HOOVER DRIVE MEETS GRATIFYING RESPONSE IN COUNTY

The people who have undertaken work connected with the Hoover drive in all of the towns of Jackson county report most encouragingly on the response which is being given to their efforts. In school district 80, where there are only ten families sending children to school, Superintendent Ager reports the children are showing the greatest enthusiasm and doing all they can to make Pledge week a perfect success by having all the families sign the cards. Fine reports are also being received from the other districts.

In Central Point, Superintendent Stanley and Miss Kirkley, teacher of domestic science, are pursuing the work of the campaign in a very systematic and effective way.

In this connection the following letter has been received from a well-known Medford woman:

"To the Editor:

"May I, thru your columns, congratulate the teachers on the honor given them this week in the Hoover drive—in many ways the most inspiring event of these stirring times.

We mothers will be proud to enroll in this army of your raising—proud to show the cards in our windows and happy to do our daily bit toward feeding our fighting men and our allies.

Anyway, I fancy we will have to Young hearts answer eagerly to so Young hearts answer eagerly to so high a call as this, and under the wise and enthusiastic leadership of our teachers the young people, down to the smallest child, will receive an impetus toward real patriotism and self-sacrifice that will sweep on their passive elders. Many a future leader will receive his first inspiration this week.

We in the homes are with you. We will get out our cook books—our government bulletins. We will consult Mrs. McCormick. By dint of hard thinking and planning we will find many ways of feeding our families well and still saving out the bit which our soldiers and our allies must have if they are to win our war and save our country.

A MOTHER."

forces in Moon sound kept back fierce attacks from the north in the rear of our combatting forces. These enemy attempts did not succeed."

Entire German Fleet.

"On the southwestern coast of Dago Island the enemy again landed some small detachments, but they were received by our fire and soon returned to their ships. Shortly afterwards the enemy violently bombarded this landing place with a cruiser and a dreadnaught of the Kaiser type. Our patrols, as on days before, observed o nthe sea not far from Oesel and Dago islands enemy ships of different types, among them dreadnaughts accompanied by a great number of torpedo boats and patrolling ships. As many as 55 enemy were visible at times in this region alone.

"The enemy operations on Oesel Island in the last 24 hours have ended in the complete occupation of the island. Before our retreat we destroyed everything of military utility.

"On all the fighting fronts only fusillades occurred.

"On Tuesday night a Zeppelin flew over the town of Pernau (on the Gulf of Riga 100 miles northeast of the city of Riga) and dropped bombs. Six houses were destroyed."

The Slava, built in 1903, was an old type of battleship of 13,516 tons, 397 feet in length, 76 feet beam and 26 feet draft. Her armament consisted of four 12-inch and twelve 6-inch guns, with twenty four secondary battery guns and four torpedo tubes. Her speed was 18 knots. She had a complement of 525 men.

Three sister ships of the Slava—the Imperator Alexander XIII, the Borodino and Knyaz Suvorov, were sunk during the Russo-Japanese war in the battle of the Sea of Japan, May 1905. The Japanese captured a fourth sister ship, the Orel, which is now the Japanese ship Iwami.

The Whole Neighborhood Knows.

Mrs. Anna Pelzer, 2526 Jefferson St. So. Omaha, Neb., writes: "I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold. My neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar, and everyone in our neighborhood speaks highly of it." This reliable family remedy masters croup. It clears the air passages and eases the gasping, strangling fight for breath. Sold everywhere. *

MANUAL TRAINING IN HIGH SCHOOL WELL UNDER WAY

Manual training in the upper grades and high school, as the term is now used, must, in our school, apply mostly to wood work on the bench and the various forms of work of a constructional nature within the scope of our equipment.

A boy in the grades or high school is taught the care and use of tools. He is taught how to make and apply useful, common joints. He is instructed in wood-finishing until he can produce a finish equal to the finest put out in a piano factory if will take sufficient care and pride in his work.

There is on reason why from the a boy in a manual training shop should "putter around," lounge on the benches, talk, whistle or kill time in any way. In our school they are to be on the job all the time. The foreman in a shop would give a workman his check before the first period was over if he even attempted to establish such shop-conduct as has frequently been stopped in our shop in the past two weeks.

