In the parlor of the home where she was born and raised, fragrant with the pleasant memories of childhood and girlhood, and redolent with the perfume of honeysuckle and roses, Miss Isabell Phipps last Sunday evening became the bride of Carl Hausen. The event was rather a "surprise party" to most of the guests. The contracting couple had planned their wedding for several weeks later, but last week Mr. Hausen received an order from the government assigning him to duty at Los Angeles, and requiring almost immediate departure, so it was decided to have the nuptials without further delay and begin preparing their new home together. The guests were not apprised of the nature of the party to which they were invited until a glimpse of the parlor revealed it. Robed in a beautiful navy blue traveling gown and holding a lovely bouquet of flowers, the bride plighted her vows, the ceremony being performed by Rev. F. B. Huffman. It had been planned to have the marriage ceremony before the wedding supper, but owing to the unavoidable detention of the minister on another mission, the supper was served, and then came the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Hausen at once departed for Ashland, with the other members of their families, and there took train for their new home.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. A. R. Phipps, who resides just northeast of Medford on the original Phipps homestead. Having spent her years in the Rogue river valley, she has a very extended circle of friends. She is an artist of no mediocre ability, and the many ambitious paintings, the talented handiwork of herself and sisters, which richly adorn the walls of the Phipps home, have attracted an unusual degree of attention and praise.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hausen of North Central avenue. He has been a resident of Medford for a number of years, during which time he has been making a special study of fruit trees and their diseases. It is due to his knowledge in this line that the government has enlisted his services in the orchard fields of southern California. He has a good salaried position. The many friends of both bride and groom wish them every success and happiness in their new relationship and field of endeavor.

One of the most delightful affairs of commencement week of the high school was the annual dance given by the senior class in honor of the juniors and alumni at the Natatorium Tuesday evening. The class patriotically decorated the hall in an artistic display of flags and red, white and blue streamers. A feature of the evening was a beautiful tableau, showing Miss Isabelle Stuart as the Goddess of Liberty, standing in an array of flags and other decorations of the national colors.

During this spectacle the orchestra played the Star Spangled Banner and the crowd sang. Punch was served from booths which also were laden with decorations of patriotic colors. About 50 couples attended the dance, of which Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jacobs were patrons and patronesses.

Oak Circle No. 242 Phoenix, Ore., held one of their very pleasant social sessions Wednesday afternoon, June 12. After the regular order of business the committee served ice cream, both crushed strawberry and lemon flavor. Oak Circle has ever been noted for their jolly good times, and last but not least, a bounteous supply of good things to eat. The circle have gotten a dispensation to take in four young ladies to act as guards. They also plan to take in a new class of several new members under a special low rate.

Last Monday evening friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Tinker and Miss Mary Tinker, who expect to leave soon for Stockton, Cal., to reside, gave them a farewell party at their home on Beatty street. The evening was pleasantly spent with conversation and music. Mrs. W. M. Van Scoyoc giving two vocal numbers in her usual pleasing way. Miss Helen Philbrook played several instrumental selections, after which all gathered around the piano and sang patriotic songs.

The members and friends of the Epworth League held their regular monthly business meeting Tuesday evening on the banks of Bear creek. After the business session, which was dispensed with in as short a time as possible, a general good time was had by all. Late in the evening a bon fire was made and a weenie roast enjoyed.

Mrs. Noah Chandler and daughter Irene leave Sunday for Roseburg for a visit with Mr. Chandler's mother.

A most unique and enjoyable old time social was given at the home of Mrs. Kohler, 23 Almond street, Thursday afternoon by the Eastside circle of the Christian church, most of the members and their invited guests were attired in old time costumes, some of the ladies wearing their grandmothers dresses of the early sixties, with hoop skirts, high back combs and corkscrew curls. Mrs. Huffman wore an old hand made dress belonging to Mrs. L. D. Jones' mother. Mrs. Hobbs wore a typical costume of Civil war days. Mrs. Bellinger represented a maiden lady of the early fifties. Several were articles of their great grandmothers of the 19th century. Mrs. Hanby carried an old fashioned volume of the Columbia Magazine, published in 1788. The program consisted of old time games and songs. At the roll call the circle members responded by telling their experience in poetry and prose of earning a dollar or more for the circle fund. This brought in $17. At the close of the social hour, Mr. Palmer, the photographer, took a number of pictures of the party. Delicious refreshments of ice cream, strawberries and cake were served cafeteria style. Those present were: Mrs. C. W. Ashpole, Mrs. John Ashpole, Mrs. W. H. Boswell, Mrs. J. W. Bass, Mrs. Walter Crank, Mrs. D. A. McCurdy, Mrs. R. W. Day of Bedford, Ind., Mrs. Coffin, Mrs. D. W. Dieskel, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. J. H. Bellinger, Mrs. B. L. Hobbs, Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Darnell, Mrs. Hazel, Mrs. Rhoades, Mrs. Schuler, Mrs. T. P. Walters, Mrs. Peil, Mrs. E. Massie, Mrs. J. E. Toft, Mrs. N. A. Short, Mrs. A. J. Hanby, Mrs. Marion Lane, Mrs. S. A. Hall, Mrs. Emerson, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. J. W. Shirley, Mrs. Tom Kahler, Miss Carolina Leanders, Mrs. Roy Guyer, Misses Francis and Helen Shirley.

