. Neil of Jacksonville has been attending Chautauqua this week, also visiting relatives here. Union services for the summer season begin on Sunday, July 22, and continue for seven Sundays, until September 2. A majority of the city churches, in fact those within ministerial union influence, have "signed up" for the series, which will be held in the Chautauqua auditorium. Johnny Saunders and Roy Rogers, with Prof. Vining and Dr. Jarvis as advance agents of the boy scouts, are camping and fishing way over beyond Red mountain in Beaver creek territory.

One of the charming entertainments of the Chautauqua series was the "Chimes of Normandy" Monday evening, as rendered delightfully by the Boston Light Opera company. Two other topicians were the Onzawas, Japanese artists, in "Along the Road to Tokyo," and character sketches by Elias Day, the great impersonator. The first of a series of iron posts as guides to motorists has been installed in the center of the street on the northwest portion of the plaza. The device bears the legend "Turn to the Right." Other may be installed later on in traffic territory deemed hazardous.

will travel extensively thruout China and Japan. The Sacramento Bee of recent date has an account of an auto wreck in which Bert Calkins, Clyde Single and Charles O'Donnell of Yreka, and Carl Hilty, of Ashland, figured. The accident happened in the night, the car's lights going out, and the machine plunged down a 40-foot embankment to the edge of the Shasta river. The occupants were bruised but none seriously. Job Tozer is visiting relatives and friends at Kerby in Josephine county and at Crescent City before returning to Petaluma, California. W. H. McNair has returned from a visit at Seaside, where he attended the annual convention of the Oregon State Pharmaceutical association, which was held July 10-13 in the midst of a cool and refreshing environment on the ocean beach. He was elected president of the association, A. W. Allen and B. F. Jones of Portland, being re-elected respectively as secretary and treasurer. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Brown left Monday on the Klamath Falls jitney for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. George Icenhour, who resides near Merrill. Brown attempted the trip in the family car on the previous day, but got no farther than Green Springs mountain, owing to "tired" troubles. The record attendance at Chautauqua this season was on last Sunday. Although it was a free show on the Sabbath, the people liberally clipped in $350 as a freewill offering. The management is confident that the 1917 assembly will be financed without incurring a deficit. The body of C. F. Doty, who was drowned in the Sacramento river near Kenneth last Sunday, was brought to Ashland for burial, where the mother of the deceased, Mrs. Martha E. Doty, and her daughter, Maude, reside. Doty was formerly a fireman on the Southern Pacific, but owing to physical infirmity had been transferred to the railroad pumping station at Morley in the vicinity of Kenneth. He was swimming with a companion when the drowning occurred.
