

GERMANY DRAWS LAST RESERVES OF MAN POWER

(By Milton Bronner.)
 WASHINGTON, July 9.—Germany is tapping the last of her man power reserves, says Sam L. Rogers, director of the United States census. And Rogers ought to know something about it, because it is his business to keep posted on population figures.

I called his attention to recent stories regarding the population of Germany. One said German propagandists were claiming a population of 80,000,000, instead of 60,000,000 as represented in the last German census.

The other said an American citizen's daughters, who had been guests of Hindenburg's daughters in 1913, had heard the Hun leader say Germany's population was really 90,000,000.

Census Figures Right

"I don't believe either statement," said Rogers. "It would not be possible for a nation so to camouflage its census reports as to deceive the world. In order to do so, it would be necessary to make all the tables gear up.

"For instance, census experts study and compare figures giving the age and sex constitution of the population, the birth rate, the death rate, the marriage statistics, the disease figures. It is a pretty hard thing to doctor all these so as to make them come out right.

"And even if they did, comparison with figures of past censuses would at once reveal a vast discrepancy. There would have to be some accounting for the absence of growth. Marriage figures would have to be decreased, birth would have to be decreased and deaths increased. And this would have to be done on such a scale as at once to arouse wide discussion at home and abroad.

"Of course it would be possible for the Germans to have started out with fake census figures in 1870. To do so they would have to belittle their own empire; to show slow growth in every line of human endeavor. Instead of that, they showed tremendous expansion of a commercial and seafaring race and boasted about it.

At Bottom of Heap

"Various checks will show the foolishness of this propaganda story. The total area of Germany is 208,780 square miles, or less by 57,000 square miles than Texas. There is not enough farming and grazing land to give employment to a very large population. A large part of Germany's population lives in cities and towns.

Twenty million more people than they claim in the census would mean many more big cities than they have.

"An industrial population increased by 20,000,000 would produce more material than we know they were selling and eat far more than we know they were raising and importing. You can't any more conceal the amount of stuff 20,000,000 people would produce and consume than you can hide the people themselves.

"Germany, doubtless, would like to have that many more people to be drawn on for cannon fodder. But I don't believe she has them. I think she is down to the bottom of the heap, emboling out the last remnants of her population capable of bearing arms. If the war goes to that side which has the last reserves, then America's vast man power is destined to defeat Germany."

WOOL MERCHANTS EVADE WAR TAX

BOSTON, July 9.—William A. English, and John H. O'Brien, members of the firm of English and O'Brien, Boston wool merchants, were arrested today on a federal indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the government of income taxes. The indictment alleged that the shortage thru improper accounting amounted to $250,000. Both pleaded not guilty and were held in bonds of $25,000 each. Federal officials said it was the first case of the kind to be brought to the attention of the grand jury.

With the arrest of English and O'Brien it became known that the government yesterday instituted a civil suit against them for the recovery of $2,000,000 damages to cover the amount alleged to have been held back on income tax payments. Examination of the firm's records showed, federal authorities said, that two sets of books had been kept, one for examination by internal revenue experts and the other for the private information of the defendants.

The Misses Vera and Winifred Read left this morning for a visit with friends at Eugene.

CONSERVATION OF AUTOMOBILE TIRES URGED BY MAKERS

CLEVELAND, July 9.—Conservation and preservation of automobile and truck tires is the plea of tire and rubber manufacturers today, according to officials of leading companies.

As food will win the war so will the ability to carry on transportation by motor trucks. With the present railroad congestion it is more important than ever before to move food and supplies of all kinds by motor trucks.

It is admitted there is a shortage of automobile and truck tires due to both the shortage of rubber as well as labor.

Depleted by Draft

One manufacturer has lost 4000 of his men who have gone into federal service. The diversion of labor to government activities makes it impossible to replace all the men who have gone. In some departments female labor has been substituted. "However," says Manager L. C. Rockhill of the merchandizing department of the Goodyear Rubber Co., "it is necessary that the labor we have now be devoted, first of all, to those things considered by the government to be most essential to winning the war. Consequently, our first concern must be the production of gas masks, balloons, airplane tires, truck tires, belts and mechanical goods used in war activities and automobile tires used by the government for war purposes."

The answer to the tire and rubber problem lies in conservation. It is estimated that millions of tires are thrown away every year because of tire abuse, neglect and the failure to have them repaired. Heretofore the average user was little interested in tire conservation.

Shortage Is Certain

After an investigation of the truck tire situation, W. C. Owen of the Owen Tire and Rubber Company, reports that the total capacity of all tire manufacturers is 7725 truck tires per day or figuring from the 300 day-per-year standpoint, they can manufacture 2,317,500 tires during the coming year. It is estimated that during this same period there will be 700,000 trucks to equip with tires in this country. Figuring five tires per year for each truck, which is very conservative, it will take 3,500,000 tires per year, which is a shortage of 1,182,500 for the coming year.

