Music Notes

Address all communications to Miss Butler, 8 South Orange Street, or telephone 353-R.

At some large assembly in an eastern city a few months ago it was asked how many in the audience knew the meaning of E. Pluribus Unum. The answers were marvelous and strange to hear, the majority giving the translation as "In God We Trust" It is equally deplorable that so few good Americans can repeat even one verse of the national song. From all parts of the country came reports of the beneficial effect of song on the soldier and civilian alike. To the one it means inspiration, a stimulus to courage and quiescent sense of duty, or dormant love of country, loyal as that love may be.

A tentative step toward the creation of a singing nation is the practice of audience singing in the theatres, the community "song" and so forth.

The movement has begun in Medford and will be given a fair test at least. Last Saturday evening at a local theatre, Mr. Fletcher Fish was heard in one of his talk-songs with original verse, the audience assisting, if ever so slightly, with either words or melody of our national anthem will have an excellent opportunity to learn both. Mr. G. M. Cross will lead the singing. Mrs. Florence McElhose, Miss Geraldine Thiess, Mrs. Edna Isaacs and other popular soloists will be featured during the month of June in patriotic selections.

Women in War Work

From the goods now being received at the Red Cross bureau of supplies at the Seattle headquarters it must be concluded that there is much misunderstanding throughout the division about what may be sent under the name of refugee garments.

Before any call was made for refugee garments the Red Cross sent two representatives abroad through all the accessible districts where refugee garments were needed. As a result of this mission pamphlets A. R. J. 407, 408 and 409 were issued, showing exactly what was wanted, the Red Cross wants and their color, cut and material. No chapter and no division is authorized to ship anything unless found in these pamphlets or in specific calls sent out by the Junior Red Cross.

An opportunity was given in March, but not by but through the Red Cross, to send to Belgium useful garments and materials not conforming to the Red Cross pamphlets. No such opportunity at present exists.

Please understand, therefore, that in the future no garments must be sent which do not conform exactly to the Red Cross patterns and the pamphlets and specifications as sent you by your own division.

If the supply warehouse continues to receive boxes of non-descript garments, such boxes will be returned to the sender, freight collect.

Fancy striping in the cuffs of socks is to be recommended for three reasons: 1. It relieves the tedium of the work, enables the knitter to use up odd bits of yard and helps the soldier to keep his socks properly mated. However, no bright colored yard should be used for this purpose, nor in fact anything but regular sock yarn such as white and various shades of gray.

The soldiers are often wet to the knees for many hours and the water soaked skin is likely to absorb any free dye. The soldier must take chances enough without being compelled to take unnecessary ones.

"While I was at" the British front, scarce a month ago," writes Geo. W. Simmons, manager of the southwestern division, "there occurred an incident which illustrates what manner of thing we are fighting. It was related to me by an English chaplain, who was an eyewitness:

"A Tommy had fallen in No Man's Land as the attack passed on down the trench. A surgeon went to his aid; as he approached he was hailed by a German officer who was lying wounded in a shell hole about twenty feet away, who said in English: 'Please, Doctor, come tie up my shattered leg or I will bleed to death.' The British soldier said, 'Go ahead, Doctor, I can wait.' So the surgeon bound up the German's wound and staunching the flow of blood and turned to care for the Englishman. Hardly was his back turned, however, when the German drew his pistol and killed him. Now it wasn't blood loss which caused the Hun to kill the surgeon who had just saved his life, but it was that horrible Kultur, bred into him for generations, which had taught him that a surgeon is worth 500 men, because he will mend 500 men and send them back to the fighting line. That same Kultur has forced our stretcher bearers to discard the brassard from their left arm—that Geneva Red Cross—which has for generations been the signal of the non-combatant, but which Kultur considers a fair target. And the Hun figures a stretcher bearer as the equal of 12 men—when he kills one."

The greatest lesson for America to learn in this war is the subordination

HOPELESS LOVE CAUSE OF MURDER AND THEN SUICIDE

WHITE SALMON, Wash., June 1.—With the discovery of a note in the pocket of Bertrand S. Bishop of Walla Walla, whose body with that of Mrs. Crester T. Dewey, was found near the road near here last night, authorities believe the uncertainty as to the cause of the supposed murder and suicide was removed. The note, signed by Bishop, declared that he loved Mrs. Dewey and that as he could not have her he intended to take her life and his own. Both were married and have children. Mrs. Dewey's husband, commissioned a lieutenant at Camp Lewis, now is in France.