There is no reason whyo from the sixth grade on, or at any time in school life, the pupils should not have every opportunity to undergo typical practical experiences that will tend to fit them to make an intelligent choice of occupation.

The pupil in the advanced grades above the eighth would be justly entitled to register a protest if he be requested to continue year after year constructing book-ends, coat-hangers, foot-stools, etc. There are shop conditions, however, where a workman works for years making only one of the many small parts for some more or less complicated machine. This however, is specialization and one of the points to be considered in fitting an individual to make a wise choice of occupation.

The manual training shop is in the high school, easily found and always open to visitors for questions and inspection. We desire a closer acquaintance with the people from the homes of Medford pupils and shall expect a lively interest in the shop, its purposes, and its accomplishments, within the year. R. C. GOODMAN, Instructor Manual Training.

HEAVY SNOWFALL BLANKETS DAKOTA

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 18.—Traffic in North Dakota was seriously hampered today as a result of the heavy snowfall which started last midnight and which was falling heavily today.

The shortage of coal in some cities was getting acute, reports said, and if the weather conditions continued and traffic was tied up the situation would become critical.

More than six inches of snow is reported from Minnesota with a consequent delay to traffic.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 18.—South Dakota's first general snowstorm of the winter prevailed today thruout the state. A light snowfall here was accompanied by a perceptible drop in temperature.

ATHENS, Monday, Oct. 15.—The prosecution before the high court of members of the cabinet of Former Premier Skouloudis and Admiral Coundourotis, was recommended in the chamber by an investigating committee. Charges of the violation of the penal code and the law dealing with ministerial responsibility were the basis for the recommendation.

COMPANY SEVEN THANKS AUXILIARY FOR BOOKS SENT

The Soldiers' Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon at the library. Routine business was transacted as usual. An appropriation of $5 was made in aid of the Mail Tribune tobacco fund for the soldiers and sailors. Plans were made for sending funds to assist toward a Thanksgiving dinner for the boys of the Seventh company.

A committee was provided for to prepare and forward Christmas gifts to all of the enlisted men who have gone from our community into the various branches of the country's service. Five new members were added to the membership list.

Mrs. Brackinreed has received the following letter to the Auxiliary from Captain Vance at Ft. Columbia:

"We recently received from the Auxiliary a splendid assortment of books for the Seventh company library, which I desire to acknowledge and at the same time express the thanks of the entire company for the generous gift. I know the work and personal time involved in collecting and shipping the many things which you have sent us is no small matter, and I want the Auxiliary to know that your efforts are appreciated in full measure. And in expressing our appreciation, it would seem invidious not to acknowledge particularly the beautiful sentiments we find in a book contributed by Mrs. F. N. Cummings. It is needless, as well as impossible, for us to attempt to express the feeling we have for such sentiments so beautifully presented by her. Surely any deprivation or hardship which we are or may be called upon to undergo are more than compensated for by such acknowledgment of what we are willing to do. Mrs. Cummings takes "this opportunity to express a little of the deep sense of gratitude that I, in common with all other stay-at-homes, feel toward the boys of the Seventh company and all other soldiers. We mothers of young children feel this most keenly of all, I think, because were it not for you boys and what you stand for, of protection and safety, we would far rather these little children had never lived to grow up. Think what their inheritance would be! And so, we feel grateful to you for every bit of loneliness, monotony, hardship or suffering you may face—deeply grateful. God bless you every one. We believe you will make good. May we do our bit, too.

"Sincerely, "A. J. VANCE,
"Captain.

To Stop a Persistent, Hacking Cough

The best remedy is one you can easily make at home. Cheap, but very effective.

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect, are annoyed with a persistent hanging-on bronchial cough year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's so needless—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

Get from any druggist "2½ ounces of Pinex" (60 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also promptly loosens a dry or tight cough, stops the troublesome throat tickle, soothes the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is used by millions of people every year for throat and chest colds with splendid results.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.