"We want tire users, both truck and automobile, to do everything they can to prolong the life of their tires," a prominent tire official stated. "The United States needs tires and rubber goods to win this war and it is up to the consumer to either conserve now or possibly lay up his car or truck later because he can get no tires."

How to Conserve

First—Do not do any unnecessary driving.

Second—Do not "ride" the car tracks—this weakens and wears the walls of your tires. Keep tires properly inflated.

Third—See that tread cuts are taken care of at once by using tire putty.

Inside tire protectors can often be used and add hundreds of miles to the life of your tire.

The use of rim-cut patches, blow-out patches, and protection patches for temporary repairs will often prevent permanent injury to shorten the life of the tire.

Until this country entered the war the average importation of rubber was 160,000 tons. This has been cut now to 100,000 tons. The government requires 65,000 tons for war use, leaving 35,000 tons to be made into automobile and truck tires for the consumer.

NURSES COMPLAIN OF JOYLESS LIVES

LONDON, July 9.—English nurses are complaining of their joyless lives "without the companionship of men." "We are treated as nuns," says one. "And we are the only workers in the country who are allowed no recreation."

For Constipation and Biliousness

Good digestion goes for toward comfort and health in hot weather. Undigested food in the stomach can quickly poison the system. Geo. Jenner, 418 Labor St., San Antonio, Tex., writes: "Foley Cathartic Tablets have proven the best laxative I have taken and I recommend them to any one suffering from constipation or biliousness. They should be in every traveling man's grip." Quick relief for sick headache, bloating or other condition caused by bad digestion. Sold everywhere.

BILL TO ENLARGE CRATER NATIONAL PARK HELD UP

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Senator McNary's bill to enlarge Crater Lake national park to include Diamond lake has encountered the secret opposition that every bill to enlarge a national park encounters, from livestock interests and it is being held up in committee.

No report has yet been made on it by the interior department. It is believed at the department that cattlemen generally will be satisfied with regulations under which they are permitted to graze in the parks, and that the only real difficulty is with the sheepmen, who object to being excluded.

The park service believes that Crater lake park must be enlarged to give it the popularity with tourists that it deserves. Those who visit the park are declared to be too much limited in their activities, without enough room or facilities for camping and without inducement for short trips at one side. If the park were extended to Diamond lake and on to Mount Thielsen, it is argued grounds in that vicinity made into camping tracts would attract automobilists and lead many others to prolong their stay beyond a "one night stand."

Officials of the national park service are pleased over the action of the railroad administration in establishing a service office for the public in Chicago, which will be made center for the information of travelers and will be of particular usefulness for tourists who are planning trips to the far west.

A visit to one or more of the national parks forms part of nearly every itinerary of a western summer tour having one of the Pacific coast cities as its objective. National park literature and full information as to how to reach and enjoy the national playgrounds will be features of this Chicago office, which has just been opened in the charge of a man who was for years in the Yellowstone, and is himself a park enthusiast.

There is no lack of patronage of the national parks this year, it is said by officials of the park service. There is brisk travel on the park trails, particularly the Yellowstone, the Yosemite and Rainier. It is believed that the coast movement between California and Oregon will make a good season at Crater lake, also.

GERMAN JUNKERS PAY DEARLY FOR WAR WITH SONS

AMSTERDAM, July 9.—The German junkers, the gang which was mainly responsible for the war, are paying dearly for it.

Their sons have been killed off by hundreds since the war began. The noble and aristocratic families of Germany are sadly broken and depleted by losses in battle.

The latest edition of the "Gotha Genealogical Diary," quoted in the German press, shows that some of the most powerful and influential families of Prussia have been the heaviest losers.

Of families whose heads are counts, 270 members have fallen. Baronial houses have lost 625 members.

The "ancient nobility" has suffered most of all, 843 of its sons having been killed. Among the "created nobility" there have been 826 victims.

The Wedel and Arnim families, which are among the most extensive and influential in Prussia, have lost respectively 22 and 21 members. The Buelow family has lost 17, the Pattkammer family 16, the house of Knobeldorff 15, the Oertzen family 15.

Other well-known noble mourners, with the numbers of their dead, are: Wangelheim, 14; Prittwitz, 9; Majzen, 9; Dohna, 7; Finckenstein, 7; Schwerin, 6; Kleist, 6; Roon, 5; Schlieffen, 5; Strahwitz, 5.

But the most aristocratic family in Germany, or in the world, still has six uninjured and healthy sons.

