SEVENTH COMPANY SECURE BASEBALLS

At 5 p. m. Tuesday, Gus Newbury was cooling his heels on his office desk and wondering if the Seventh company boys were happy and getting enough to eat. Just then the following telegram was delivered to him from Corporal Frank L. Coleman of the Seventh company at Fort Stevens:

"Company needs dozen baseballs." "baseballs."

Mr. Newbury wrote on the back of the telegram his own name and after it $1. Then he grabbed his hat and rushed out on the street. To the first man he met he said: "I've got a telegram from the boys." Then he showed the telegram and told the man to read the other side. The latter did so, and without another word subscribed a dollar. This process was repeated ten more times by Mr. Newbury, each time with the same result.

The baseballs were purchased and expressed to Fort Stevens within an hour after the telegram was received. The company received them this morning.

BOOKS WANTED FOR COMPANY 7

The public library has been asked to co-operate in a nation-wide movement to secure books and magazines to supply libraries in various soldier camps and hospitals. Some of these will be sent to Company Seven at Fort Stevens, and others will be sent to a central committee to be distributed among the companies who were not fortunate enough to have libraries supplied by their own communities.

This material is to be shipped about August 15, so please bring at once to the library any books or late magazines which you are willing to give. Do not be afraid your donation will be small, even one book or magazine will help.

If you desire to have your books sent especially to Company Seven, just indicate your wishes when leaving your books at the library. If you will write your name and address in each volume, each soldier who reads it will know that he has a friend in this town. Do your bit!

ALFORD ELECTED CITY RECORDER TO SUCCEED FOSS

The action of the city council last night in electing M. L. Alford, former president of the First National bank, as city recorder to succeed Elmer T. Foss, first lieutenant of the Seventh company, created considerable surprise around the city for two reasons.

First, because only two weeks ago the council had voted to hold the office open for Lieutenant Foss until he returned from the war, and had practically decided to temporarily appoint some one to perform the duties during his absence. And second, because Miss Mary Haswell, long a clerk in the recorder's office, was not given the appointment, as it was generally expected she would be given the position.

The council's plan to retain the office for Mr. Foss by having some one perform the duties during his absence, was frustrated by an opinion of State Attorney-General Brown, who held that the law forbids a person holding a military and elective civil position at the same time. The council then acted on Mr. Foss' resignation of two weeks ago, which was laid on the table then, and accepted the resignation.

The council then proceeded to elect Mr. Alford to the office, and later passed a special ordinance, reducing the salary from $125 to $100 a month.

There seemed to be no doubt in the minds of councilmen today that Mr. Alford would accept the office, altho he had not given a formal decision up to this afternoon, as he had been an active candidate for the appointment.

The council voted to name a short street near the end of West Jackson, running east of Columbus and north to Clark. The thoroughfare was named Priddy street.

Fire Chief Lawton just before the council meeting adjourned again sought to have the council grant an increase of pay to the city firemen of $5 a month, making the salary $75. Mayor Gates promised to take the matter under consideration and report at the next meeting.

PECH ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

When Emil R. Pech, manager of the West Side market, arrived home at 1:30 a. m. Wednesday from either Hilt or Hornbrook and drove into the garage at his home on Fourth street he was at once placed under arrest by Sheriff Ralph Jennings, who had been awaiting his arrival, on the charge of unlawfully importing liquor into the state.

At the same time, it is claimed, the sheriff took into custody two quarts of whiskey, six quarts of wine and three pints of beer, which he found in the automobile, and held them for evidence.

Pech, who was accompanied to this city by three I company soldiers, was then released on his own recognizance to appear before Justice of the Peace Taylor today.

This morning Sheriff Jennings swore out the formal complaint in Prosecutor Roberts' office. It was the sheriff's plan at 1:30 this afternoon to formally take Pech into custody.

A SAFE TEST

For those who are in need of a remedy for kidney troubles and backache, it is a good plan to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They are strongly recommended by Jacksonville people.

John Kremer, farmer, Jacksonville, Oregon, says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for years and altho I used one remedy after another, I got no relief. At last a friend who had used Doan's Kidney Pills, advised me to try them. When I had used three boxes the whole trouble had left me. Since then, whenever I have felt any symptoms of kidney disorder, I have taken a box of Doan's and they have relieved me."

Now Cured.

More than three years had passed when Mr. Kremer said: "I am glad to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I kept on using Doan's after I gave my other statement and they rid me of all kidney trouble and I am glad to say it has never returned. For two years now I have been perfectly well."

today and haul him before Justice Taylor for his preliminary hearing.

The homecoming of Pech was tipped off to the prosecutor and sheriff from the time that Pech left Hilt or Hornbrook, and the sheriff and the night police force were on the lookout at various points in the city before his arrival.

Power

Men of Strength move the world. Power is given to some men by Nature; with a far greater number of men. Power is developed by thought—by consistently laying out their lives along the lines of Wisdom.

Fortunate is the individual who, early in life, takes thought of his future, and plans for it deliberately. Such a man almost seems to overcome fate, for he is prepared.

In business, the man who is financially on a sound basis, is the man who invariably succeeds.

We have many such men as depositors, who have been glad to avail themselves of our advice.

And we are always glad to welcome new ones.