The Home Missionary society of the Methodist church met with Mrs. Proebsting on Keene Way Thursday afternoon. The most of the afternoon was spent in the election of officers as follows: President, Mrs. H. K. Miller; vice president, Mrs. T. G. Heine; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Albert Moore; recording secretary, Mrs. C. A. Meeker; treasurer and secretary of mothers' jewels, Mrs. Martha Gore; secretary of mite boxes, Mrs. F. C. Edmondson; secretary of supplies, Mrs. Lee Watkins; secretary of young people's work and director of Queen Esthers, Mrs. John Carlin; secretary of literature and press representative, Mrs. H. A. Canaday; secretary of home guards, Mrs. Riley Henson; secretary of evangelism, Mrs. Proebsting; secretary of temperance, Mrs. S. L. Leonard. After the business session Mrs. C. W. Copkin announced the program as follows: Vocal solo, Mrs. J. W. Kerns, accompanied by Mrs. C. A. Meeker; "Talk on Progressiveness of the Japanese Work in the University of California," Mrs. Proebsting; piano duet, Mrs. W. M. Van Scoyoc and Mrs. C. A. Meeker.

In behalf of the society Mrs. Heine presented Mrs. Kerns, who is leaving town soon, with a friendship book. Mrs. Kerns responded in words of appreciation.

Owing to the lateness of the afternoon several omissions on the program were made.

Mrs. George Lindley, Mrs. Andrew Clancy and Mrs. Sarah Lindley were assistant hostesses.

The Amoma class of the Baptist church met at the home of Guy Webb on the Jacksonville road Sunday afternoon, June 9. During the afternoon there was music, which was followed by light refreshments. An important business meeting was also held at which time the following new officers were elected: President, Grace Bratney; vice president, Mildred Corey; secretary and treasurer, Jessie Webb; reporter, Helen Lawton.

A very enjoyable dancing party was given Monday evening by Miss Mary Gore in the small hall of the Natatorium. The affair was given in honor of the graduating class of the Medford high school of which she is a member. About 30 couples were present.

Mrs. Bertha Emerick entertained for a number of her piano pupils Saturday afternoon. Games and music were enjoyed after which refreshments were served. The rooms were decorated with June flowers.

The Ladies' Bible class of the Presbyterian church will meet for relief work on Monday with Mrs. Robert Boyle, 1421 East Main street.

Mrs. Herman Messenger and little daughter of Provost is spending a week as guest of Mrs. Joh Rader at her pleasant home south of Phoenix.

Mrs. G. H. Howland of Riddle, who has been the guest at the home of Mrs. J. E. Stewart for the past month has returned to her home.

Miss Helen Dahl was hostess to the Tuesday Embroidery club at her home on Tenth street this week.

The College Womens club met this afternoon at Ashland at the home of Mrs. Wagner.

"Song will win the war; a nation is what it's songs are" is the declaration of Emma Roberts, the contralto, whose voice has been heard by thousands, and who was recently elected to represent America's best type in the music festival at Ann Arbor, Michigan, and at the great musical event at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, in May. "Don't you see that the song of the allies express a people bound to conquer," says Miss Roberts. "A nation is represented by its songs. The national anthems of America, France and England are especially uplifting and inspiring."

Miss Eva Richmond, was engaged to sing for the commencement exercises estacade last Tuesday night. The large attendance manifested its appreciation by generous applause. Miss Richmond was presented in recital at the Volair conservatoire last winter by Madame Lucil Volair with whom she is preparing for a professional stage career.—Portland Oregonian.

Little Miss Loris Gratke, violinist of Astoria, has made great progress lately in the violin line. She appeared in recital in Miss Catlin's school recently, the proceeds being donated to Red Cross funds. It was Miss Gratke's first violin recital in this city and she played with charm and understanding, worthy of the occasion. Her program consisted of selections from the works of Handel, Mozart, Wieniawski, Kreisler, Tschakowsky, Musin, etc. and her lovely violin tone and mastery over technical difficulties in performance were deservedly admired.—Portland Oregonian.

The above item from the Portland Oregonian is of interest to many in Medford. Miss Richmond, formerly lived here where she was a piano student of Mr. Gerard Tallaudier. Little Miss Gratke made a notable impression on her audience when she appeared in Medford during the Editor's convention about two years ago.

The music festival, which we hoped so much to have this spring is just postponed. In a letter to Mr. George Andrews, Mr. Walter Damrosch, of the New York Symphony orchestra stated the date to appear in Medford would have to be cancelled on account of the war.

Mrs. Jack Keating, a present resident of the north Pacific coast wrote under another name, many of the song successes of the Philippine war period. Perhaps the one most people will remember was his "Just As The Sun Went Down". The chorus went something like this:

"One held a look of her thin gray hair,
One held a look of brown;
Bidding farewell to the Stars and the stripes,
Just as the sun went down.

