TOMLIN BOX FACTORY SHIPS FIRST CAR

The Tomlin box factory shipped its first consignment of boxes out of the city Tuesday, when a carload was sent to Roseburg. The task of loading another car is now under way, and will probably be shipped this week.

The original intention of the company to devote its entire time to the needs of the local packers, a survey of the fruit crop convinced the managers that the factory would also be able to handle outside orders. It was announced yesterday by J. R. Tomlin, president of the company, that there would be no difficulty in disposing of all shooks the mill would be able to turn out by the 25th.

QUESTIONNAIRES TO BE SENT CLASS JUST REGISTERED

The young men, 104 in number, who registered in Jackson county, June 5, will soon be mailed a questionnaire on which each is to note just what he is doing, who are dependent upon his labor for support, whether married or not, what claims he has, if any, for exemption or deferred classification, and in fact answer a hundred questions or more by which the local exemption board can arrive at a right conclusion as to which class he is entitled to.

The classifications are five in number and under each class are divisions numbered by letters. The great majority of classifications are in either class 1 or class 4. The five classes are as follows:

Class 1.
Single man without dependent relatives.
Married man who has failed to support family.
Married man dependent on wife for support.
Married man with or without children not usefully engaged and family supported by income independent of his labor.
Unskilled farm laborer.
Unskilled industrial laborer.
Registrants who fail to return questionnaire or who do not claim any deferred classification.

Class 2.
Married man where the wife or children are not dependent upon him for support. Also a married man whose wife or children are not mainly dependent upon him for support and where the wife is able to make her own living. This class also includes men who are necessary for skilled work on the farm or a man who is a skilled industrial laborer.

Class 3.
Man with dependent children (not his own) but towards whom he stands in the relation of parent. Man with dependent helpless brothers or sisters. Man with dependent aged or infirm parents. County or municipal officer. Trained fireman or policeman with at least three years experience. Custom house clerk, necessary employe in mail service, worker in a U. S. armory or arsenal, necessary assistant of industrial or agricultural enterprise.

Class 4.
Man whose wife or children are mainly dependent on his labor for support. Marines actually employed in sea service of citizen or merchant of the United States. Necessary sole manager of agricultural or industrial enterprise.

Class 5.
Officers—legislative, executive or judicial of the United States or of state territory or District of Columbia. Regular or duly ordained minister of religion. Student who on May 18, 1917, was preparing for the ministry in a recognized school. Alien enemy. Resident alien (not an enemy) who claims exemption. Those physically or morally unfit for military service. Licensed pilot actually employed in the pursuit of his vocation. members of well organized religious sect whose creed forbids its members to participate in war of any kind and whose religious convictions are against participating in war.

In many cases those who claim to be opposed to war are put to work of some kind. Exemption boards everywhere are looking with disfavor on any man who attempts to avoid his duty on religious grounds. In returning the questionnaire to the local board, the registrant must answer the questions as to whether he claims exemption or deferred classification or he may sign a waiver of all claim for exemption.

If the registrant, except an alien enemy, fails to return the questionnaire on the date required, he shall be deemed to have waived all claim for deferred classification and shall be classified in class 1.

Chicago—Governor W. L. Harding of Iowa said in an address that no man has a right to take a vacation this year. If he does he is a slacker. A man who plays golf when there is corn to be hoed is not doing his duty by the boys in the trenches, he said.

GRADUATION EXERCISES HELD AT CENTRAL POINT

The twelfth annual commencement exercises of the Central Point high school were held in Central hall on Tuesday evening. The following program was given:

Graduation march, "Assyrian March" (Wachs), Harriet Balls.
Italia Beloved (Donivetti), Chorus.
Invocation, Rev. W. C. Driver.
Salutary—How the War Came to America, Beulah Wright.
Oration—War and Education, Harry Skyrman.
Solo—Mother o' Mine (Tours), Everett Brayton.
Oration—Pan American Commerce, Venner Lynch.
Oration—War and Thrift, Ethel Dean.
Vaudelectry—The World Safe for Democracy, Della Stevens.
Solo—Polichinelle (Strachmanhoff), Imogene Wallace.
Address to the class, Rev. J. C. Rollins.
Presentation of Diplomas, W. A. Cowley.
Star Spangled Banner (Key) Chorus.
The one outstanding feature of the exercises was the uniform of the graduates. The girls dressed as Red Cross nurses and the boys in khaki. The orations were on up-to-date topics and given in splendid style and showed fine thought and preparation. The address to the class by Dr. J. C. Rollins of Medford, was a masterly effort and received by the audience with much enthusiasm.

