

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

"Up to the hour of going to press," the mythical army of railroad employees which local papers have repeatedly asserted were actively engaged in highway operations on the Billings hill, must have been transferred to the emergent job of reshingling the union station at Ayers Spuz.

George A. Chase, a rancher west of Talent, died last Thursday in a local hospital. He was unmarried, a native of Vermont and 42 years of age.

Mrs. Ellen Wagner was the guest of honor at a family reunion held at the home of T. W. Miles, in Medford, last Thursday, her three daughters, Mrs. W. H. Leeds of San Diego, Cal.; Mrs. A. E. Kinney of Ashland and Mrs. Miles, together with other relatives, participating.

Two octogenarians have passed away here recently. The older was C. W. Farrer, resident of Pennsylvania avenue. His age was 83 and he was a native of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Miller of Los Angeles, former residents of this vicinity, are here temporarily looking after their ranch interests in the Bellevue district.

Among Ashland teachers filling "foreign" appointments, Kathleen Silver is at Roseburg, Mrs. Carol Van Nuys at Pasadena, and Miss Lillian Kaiser at San Jose, Cal.

W. A. York has recently come into possession of the R. M. Hodges fruit ranch on Walver avenue. This property is improved with a fine bungalow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Billings received a visit last week from Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Thompson, Mrs. Paget and Mr. Kissling, who comprised a motoring party homeward bound to Marion county, after touring the Crater Lake region and Yosemite Park; also visiting San Francisco and other California points.

There was some class to the White Hussar entertainment at the Chautauqua auditorium on Saturday, the organization being on its way to San Francisco after a season on the Chautauqua circuit.

Vaupel's dry goods and furnishings emporium has a new salesman in the person of F. B. McDonald of Portland.

Beginning with October 1, Zador Thayer succeeds G. M. Frost as carrier for the Oregonian in this vicinity, and recently Carrier French took John Maxedon's place in delivering the Portland Journal.

The Cove and Oak Ridge schools, Dead Indian districts, closed last Friday with a joint program. Cornelia Larsen and Elma Bailey, teachers.

The thirty-fourth annual convention of the Oregon W. C. T. U. will be held at Albany, October 2-5. Representatives from Ashland leaving for the north on Tuesday evening of this week, will be Mrs. P. L. Abscraft, president of the local union; Mrs. Stella Leavitt, county president, and Mrs. Alice Jilson, all foremost workers in the great temperance movement.

The address of welcome will be given by Rev. W. H. Lee. Mrs. Jennie Kemp, state president, will deliver an address and Mrs. Margaret Houston will have charge of the gold medal contest. Election of officers will be held on Thursday.

Mrs. Fred Homes is president of the Bellevue Parent-Teacher circle; Miss Corinne Sweet, teacher in that district, is vice-president; Mrs. Andrews, secretary, and Mrs. Brown, treasurer.

Miss Lucile Barber and Mrs. Pearl Johnson Dodge will leave this week for San Francisco, where they will

ESTER FERRABINI TO PLAY CARMEN AT PAGE THURSDAY

Ester Ferrabini, who plays Carmen with the La Scala Grand Opera company in Bizet's masterpiece, has challenged comparison with the many exponents of the gypsy cigarette girl who had presented this remarkable character within the last quarter of a century.

"Grand senior warden" is the official title now worn by C. W. Nuns, who, with Stuart Saunders, returned on Saturday from the grand commandery gathering of Knights Templar recently held at Marshfield. Saunders received a snug appointment on the finance committee. The visitors report that Marshfield entertained its guests royally. The next annual Templar gathering will be held at Bend.

Ten cars of oil and a like number of cement loads arrived at the parting of the ways recently at Rawson, between Red Bluff and Gerber. Fortunately the accident occurred between switches, so that the train schedules were not disturbed as applying to north end of Shasta division as far as Ashland.

Among recent realty transfers, a party named Carlin of Brownsville, has traded for the Roberts place on Wightman street. Orville V. Riehm, from Latah, Idaho, has purchased of W. M. Leeper, a former resident here, seventeen acres, being a portion of the Erb property on East Main street. The latter sale was made by the Beaver Realty Co. The Leepers now live in southern California.

Charley McWilliams of Klamath Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. McWilliams of this city, is ill with typhoid fever, and word reaches Ashland relatives that Miss Edna Wells, whose name is a familiar one in the school circles of Jackson and Klamath counties, is also ill with the

"EYES OF THE WORLD" AT RIALTO THEATER

An announcement of uncommon interest to theatergoers and book readers alike is that one of the greatest of the years' output of extraordinary attractions involving lavish film production, Clune's multiple-reel picture translation of Harold Bell Wright's famous story of love and adventure, "The Eyes of the World," has been booked for presentation here at the Rialto, October 3 and 4.