The note found on Bishop was addressed to John C. Wyers of White Salmon with whom Bishop took his dinner on the night before his death. The authorities believe that Mrs. Dewey was shot by Bishop while she was driving the automobile near where the bodies were found. He then removed her from the car and turned the revolver upon himself.

James T. is one of the Jackson county drafted men leaving tomorrow morning for Fort McDowell, Cal. He will depart with the local contingent Sunday.

of individualism, so that we may work together as a mass.

The following are taken from talks given at the Red Cross institute recently held in Seattle. Eliminate the idea of sacrifice. Replace it by the idea of service.

In Red Cross work two things are necessary: 1. Speed of action. 2. Compactness of action.

Red Cross should radiate: 1. Patriotism. 2. Obedience. 3. Discipline.

Let us get the work done, no matter who gets the credit.

The chief aims of the Red Cross are: 1. Mercy. 2. Discipline.

We must learn to obey the man or the woman from whom we must take orders.

In this war, women are to be considered the second line trenches.

Anyone who will not work to win this war is as much a Hun as the men who are fighting against our boys over there.

We must obey orders. The division office is the channel thru which orders must pass from Washington to chapters.

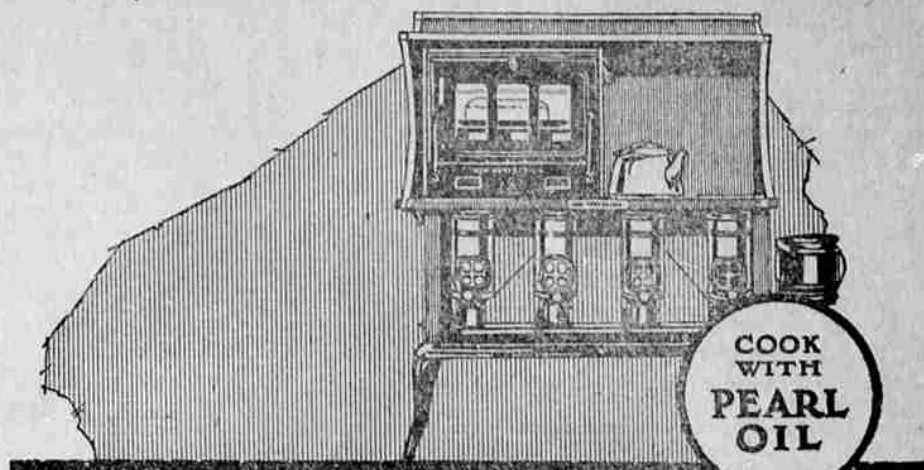

Our orders are absolutely dependent upon conditions in France. We must obey them, we must do the work we are asked to do, and stop

I ALMOST got acquainted WITH A charming man at a DINNER PARTY last evening but THE WOMAN who sat between US HAD spent too much MONEY FOR hair that had BELONGED TO others. EVERY PLEASantry of mine WAS EITHER hooked by A CURL or deflected by A FALSE puff. Then, too, I FANCIED THAT all of the ORIGINAL OWNERS of that ASSORTMENT OF hair were listening TO OUR conversation and it EMBARRASSED ME. Why in THE WORLD more women don't LEARN OF HERPICIDE and TRY FOR the home grown VARIETY OF hair is a MYSTERY to me.

Yours for beautiful hair, Herpicide Mary doing it when we are asked to stop. The northwestern division has used 700,000 yards of material, making 350,000 garments; 800,000 yards of gauze, making 3,500,000 dressings; 750,000 lbs. of yarn, making 80,000 sweaters and 40,000 pairs of socks. We are doing business on a $5,000,000 basis. It is a commonplace to say that people will co-operate in Red Cross work, who have not learned to co-operate in any other way. It is also true that those who have learned to co-operate in Red Cross work will carry that co-operation on into the meeting of community problems after the war.

Save Time Fuel and Food —Cook With Electricity

Cooking on an Electric Range is equivalent to saving an hour or more per day of your time—so little is the attention which it demands.

Electric Ranges are such efficient cooking mediums that they actually save two-thirds in fuel over the coal consumption of the ordinary kitchen range.

Foods cooked Electrically suffer much less spoilage than those cooked by other fuels. In addition, cooking being reduced to an exact science, there is less spoilage.

Aren't these advantages of sufficient merit to warrant your serious consideration of the Electric Range for your kitchen?
