PHOENIX BURGLARS SENT TO PRISON

Sam Slide and W. E. Collins, the Phoenix postoffice burglars, were found guilty of this burglary and of an attempted burglary of the postoffice at Riddle, Ore., at their trial in United States court in Portland this week. This news was brought back to the city by the Medford witnesses who testified in the trial of the Phoenix case.

Collins and Slide, it will be remembered, were arrested here shortly after the Phoenix burglary and were later indicted by the grand jury. At their trial in criminal court, however, the case against them was dismissed because of a technical flaw in the indictment. The criminals hurriedly left the city and the next heard from them was their arrest in Riddle for attempting to break into the postoffice in that city.

In federal court it was brought out that Collins had served terms for burglary in the Colorado, San Quentin and Walla Walla penitentiaries, and Slide, terms in the Walla Walla and San Quentin penitentiaries.
