

GRANT REHEARING OF INJUNCTION IN STOLEN NEWS CASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The supreme court decided today to review federal decrees which restrained the International News Service or Hearst service, from pirating news from the Associated Press.

Today's action of the court does not stay the operation of the injunctions already existing, court officials said, but merely provides for a review, to which there was no opposition by the Associated Press.

Attorneys for the International News Service last summer asked Justice Brandeis to temporarily stay the injunction of the lower court, but this was denied.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The application of the Associated Press for a writ of certiorari rested that it would be content to rest its rights upon the decisions below without requesting the supreme court to assume the burden, except that nothing but a decision of the supreme court can assure this great service a sound and indisputable foundation and forestall a great quantity of costly and harassing litigation all over the country in both federal and state courts.

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

Frank R. Nelson, assistant secretary of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau, Washington, D. C., was in Ashland Friday as the advance courier of the secretary of the treasury in arranging the schedule of that official's itinerary on the Pacific coast, his visit being in behalf of the Liberty bond loan. Mr. Nelson was en route to San Francisco. Secretary McAdoo will follow thru here on Thursday morning, October 11, in a private car. His official family will include a secretary, stenographers, and secret service men.

Nick Delean, tailor, who has been employed for sometime past in various shops in town, joins the drafted men's contingent from Yreka, bound for American Lake. Nick is a bright young Greek, unusually well posted on the problems of the prevailing war.

Hundreds of drafted men on the way to American Lake are being fed here daily. Sacramento's "Liberty Soldiers," who passed through recently, reported that their pathway from their state capitol to the depot was strewn with flowers.

L. A. Wright of Eugene, instructor in the high school of that city; Ralph Wright, of Salem, superintendent of the industrial farm at the state capital; and Miss Edith Wright, of Butte Falls, nephews and niece of District Superintendent Vag Fossen, are in Ashland, summoned here by the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. Rosetta Wright, of Butte Falls, who is a patient at Granite City hospital.

O. Helwig, who sometime ago disposed of the lease on the Van Fossen ranch west of town to Clyde Hamilton, is now residing in the vicinity of Marshfield. Mrs. Helwig is a native of Belgium and is co-operating in the movement to have Belgian refugees located on Oregon farms.

The residence property of G. H. Yeo on Pine street has been rented to U. S. Ragland from Stakiyou, telegrapher at the S. P. depot here.

A sweetless day is to be added to the meatless and wheatless weekly schedule, as per recommendation of the Oregon branch of the Federal Food commission, of which W. B. Ayer, of Portland, is president, and O. M. Plummer, field agent for the state. Officials of the commission will visit Ashland in common with other localities, among the list being Mrs. Jennie Kemp, late president of the Oregon W. C. T. U., who is a member of the staff, and whose acquaintance extends beyond the limits of state boundaries. To those who cannot be prevailed upon to forego entirely the use of sugar one day in the week, the plea will be made to use only one spoonful where two heaping spoonfuls were extravagantly sacrificed before. "Please pass the sugar" before the pledge goes into effect.

Civil service examinations in stenography and typewriting for government positions will be held in this city on October 25. Bert Freeman is secretary of the local civil service board.

Among Jackson county workers in behalf of the food conservation pledge campaign are E. V. Carter, Ashland; G. W. Ager, Talent; Mrs. E. N. Warner, Medford.

At Dunsuir the Red Cross has established a receiving station at the Weed hotel where reading matter is distributed to troop trains as the specials pass through. On the day when their local boys left for the north, the Dunsuir schools and business houses were closed temporarily. Lon Hamaker and Wm. Woods of Bonanza were in Ashland last Saturday, loading up with local fruit for the Klamath county markets.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Burdick of Holland, in Josephine county, were in town recently, being greeted by a host of old time friends. Their son, R. L. Jr., is now established in a dental office here.

Mrs. Stella Leavitt of this city was elected one of the delegates to the national W. C. T. U. convention which will be held at Washington, D. C., in December, this selection having been made at the recent meeting of the state organization in Albany. "Patriotism was the keynote of the Oregon convention, which elected Mrs. Frances Swope president and Mrs. Jennie Kemp, vice president.

Local Elks will join their Medford fraters in a rapid transit schedule on Thursday of this week, when they will meet their grand exalted ruler, Fred Hopper of Lynchburg, Va., at Hornbrook, traveling north on No. 16, spirit him to Ashland for a brief visit, and thence to Medford, anticipating the arrival of his train at that station.

Nine men, directed by Forest Ranger Gribble, were fighting a pernicous fire the last of the week which broke out in various places near the hard-scrabble trail on Mount Ashland.

The proprietor of Burkhardt's shoe shop, corner North Main and Granite streets, has gone to California, summoned there by the serious illness of his father. The shop will be temporarily closed until about October 15.

Jim Burg of Bonanza, makes the Klamath-Ashland long haul pay both ways, there being no car shortage on his freighter wagon trips. Recently he brought over the household goods of Spratt Wells, who is located at 171 Helman street, and returned the next day with a full cargo of assorted fruits.

Rev. W. J. Douglass and family leave for their new home at Gooding, Idaho, on Tuesday, October 9. A reception in their honor will be given at the Methodist church on the Monday evening previous.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMillan of Portland have been recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Dodge. The ladies are sisters.

Ashland is represented to the extent of $93,243 by its Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s investment in the rate making valuation of various cities in Oregon covered by that corporation. Klamath Falls figures are $65,565 and Grants Pass $77,626. Medford seems not to have been given.

Local ministers are beginning to receive letters from the government food administration officials. The missives are being sent to the heads of all church organizations, requesting that throughout the country 100,000 sermons be preached on Sunday, October 21, in behalf of food pledge week, October 21-28.

APPLEGATE

Saturday, October 6, was devoted to cleaning up and improving the Applegate school grounds. A floor was put in the basement of the school house, heavier board on the ceilings, the walls were calcimined, partitions painted, window lights put in and trash was hauled away.

Thomas Mee is expected to enroll in the Applegate high school soon. We are all waiting with cheers for Tom, as he is an excellent basketball player.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. and Mrs. Reynolds are visiting at the Jordan home this week.

Hugh Brown, a pupil of the Applegate school, with his parents and brothers, enjoyed the state fair a portion of last week.

The installation of a drinking fountain for Applegate school is being considered by the board. This certainly would be a much appreciated improvement.

Cecil Boucher was absent from school Thursday and Friday on account of sickness.

During the week a great deal of lumber has been brought to the school grounds for basement flooring and a new woodshed.

Attendance, so far, has been altogether too irregular. We are hoping it will improve as the farmers get their fall work done.

TABLE ROCK TABLETS

Rev. M. C. Davis of Wolf Creek, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Esther, motored thru Table Rock Sunday morning, stopping to pay a short visit to friends here.
