GRAND OPERA TO BE HEARD HERE ON OCTOBER 4

The La Scala Grand Opera company has been secured to appear at the Page theater, Thursday, Oct. 4, in probably the greatest of all operas, "Carmen." This engagement puts Medford again in the front rank with the largest Pacific coast cities from the amusement standpoint. The La Scala company is one of the strongest operatic organizations that has visited the Pacific coast for many years. They have been secured by the city of Portland to open their municipal Auditorium.

The personnel of this company comprises high-class artists. Ester Ferrabini, who will appear here in the title role, has won the distinction of being the greatest Carmen of the present time. This role is so subtle and exacting of the artist that few of the singers have been able to win favor with the public in the character of the gypsy girl. In the "70s Minnie Hank was recognized as the best Carmen of her time. Later she passed the laurels over to the French prima donna, Emme Calve; next in line to inherit the title was Geraldine Farrar, who is recognized today as a wonder in the very difficult role.

It seems as tho the critics have about decided to pass the honors to Esther Ferrabini, who comes to us from the La Scala theater, Milan, Italy, which is almost the recognized source of opera. You will have the rare opportunity of witnessing her in this role while she is right in the flush of her success. She will be supported by a company of artists worthy of the distinction. There will be forty musicians in the orchestra, a large chorus and elaborate stage settings and costumes.

We have the opportunity in Medford of hearing musical comedies galore, but the opportunity of hearing a full-fledged grand opera company complete in every detail producing one of the greatest operas ever known to the musical world is indeed a very rare opportunity, and one which will not be overlooked by the people of the Rogue River valley. They have too often demonstrated the fact that they immediately recognize the real thing when they see it. It will be remembered that "Carmen" is a magnificent play, and when accentuated and highly colored by the musical setting of Bizet, it is an entertainment that pleases all classes.

KOLB AND DILL AT PAGE TONIGHT

Kold & Dill at the Page theatre tonight.

From the first to the last curtain, "The High Cost of Loving" abounds in just the right sort of lines and situations to give the two stars their best chance for merrymaking, and they sparkle on their way thru the three side-splitting acts in a manner that has kept San Francisco audiences rocking with laughter during the full 15 weeks of their run there.

Besides its rib-tickling qualities, the show is abundantly punctuated with catchy musical numbers rendered both by Kolb & Dill and the members of the supporting company, which, by the way, includes such sterling performers as Henry Shumer, Julia Blanc, A. C. Van Slyke, May Cloy, Leo Henning, Honora Hamilton, and Lucille Chalfant. A selected chorus of attractive girl soloists will be found one of the bright features of the offering, as will the "surprise" orchestra that travels with the company.

As has been their custom in the past, Kolb & Dill have staged "The High Cost of Loving" in the richest of stage settings and the gorgeous gowns worn by the singing girls are the very latest creations of the modiste's art.

CHARMING GLADYS HULETTE AT RIALTO

The next of the Pathe "lovely girl" series of photoplays starring Gladys Hulette will be seen at the Rialto theater today and Thursday. It is "The Candy Girl," written by Philip Lonergan and directed by W. Eugene Moore.

"The Candy Girl" is a tale of sweetness, in which Miss Hulette goes into the candy business and sells sweets until she is a sugar millionairess. It has a strong, fast-moving plot, too.

William Parke, Jr., again plays opposite Miss Hulette. Others in the important cast are J. H. Gilmour, Thomas A. Curran, Ethyle Cooke, Carey Hastings, Arthur Bauer, George Barnes, William Bowers, Ceclia Clay, Helen Badgley, the Thanhouse Kidlet, a number of other children and quite a few animals.

This, with a "Lonesome Luke" comedy, completes a rather fast-moving bill.

HEAVY VOTE IN GOTHAM PRIMARIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—An unusually heavy vote was predicted by campaign managers at today's primary election in this city. Mayor John Furroy Mitchell, fusion candidate for re-nomination, is opposed in the republican primaries by former State Senator William M. Bennett. Judge John P. Hylan of Brooklyn, candidate for mayor; Charles L. Craig, candidate for controller, and Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, candidate for president of the board of aldermen, each unopposed in the democratic primaries.

