BOOTLEGGER WHO USED GUN CAUGHT, ROSEBURG

The daring bootlegger who escaped from the custody of Justice of the Peace Wimer by covering the latter with a rifle up in the Stiskiyou late Tuesday night following his arrest by Special Officer Porter and Justice Wimer, was captured in Roseburg yesterday afternoon by the police of that city.

Word of the arrest was telegraphed to this city and Ashland last night and Officer Porter left this morning for Roseburg to bring the prisoner back to Ashland. County Prosecutor Roberts swore out warrants charging the prisoner with importing liquor into the state and with resisting an officer. No charge will be preferred against the woman companion of the prisoner who was arrested with him by the Roseburg police, according to Mr. Roberts.

Sheriff Quine of Roseburg, who phoned the information of arrest to this city, also related that the prisoner is a professional bootlegger and that two weeks ago one night he performed a similar stunt to that of Wednesday night in Cow Creek canyon, Douglas county, when officers who were on the lookout for bootleggers stopped his car. He whipped out a gun and pointed it at his captors and held them off until he started up his car and speeded away. His home is thought to be in Portland or Corvallis.

OBITUARY

MOTT—Mrs. Nellie Taylor Mott, for the past six years a resident of Medford, died from a complication of diseases at the home of her son, James G. Mott, at Worthington, Minn., August 1. She was born in Illinois in 1861, moving to Wionna, Minn., and from there to Worthington thirty-five years ago, residing there until she came to Medford, last April, on account of ill health, she returned to her former home, where she underwent an operation from which she never recovered. Mrs. Mott is survived by four children, Mrs. E. R. Coss of Laverne, Minn.; James G. Mott of Worthington, Mrs. E. W. Wakefield of Medford, Or., and Dwight Mott, who resides in Washington state.

KAISER—Mrs. Mary A. Kaiser died at the home of her son, Postmaster E. J. Kaiser, at Ashland, Thursday morning at 5:30, after being stricken with paralysis nine weeks ago, aged 77 years. Deceased was united in marriage with George Kaiser at Dayton, Ohio, in 1855, and they immediately left for California, locating near Yreka in Stiskiyou county, where eight children were born to them, five of whom survive—E. J. Kaiser, Miss M. Armeta Kaiser, Miss Emily Kaiser of Ashland, A. C. Kaiser of McCloud and Leonard J. Kaiser of Los Angeles. Her husband passed away in 1892. She moved to Ashland in 1903.

GIVE CONCERT FOR COMPANY SEVEN'S AID LABOR DAY

A concert planned by the Soldiers' Auxiliary for the Seventh Company mess fund is to be given on the evening of Labor day at the Page theatre. The evening will open with a Bryant Washburn picture "The Man Who Was Afraid." An appropriate film, it being a recruiting play.

After the picture play, the concert will be given. The program will be an unusually attractive one, as those taking part will be professionals and Medford musicians who have been studying in the musical centers of the country. Mrs. Irene Hampton Isaacs will render piano numbers, assisted by Harrell's orchestra. Vocal numbers will be given by William Vawter and Miss Adele Brault, accompanied by Mrs. Isaacs and the orchestra. The orchestra will also render chosen selections, Miss Katherine Sosen will appear in one of the latest dances, with musical accompaniment by the full orchestra and special scenery and costume.

The musical program will be followed by a one-act play, "The Maker of Dreams," by the English author Oliphant Down, which has been a distinct success wherever presented. The play will be staged under the direction of Mr. Thomas Sosen, formerly manager of Northampton Municipal theatre and recently technical director of the Balboa Film company. All of the scenery and costumes for the play and the dance will be designed by Mr. Sosen.

A very distinctive feature of the evening will be the closing number rendered by the double quartet of Company C, directed by Mr. Geo. Andrews, who has kindly given his services at the request of the Soldiers' Auxiliary for training the voices of the musical members of the company.

STRIKE CONDITIONS IN BAY CITY UNCHANGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—The sixth day of the street car strike here finds conditions 60 per cent normal, according to a statement today by President Lilienthal, president of the United Railways. He said old men are returning to work. The strike leaders, however, declare that a complete tie-up is only a matter of a few days, and the present service is less than 20 per cent normal.

Substitute car men from many Pacific coast points are coming in.

RELIEF FROM CAR SHORTAGE IN SIGHT SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Immediate relief from the car shortage is in sight for the farmers of the great west according to an announcement recently by Wm. Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific and head of the western department of the Railroads War Board.

To facilitate the prompt movement of grain and food products as well as lumber and munitions the car service commission of the Railroad War Board has ordered the immediate distribution of 20,750 additional empty cars among the lines operating in the south, west and southwest.

This will make a total of 106,023 empty cars that have been ordered moved from one railroad to another regardless of ownership during the past two months in order to mobilize in different sections of the country sufficient cars to handle the abnormal government and commercial traffic that war conditions have produced.

Of the latest cars ordered by the war board to be distributed where they will be most needed, 7300 are to be placed in the grain producing country, 1000 of these to go to the Southern Pacific to insure speedy movement of a huge shipment of barley.

Five thousand cars have been sent to protect the vegetable and southern watermelon crops. Hundreds of cars are being rushed daily to the lumber states of the south to take care of the tremendous movement of lumber to the army cantonments and shipbuilding plants.

FISHING DE LUXE MADE POSSIBLE BY LOCAL ANGLER

While Emerson Hough, Jack London and other distinguished anglers have visited Rogue River and fished danger and death in its whirling rapids and deep eddying pools in last of battle with the steelhead king, the glory of discovering an infallible lure and a method de-luxe of taking this gamest of the game fish fell to a local Ike Walton, one E. R. Seeley, erstwhile physician and surgeon, now sole owner, proprietor, inventor and distributor of the famous "Yellow Jaundice Fly."

While there is almost as much secrecy surrounding the invention as shrouds the mysterious Edison submarine destroyer, it is known that the "Yellow Jaundice fly" will lure steelhead right on to the bank and that all previously known methods of angling have thereby been revolutionized.

The equipment of the angler under the new method consists of dress suit, a Tuxedo may be used in a pinch, opera hat, black kid gloves and dancing pumps, fly rod (cane poles absolutely barred) and an assortment of "Yellow Jaundice" flies, also a three-ton truck to haul home the catch.

Bill Bates, one of the society anglers of Medford, has been moving heaven and earth to get a stock of these flies, which are not quite ready for the market. Mr. Bates has ransacked every sporting goods house in Medford and is now trying to bribe clerks in the patent department at Washington to secure a loan of the model filed there by Dr. Seeley on his application for patent. Mr. Bates' insistence and importunities have become so pronounced that Dr. Seeley will remove to Three Forks, Montana, where he will accept a position in a similar capacity. The new location is a thriving young town, rapidly growing and Mr. Frohbach's new duties will call him there about September 1.