The production is described briefly as a visualization in photo-drama on a lavish scale—with which is coordinated a musical score much the same as in opera—of Wright's red-blooded and romantic novel of California which has enjoyed a sale of more than 1,000,000 copies.

This Clune production, like "Ramona," is said to be a gorgeous one in every respect. It is the fruitage of six months' exclusive and unremitting work at the big studios at Los Angeles and on the actual scenes described in the book. Those who have seen the virile characters of this delightful and stirring novel moving before their eyes as they clash in the struggle of two opposing ideals declare that it is the finest depiction of a current story ever put upon the screen.

"The Eyes of the World" consumes an entire afternoon or evening in its showing. The scenario was prepared by the noted author himself and in performing this work he considerably amplified his tale, which now in visual form carries the characters thru two generations.

The photo-drama is said to be of brilliant character, forming a magnificent background for the fascinating tale. The outdoor scenes are said to form a wonderful panorama of California's charms of mountain and vale.

famous dramatic actor, Melbourne MacDowell in the supporting cast—this is "The Flame of the Yukon," which opened at the Page for two days showing. The play is a wonderfully constructed story of the restless surging people who ventured into the far north, truly portraying the primitive passions of the motley array of adventurers, practically uncontrolled by any laws except those that man himself enforced upon fellow-man with first, knife or pistol. Miss Dalton plays the part of a dancehall siren, who, becoming enamored of a man just from the states, decides to "go straight" for him. Then there comes a woman and child bearing the name of "the man," and "The Flame" goes back to her old life. She tricks Black Jack, the dancehall owner, and when he gets ugly she calls for help and a stranger puts up a fight for her. This is the most dramatic period of a dramatic play. The fight is undoubtedly the fiercest ever fought for the screen, and it holds the audience tense until Black Jack is killed after having twice almost knocked out the stranger.

One thing that I noticed along the route that we traveled was that the farmers not only kept a number of cows, but also a quantity of chickens, and as a natural consequence the farms presented a neat appearance and generally good, substantial barns and neat dwelling houses with the necessary outbuildings. But I must bring this letter to a close or the editor may use the blue pencil. More anon, Portland, Ore.

Miss Nellie Beaver has returned to her studies at O. A. C., Corvallis, where she is pursuing a course in language. Early in the month Raymond Badger will enroll as a Corvallis student, after which Mrs. Badger will return to the family home, Oakland, Cal.

kinds, and after dinner (supper) we attended a movie show. The next day Mr. H. and wife took us out in their auto to see other parts of the city, and among the different places of interest we visited was the state university grounds, where the state university is situated, and it is needless for me to say that everything connected with the grounds were on a grand scale. The different buildings were so arranged as to impress the visitor with their beauty, and the grounds were so artistically arranged with the different kinds of shrubbery and trees as to make one wish to linger and enjoy the scenery. But we hurried on to take a look at the Sound and Lake Washington, with the shipping and the various manufacturing establishments.

When I was here last eight years ago, the city authorities were digging and washing away some of the hills upon which the city was built, and I could see a very material change for the better, but there remains quite a number of the hills yet, but the streets have been so graded that the city presents a fine appearance. As a business center, Seattle will compare favorably with either Eagle Point, Medford or even Portland.

The next drive we took was out into White River valley, some fifteen miles from the city, and as we left the city we rode along the sound for several miles on a hard-surfaced road that was almost as straight as an arrow, but then we turned our course into the timbered country for a short distance, when we entered the White river valley, and as we proceeded up the river we could see off to our left the coal mines that were being worked, where a quantity of the coal that is used in Seattle is mined, but our object was to visit some of the towns of the valley and see the valley itself.

As we proceeded, it opened up a large and one of the most beautiful valleys I have seen in the state of Washington. It is mostly level, and the land seemed to be very productive, judging from the stocked grain and standing corn, as well as the green pastures, and these were dotted with generally Holstein cattle, mostly milk cows, for it has the appearance of a dairy country, as almost every farm we passed had from one to three silos and milk cows were to be seen on almost every turn.

Among the many things of interest that attracted my attention was the cornfields and alfalfa, but the corn especially, for it seemed so rank and luxuriant I could not but compare it with the corn I saw up near Spokane and Colville.

The city of Kent, where there is a large milk condensing establishment, a beautiful little inland city with its paved streets and water system, and from what I saw I should think that it was quite a business place.

Leaving there, we proceeded on up the valley to another lively little town—Anuburn, where we took lunch. This town seemed to be considerable of a railroad town, as there seemed to be railroad workshops and a sawmill, also another factory for condensing milk. Here we retraced our steps over as fine a road as anyone could wish, and thru one of the finest valleys I have seen on the coast, in some respects equal to our own beautiful Rogue River valley, and in others superior.
