

SOCIETY

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. held a very interesting meeting Thursday afternoon. Committees were appointed to secure material for bandages, yarn for knitting, and have them on hand to begin work at the next meeting, with someone to give instructions. It is hoped all members will be on time and bring someone with you. Now is the time to pay dues and get on the busy wagon. Sew, knit or do something in this time of crying need of workers in every line. Every shoulder should be at the wheel with no shirking from responsibility. The demand is immense and steadily increasing. Be earnest and loyal and do a great service for God and home and native land.

Music Notes

As not many in Medford or the valley know of Mme. Tracy-Young's residence here, the following interview may be of interest. Accepting her cordial invitation to call, the writer "went aboard" the convenient interurban one rather warm afternoon and journeyed to Wimer street, Ashland, on Wimer street one finally comes to Wimer Heights, and climbs and climbs and climbs. Then, turning into the shadiest lane where it requires no stress of the imagination to fancy oneself miles from civilization, one comes shortly to the home of Madame Tracy, from whose window is a most inspiring view of surrounding orchards and mountains. The very delightful situation is a recompense for all difficulties in reaching it, and enhanced the pleasure of the remainder of the afternoon not a little. A pupil, waiting eagerly for a lesson period, kindly gave place, and I was led to a comfy chair while Madame Tracy gave me a program of five numbers, the composers including Chopin, Liszt and Rubenstein, afterward demonstrating of technique and phrasing.

Madame Tracy was born in Wilton, Me., near the home of Lillian Nordica, and is proud of her Americanism. She graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston under J. C. D. Parker, Eames, Farrar, Nordica and many other famous ones have been students at that very splendid musical college. Later, Leschetzky became her teacher and remains her idol and ideal, his method the "only one," in her opinion. With all her kindness, Madame Tracy does not say very much about her own accomplishments, but a few notable occurrences mentioned were as follows:

She has been the guest of and played for Kaiser Wilhelm three times, the former czar of Russia once, appeared with the Boston Symphony Orchestra six times, also with the Strauss orchestra in Vienna. Toured with Otto Hegner six months; she has played in all the principal cities in Europe and was contemplating a tour thru South America, which was cancelled because of war conditions, which seem to have affected the musical artists as much and more than some of the matter of remunerative audiences. Madame Tracy's particular "love" and specialty is concert work with orchestra, and Busoni is one of her favorite pianists, tho she speaks of the wonderful staccato work of Godowsky and of Emil Sauer of Vienna and his progressive piano compositions so helpful for students. Like her lifelong friend, the late Carreno, Madame Tracy does not care a great deal for the very modern music, the old masters always holding first place in her heart, although recognizing the excellence of modern Russian and American composers. She speaks also of Cesar Franck as a composer. Madame Tracy is the only woman pianist who has played his "Symphonic Poems." She likens Franck to Bach. Let us be grateful again for our Rogue river apples. They have been responsible for the acquisition of many splendid citizens and distinguished personalities. Madame Tracy is no exception. It is because of an orchard she is among us. For how long she does not know, and the indefiniteness of her residence here is pleasant as far as we are concerned.

With many duties and many hours' practice daily, she yet finds time for a few students. The truly great artists are those who give of their own knowledge and experience, assistance and encouragement to the novice and amateur, as so many have done and are doing. Those who achieve know of the wistful yearning, the struggle, the stupendous incentive to endeavor in a little interest taken by those who have "arrived," and the deep, deep gratitude felt by most students to the dear instructor, be it Herr, Signor, Madame or Mr.

An event which may be called musical, social or patriotic is the concert given in the near future by the Soldiers' Auxiliary under the management of the president, Jeanne Lanetot Braekinreed. No efforts are being spared to make the production interesting and enjoyable. Both artistic and original, with the best talent obtainable, and given for such a worthy cause, the entertainment will be well worth the support of the public, which it will doubtless receive.