Coughs, colds, sore throat or bronchial troubles which persist at this time of the year usually are of an obstinate character. That is all the more reason why a truly reliable remedy like Foley's Honey and Tar Compound should be used. Mrs. H. Margaret Smale, Bishop, Calif., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is a grand remedy; more than is claimed for it. I was suffering from a cold last week and used the medicine and it acted like a charm." Contains no opiates. Sold everywhere. —Adv.

WASHINGTON—Modifications of the recent freight rate increase ordered were announced by Director General McAdoo.

SHOULD BE CALLED "OH YOUTH" SAYS DRAMATIC CRITIC

Walter Anthony, dramatic critic of the San Francisco Chronicle, writing of the musical comedy "Oh, Boy," due at the Page theater Monday, which by the way will be the most elaborate production seen here this season, even surpassing the Winter Gardens "Show of Wonder," says:

Its title of "Oh, Boy" does not suggest the pleasures of an evening at the Cort, where the musical comedy of that name conjured, last night, suggestions of "Woodland" and Gilbert and Sullivan with something else not found in the classic masters of the past. The only thing the matter with the Comstock-Elliott production is its title. No one would believe how delightful it is from its name. It is dainty, engaging, quaint and alluring, and I believe it was a success for two years in New York and for seven months in Chicago. But "Oh, Boy" suggests a different line of thought. "Oh, Boy" is badly named. It should be called, "Oh, Youth."

The melodies of the score, the scheme of the plot, and the pretty inflection of graceful girls in dances all conspire to make the auditor forget his years and slip some of them in his pocket with his penicils. A nice qualification is parographed on the program, which asserts that all the male members of the company have done their duty in registration. Thus you do not feel that the heroines on the stage are discounted by unpleasant facts.

Santley Is Charming
Joseph Santley in the role of the youth who loves a pretty girl and carries her is a characteristic figure on the American stage. He is like a tonic that you breathe when children laugh. He is without ulterior suggestion. He sings and dances and plays his role and you think you'd like to meet him after the show—a singular thought for a critic to entertain.

There is a suggestion of dramatic power in his acting which is usually revealed as in his behavior towards his aged aunt. Only the nimbleness of his knees and the quality of his comedy reconcile you to the fact that he is a musical comedy star. Dorothy Maynard appears in blue pajamas. I would not go so far as to say that her presence in the said pajamas has anything to do with the success of the show, and neither would I deny it. She is droll, demure, modest, beautifully coquettish and she can sing on the pitch. She bravely waves aside all opportunities for offense and sings and smiles and wins. Lavina Winn is not a stranger here. She has developed greatly since her last visit with the Kolb and Dill forces. Her singing is one of the big assets of the show. She is so charming a personality that I can't really blame her for knowing it. Still if she would cultivate the unconscious manner of Miss Maynard she would better her dear self. Cameron a Real Hit.

More than a word is required to tell of the success of Hugh Cameron in the role of a detective. This sentence will have to suffice. He brings a new angle to an overworked role and makes it a brilliant feat of humor. I mean he restores the innocence of the humor in a part which might be done perfunctorily.

But apart from the individual successes herein chronicled is the fact that "Oh, Boy" is delightful entertainment and presents something new in musical comedy daintiness, cleverness and a score of pleasant tunes appropriate to the action of a plot which might exist without them.

GERMAN DRIVE AIMED AT MOSCOW

LONDON, June 13.—The Germans in the Ukraine began a new movement eastward on June 10, according to a Russian government wireless dispatch. Foreign Minister Tchitcherin has instructed Ambassador Joffe at Berlin to complain about the movement, which is on a width of one hundred versts on the Valuki-Zpukovka station front, south of Moscow. It is charged that the movement is in violation of the line of demarcation agreed upon by the German government. The Germans are asked to retire to their old positions.

WAR SPEECHES BY ALLIED DOCTORS

CHICAGO, June 13.—Medical celebrities attending the 69th annual convention of the American Medical association united last night in a program of war speeches in both English and French that marked the high tide of enthusiasm for the allied cause.

The army and naval medical officers marched on the stage, while the band played and the audience stood. Surgeon General W. C. Gorgas of the army and Surgeon General W. C. Braisted of the navy were among the speakers.

Interest today outside the technical side of the meeting centered in the election of officers tomorrow.
