A verdict of $75 was returned by a jury in the circuit court in Jacksonville yesterday, in favor of the Rogue River Fruit and Produce association against Ella Rosenberg, administratrix of the Rosenberg estate. The fruit association claimed Mr. Rosenberg, before his death, agreed to pay certain storage charges on fruit, which were not paid. Walter B. Allen of Seattle, attorney for the Rosenberg estate maintained that the agreement was to pay charges on pre-cooled fruit only. This was the view taken by the jury apparently for they allowed an amount to cover this charge. Attorney P. J. Neff, attorney for the fruit association was unable to handle the case at the last moment so his place was taken by Prosecuting Attorney Roberts. APOSTOLIC FAITH PRINTS, CIRCULATES DISLOYAL PAPER

Patriotic people of Medford are considerably worked up over a four-page religious publication, "The Apostolic Faith," which is issued by the Apostolic Faith sect whose headquarters are in Portland, being distributed about the city Sunday night and Monday by two women members of the local society of the sect whose place of worship is located at 23 North Grape street.

The indignation is due to the fact that in the publication are several scurrilous utterances. Mayor Gates, who received a number of complaints concerning the publication and its distribution, today placed a copy of the paper and the other facts in the hands of United States Marshal Alexander, who was in the city today on other business. Marshal Alexander at once took steps to place the matter before the United States district attorney's office at Portland.

On the editorial page of the "Apostolic Faith," under the caption of "Doctrines," is published the following:

"It is our firm conviction, supported by the word of God, our consciences bearing us witness, that we cannot take up arms against our fellow man, however great the provocation or however just the cause might seem, it being the spirit of the gospel presented by Christ in His sermon on the mount, Matt. 5:39-46."

On another page appears a column of religious testimonials purporting to be given by soldiers in service, none of which are signed nor are any names given, in which one soldier is quoted as thanking God for having heard his prayer to be transferred from a machine gun company to the hospital service. "True, many are killed in the hospital service," he is quoted as saying, "but in that branch of service I will not have to kill anyone."

The local Apostolic Faith mission was established in this city last fall by a band of workers from the Portland headquarters who held a series of tent meetings in this city. The big Portland party of workers stopped at the Hotel Holland for several weeks and had two big automobiles to add them in their work. Altho no collections were taken up at these meetings the religious band seemed to be well equipped with funds.

KAISER'S PRAISES DULY SOUNDED BY OWN PRESS AGENT

AMSTERDAM, May 28.—The Kaiser now has a special press agent whose business it is to keep the German people in a properly worshipping attitude toward the all-highest.

His name is Karl Rosner. He is supposed to be the correspondent at the front of the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, but we hate to think what would happen to an editor who touched a pencil to his staff.

Here's his latest effusion, describing how William the head Hun, and Hindenburg, the first assistant Hun, started out for a motor tour of a battlefield:

"The supreme war lord clambered into the car. He summons Hindenburg to take a seat alongside of him, and even spreads the laprobe over the field marshal's knees with his own imperial hand.

"How brightly that is! It is more than that, it is a token of respectful solicitude. Cries of 'Hurrah' rend the air.

"The Kaiser and Hindenburg! What a spectacle! Ah, the sight of these two men together is enough to tell us that all is well.

"The troops are beside themselves with fervor. 'What a bit of luck,' they murmur gratefully as the car, with its august passengers, fades from view."