Among those to be featured are Miss Katherine Swem, danseuse; Irene Hampton Isaacs, pianiste; Miss Adele Brault, dramatic soprano, and Mr. William Vawter, baritone soloist. Miss Swem will be remembered for her solo dances at various times in the past. For this occasion she will have the assistance of Thomas Swem of New York in the designing of a special background, and the act promises to be unusually beautiful. Irene Hampton Isaacs will be heard in two masterpieces for the piano, the second number with orchestral accompaniment as given by Mrs. Isaacs on tour the past season. Miss Brault has studied under competent teachers while at Reed college, where she was soprano soloist during her junior and senior years, and chosen by the music committee of the college to be soloist at the commencement concert this spring. Mme. Jeanne Jorrell was one of Miss Brault's instructors, and Dr. Max Cushing her teacher in interpretation. At present Miss Brault is a pupil of George Andrews.

William Vawter has been a favorite since his very first appearance, and so continues. Having had the advantage of instruction in various cities and in the home town, and possessing a happy combination of talent, voice and personality, the promising young baritone is always a delight to hear.

Other features of the program are not to be disclosed at present, with the exception of a choral number sung by the brave boys of Company C under the direction of George Andrews.

TO BE GRACEFUL IN BODY, TAKE A LESSON FROM DOROTHY DICKSON

Dorothy Dickson
By IDA H. McGLONE GIBSON.

"Dorothy Dickson has the delicate, modest grace of the mid-Victorian period combined with the daring of 1917," said the man who had gone with me to the last edition of the Folies.

There is only one recipe for grace and that is the perfect mechanical rhythm of the body combined with perfect unconsciousness of self. To be graceful, one's joints must be flexible to a point of perfect poise.

One must gesture in a series of curves and one must have perfect control over every part of one's body. All this must be a matter of habit and unconsciousness.

There is nothing like dancing to promote grace as the rhythmic motions of the body to music usually produce such pleasure that one forgets oneself.

city at very reasonable prices, seems to have become a permanent institution, and well worth hearing, according to the music critics of the city.

A musical soiree was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Vilas Beckwith on King's Highway, when their guests were most delightfully entertained by Miss Clementine Kellogg, a pianist of distinguished gifts. Miss Kellogg, who was a guest at the Carlton home, is a resident of East Orange, N. J. Those fortunate enough to hear her were most enthusiastic in their appreciation of her talent and ability.

It will be very pleasant news for musical circles of Medford and the Rogue River valley to learn that Miss Flora Grey has been prevailed upon by her many friends and admirers to remain in Medford for the coming year instead of returning to New York as she had originally planned. It will be remembered that Miss Grey was one of our principal pianists and teachers a few years ago. She left here for New York four years ago with the intention of broadening her musical vision and making herself efficient in her chosen line. During this period she studied with the very best masters to be found in the metropolis, including the celebrated teacher and composer, Jean Paul Kursteiner.

She also made quite a reputation accompanying for many of the professional singers in the east, also studied the grand operas under the well known operatic directors. Miss Grey gave many recitals at and about New York on the pipe organ as well as piano.

This experience and study, together with the opportunity of hearing all there was good in music and breathing nothing but the musical atmosphere for four years has brought her home to us a well-rounded-out and real musician. From this on she will have her studios in the St. Mark's building.

A. Amundson of Talent was a business visitor in the city Friday.

"CARO FIBRE" FRUIT WRAPPERS

Caro Fibre is the only real Fruit Wrapper and actually prolongs the life of the fruit. When wet from shipping in cold storage cars, Caro Fibre forms a silk like blanket, closing the pores of the fruit, permitting the warmth to reach the heart gradually as it is exposed to the atmosphere, and as all other papers go to pieces during the period of refrigeration, Caro Fibre is the only wrapper that should be used—naturally bringing a better price for the fruit. As to the other merits, hundreds of the largest Fruit Growers can testify to the fact that it is the best. It picks up easier, packs quicker, looks better.

Caro Fibre is sold by the thousand sheets, not by the pound as others direct from the Mill to Growers. You get what you buy. It is tied in thousands. You can readily count it yourself. There is no waste.

Give it the water test. Prove what we say. We furnish Samples Free.