Tammany Hall and affiliated organizations are striving for a heavy vote for the democratic candidates, to show a united party. Mayor Mitchell is supported by republican district workers.

The polls open at 3 p. m. and close at 9 p. m.

Fiery Eczema and Skin Eruptions Readily Yield to This Old Remedy
 Successfully used for fifty years. Eczema and similar skin troubles come from a disordered, impure condition of the blood, and they can only be cured by giving the blood a thorough cleansing, and removing from it all traces of impurity. This is why S. S. S. has been used so successfully in hundreds of cases of Eczema and other skin eruptions.

This wonderful remedy is without an equal as a blood purifier, being probably the oldest blood medicine on the market. It has been sold by druggists for fifty years.

EAGLETS ABROAD

By A. C. Howlett

A week ago today I wrote my last article for the Mail Tribune and so I am reminded that if I wish to keep my record unbroken—for the last 34 years I have written from one to five letters for publication every week—and I don't wish to break the record, especially while I am on a trip visiting my relatives and friends.

Wednesday noon I bade farewell to my daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. J. M. Lewis and Mrs. J. E. Lewis, at the depot in Colville and took the train for Spokane, traveling over the same country that I passed over on the nineteenth day of July, so saw but little that was new to me, altho I perhaps saw some things that I did not notice on my other trip, but when I passed over the route before the grain was standing, uncut, but this time the most of it was standing in the shock or stack, as the grain did not seem to be so forward as it was out in the country where I have been staying for the past seven weeks, for out there the most of the farmers are thru with their threshing and I am sorry to say that the crops didn't turn out as well as we farmers had expected, for in some instances the grain was almost a complete failure, ranging from five to 25 bushels an acre. But to return to the trip to Spokane. All along the route one could see farms scattered along and as a rule where I saw cows and hens I saw generally good, substantial buildings and fences, and where the order was reversed, no cows and few chickens, the places had a weebone appearance, but some of the farms looked like what we call out in southern Oregon "squirrel ranches," poor land and still poorer management, but as a rule the farms presented a fair appearance. We passed several towns along the route and as a rule they looked neat and prosperous. After riding on the train for a little over three and a half hours I reached Spokane and found that city full of business and stir, and after a few minutes I engaged a room at the Montana hotel, where I had a good bed by paying 75 cents. After securing my room I took a stroll over a part of the city and wherever I went I noticed that there seemed to be considerable activity and the merchants appeared to be busy in most of the shops and stores. After supper I attended a movie show where I spent an hour or so very pleasantly and then went to my room to sleep but just imagine a country man trying to sleep in a hotel on a corner of the street where the street cars passed every minute going four ways and in addition to their noise other kinds of noises, but I managed to sleep and by 5 o'clock a. m. was ready for my day's work, or rather for my day's travel. After breakfast I procured a copy of the Spokesman-Review and read until train time, 7:55, when I took the train for Seattle. I was quite fortunate in taking train No. 1, as it did not stop but a few times during the day and then only a short time at each place, the first stop they made being at Harrington, a run of 50 miles thru a thinly settled country, in fact almost all of the country we passed thru was sparsely settled for it was what is known as "the wheat belt" and the farms are generally very large, often containing one or more sections, 640 acres in a farm and in some instances two or three sections. The land is what they call dry land, and in order to secure a crop the land is plowed either in the fall or spring and then cultivated all summer to keep down the weeds and the seed sown in the latter part of the summer or early fall, as the land does not produce well where it is sown in the spring, but as a rule where the land is properly cultivated the yield is good, altho this season the hot weather in July damaged the grain very much, as from what I can learn there was a shortage in the yield this season of from 30 to 50 percent. But I see that I am getting this letter too long, so will have to close for this time, but the next time will try to tell more about this wonderful country, as I have notes on the fruit belt as well as the grain country. Seattle, Wash., July 15, 1917.