That's the one headed by Wilhelm Hohenzollern.

PARIS, July 9.—Professor Laurent of Brussels, a doctor with the French army, succeeded in joining the large blood vessel of a living dog to the heart of a dog which had been killed, and the dead heart, filling with blood, began to beat normally.

WILSON THANKS ADVERTISING MEN FOR WAR WORK

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—The vital part taken by advertising in developing America's prosecution of the war was noted by President Woodrow Wilson in a telegram sent here today to William C. D'Arcy, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which are in convention here.

President Wilson cited the part taken by the advertising men in creating and maintaining interest in Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other war drives. Special attention was called to the activity of the advertising men in the committee on public information.

The telegram said in full:

"Permit me to express very genuine interest in the success of your great convention in San Francisco. I realize how squarely and spontaneously the advertising men of the country have stood behind the war. I want in particular to bear witness to the service which advertising has rendered in directing the prosecution of the war thru what it has done for the sale of Liberty bonds and war saving stamps and in behalf of subscription funds for the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A., not to speak of many other forms of service.

"It was with real satisfaction that I read by executive order the government division of advertising as a part of the committee on public information. The men appointed as members of that division are all members of your association, and the work that has been done has been of far reaching service and value.

"I recall my pleasure in attending your convention in Philadelphia two years ago and I can, therefore, fully appreciate the patriotic fervor that will mark your present meeting and the sound counsel which will guide its deliberations."

NEW COATING FOR CONCRETE SHIPS

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Discovery of a new protective coating, which is expected to make concrete ships as durable as steel, was announced today by the shipping board.

"Engineers studying concrete construction are becoming more and more enthusiastic over the future of concrete ships," said R. J. Wig, chief of the concrete ship division. "From our tests at sea water, we are assured that such vessels will last a minimum of several years without any protection. Application of well known protective coatings makes certain an extended life of several years additional and with the further development of protective means which we have discovered, I believe the concrete ship can be made as permanent as steel, if not more so."

YANKEES SYSTEM OF BATTLE DIFFERS FROM THE ALLIES

CHICAGO, July 9.—Sergeant Sam P. Barr, 20 years in the United States army and just returned from France, after five months' service with the expeditionary force, is in Chicago today. Speaking of his experiences, he said:

"Our method of fighting differs from those of our allies. They retreat from the thin held first line trenches when a heavy barrage announces an attack. When the enemy has wasted his ammunition and has taken the allied first trenches the allies rush in from the second in a counter attack. We asked ourselves: Why go back then ahead through the barrage? So we decided we'd go ahead under the barrage and wait for them at the barbed wire. At our fights we met the Germans long before they expected us, killed a lot of them and scattered the remainder in the barbed wire. Then we went back and sat down while the machine gun men moved them down in the wire. There is no way to beat this method of fighting.

"In a clear field the American can whip the German up to five or six times his number. The German is well trained and fights hard, but he does only what he is told. When he reaches his objective he doesn't know where to go from there. So we catch him at that point—and he doesn't go from there until the grave section comes along."

SOCIALISTS FIND BRITISH INTERESTED IN U.S. WAR AIMS

LONDON, July 9.—Members of the delegation sent to England by the Social Democratic League of America made the following statement to the Associated Press today regarding their conferences with representatives of British labor and socialist organizations:

"We have found intense interest in America's war activity and especially in the war aims of President Wilson. We have found eagerness on the part of all with whom we have talked to know the position of American socialists, and a realization of the most important if not decisive part that must be played by American labor in the international labor movement.

Ignorance Prevailed

"There have been many misunderstandings to clear up, and these are by no means wholly on this side of the Atlantic. The extent of America's preparation for war and the solidarity of labor's position behind the nation in winning the war have been a source of great encouragement. In spite of all the publicity on these subjects, the mass of the workers seem not to have known of what had really been accomplished.

"Of even greater importance as an element of encouragement to the socialists and laborers of England is the story of progress which America is making toward democracy during the war. The fact that labor is gaining in influence and improving its condition in the midst of the fighting is looked upon everywhere as the greatest security of America's claim to be fighting for democracy."

Personality of Delegates

The committee is comprised of A. M. Simons of Wisconsin and John Spargo, formerly members of the executive committee of the socialist party; Louis Kopeln, editor of the New Appeal; Alexander Howat of Kansas, president of district 14 of the United Mine Workers of America; Charles Edward Russell, Professor George D. Herron and Frank Bohn.

Before sailing for Europe, Mr. Simons, chairman, said the committee would present to European socialists the American interpretation of democratic internationalism. He added that the committee was in entire agreement with the program for peace formulated by President Wilson January 8.