It is interesting to note the difference in tenor of the hits of then and now.

The latter are imbued with courage assurance and the utmost confidence in ultimate victory; a true reflection of the spirit of the times.

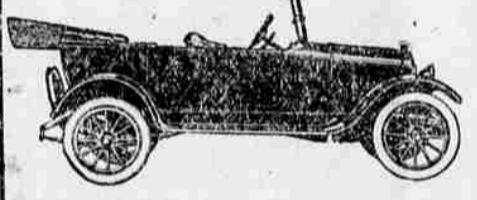

"Oh my sweetheart, don't you fear,
I'll bring you a king for a souvenir."
Or this:
"We won't be back til its over,
Over there."
"Its a long way to Berlin, but we'll get there."
Sub staff is conspicuously not in evidence.

As an incident to the War Savings Stamp campaign, soloists are chosen each week to be featured at local theatres in patriotic selections. Miss Theiss has been selected for the evening performances of June 15 and 16. She will sing "Keep The Home Fires Burning;" one of the best-loved war ballads of the present day.

Just before going to press an announcement came to the writer from the Ellison White Conservatory of Music in Portland of a "Master-School" to be conducted by Leopold Godowsky at Portland for four weeks beginning in August. A very wonderful opportunity for the amateur artist.

Appreciation of the young men of the high school, Messrs Gray, Hard, Brayton, Butler, Mahoney and Daddysfan, who assisted in strating the "audience singing" in local theaters is expressed through these columns. Also to Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, Miss Theiss, Mrs. Edna Esames and Mr. Clinton McAndy.

That's easy to answer—you want everything that the ingenuity of man has invented; that science could develop, and an American, accustomed to the best, desire.

You want comfort to the point of luxury in riding qualities. You demand a car that in outward appearance is one you and your family can be proud to be seen in.

You insist on artistic lines in a body that is in accord with the prevailing fashions. Upholstery that feels as easy as it looks—that is as durable as the best. And withal a finish in details and in the ensemble that looks the part your car is to play in your daily life.

Speed, you desire, equal to any occasion and power equal to any emergency. All these you may obtain in a motor car and at a price well within your reach—if you but select right.

There's the rub—how to decide, between those who claim everything, which car will fulfill the claims.

For makers are not over-modest. There's no patent on adjectives nor restriction on the use of words.

Every maker claims everything. How is one to decide? After all, it isn't so difficult. Just observe one rule—accept no claim that hasn't been proven.

You can see and test for yourself most of the qualities you desire in a motor car. You can compare body lines. You can feel the upholstering. You can determine the quality of finish.

By riding in it you can verify or disprove all claims as to spring suspension, balance and riding qualities.

If you know how to drive any car you can drive it yourself and thereby test the handling and control—steering gear, shift, clutch, brakes, etc.—and responsiveness of motor.

All these are an open book to the man who will read and can interpret. So after all, you need only accept the word of the salesman for—well, for the most important facts.

These are, the reliability of the car and its gasoline consumption. And there's where the claims come in—for makers being human, and business being competitive, there is a tendency to claim reliability unlimited—and fuel economy to the vanishing point.

Since this is so, what is the formula for accurate selection of a motor car? Proofs—that is the only certain way.

"Claims are all right, but only proofs count"—that is the Maxwell slogan. Believing that every claim should be susceptible of incontrovertible proof—and believing it to be good business to claim only what we can prove—

We have proven in official test, and before the whole world, those two most elusive but most important qualities—reliability and gasoline economy.

In 44 days and nights running, during which the motor never stopped—the car every minute under the supervision of A. A. A. Officials—the Maxwell proved its wonderful reliability.

That still stands the world's record for reliability—the Official Record.

In that same non-stop test, a standard, stock-model Maxwell covered 22,022 miles at an average speed of 25 miles per hour.

That also is the Official World's long distance record.

Again: The Maxwell Motor Company offered $50,000 in Liberty Bonds to Maxwell owners all over the American Continent—Canada, the U. S. and Mexico—for an economy contest.

More than 3000 Maxwell owners entered—and the average of all those Maxwells was 29.4 miles per gallon of gasoline. (That was for a U. S. standard gallon. Add 20 per cent mileage and you have 35.3 for a Canadian "Imperial Gallon.")

That also stands a world's record for gasoline economy.

And remember, it wasn't the performance of one especially adjusted car, but an average made by more than 3000 Maxwells—1915, 16 and 17 models.

Nor were they driven by factory employees or dealers—the rules specified that only actual owners or members of their families could compete.

So there's one car, in the selection of which you can be sure—absolutely sure. For what you cannot yourself see and examine and test, has been proven beyond question.

You are invited to see and to ride in and to drive yourself, a Maxwell.

And, having done that—having seen and tested all that can be confirmed in a short time—the official figures of those long-time, long-distance, reliability and economy tests are also available to you.

Then, if you are willing to accept mere verbal assertions in the selection of your car—that is your privilege, of course.

But if you want a car that in official test has proven every claim made for it—that car must be a Maxwell.
