

"RARIN' TO GO" SLOGAN OF MEN OFF FOR WAR

Seventy-three Young Men of Jackson County Called to Colors, Leave for Training Camp—Crowd Bids Them Cheerful Farewell—Mother of Evans Creek Youth Collapses.

"We're rarin' to go" was the slogan of the 73 young men of Jackson county forming the largest draft contingent that has yet left in a body for military service from here, and while waiting for the train this morning to take them to Camp Lewis until the time of departure the expression was frequently shouted.

It was by far the liveliest bunch of drafted men yet to depart. The boys, who came from all parts of the county, were overflowing with that elusive thing known as "pep" and cheerfulness. They pulled off a number of stunts as they pranced around thru the crowd of several hundred people, mostly friends and relatives, gathered to bid them farewell, and stopped here and there to shake hands and say good-bye. Some of the boys swiped a lawnmower from "somewhere in Medford" and brought it to the depot where after having lots of fun with the machine as a whole they proceeded to dismember it and parceled out its pieces as far as they would go to be carried away on the train as souvenirs.

Recruits Are Cheerful

Considering the large number of men who were leaving, the crowd to bid them farewell was not up to the Medford standard as shown in previous farewells to selected men. The cheerfulness and exuberant spirits of the boys was contagious and the relatives and close friends quickly absorbed it, but here and there thru the crowd were women with tear-dimmed eyes, some men, too, who tried to smile and laugh like the others.

Just as the train pulled out with the drafted men cheering and calling out messages the crowd was electrified in sympathy with a grief-stricken mother, whose nerves giving way, caused her to scream in agony and collapse. She was tenderly picked up by nearby men and women and carried, still screaming, into the depot. She was Mrs. Neathamer of Wimer, in the Evans creek district, whose third and last son, Mark, was one of the drafted boys speeding away on the train. His two brothers have been in the service for some time. Mrs. Neathamer is a sufferer from heart trouble, and for a time serious consequences were feared. A nurse gave first aid to her in the depot, and later she was taken home by relatives, tho still quite ill.

Mother Collapses

It developed that Mrs. Neathamer's collapse was due to the fact that her son, who had bade her good-bye early in the morning, knowing of her heart trouble and emotional nature, thought it best to keep out of her sight at the depot and to jump on the train without another farewell. When the train started to pull out and the grief-stricken woman realized that she could not see her boy again, she screamed and collapsed.

The names of the drafted men who departed at 7:35 this morning, including the nine men called by the draft board to complete call No. 663 at Camp Lewis to take the places of nine men rejected of the Jackson county contingent sent to Camp Lewis two weeks or more ago, and also the six men who left at 10:45 a. m. today for Fort McDowell, Cal., to take the places of men rejected in call No. 775, are as follows:

GLADYS ROCKWELL AT RIALTO TONIGHT

William Fox has provided a brilliant new play for Gladys Brockwell which will be presented at the Rialto theatre tonight and tomorrow. It is called "The Scarlet Road." This play presents the star, who is one of the greatest favorites that the screen possesses, in a new light and makes her more attractive than ever. Certain it is that Miss Brockwell has earned an enviable reputation in the work that she has done.

The play has to do with a young woman who meets with the literary and artistic community of a great city and becomes one of the group, but has not a real part in its views and manner of life. In spite of all the temptations that surround her, she remains strong and true. Two men are in love with her. In the end she finds that one has betrayed her trust. There is an opportunity for brilliant acting in this play, and undoubtedly Gladys Brockwell has taken advantage of it.

HAS SECRET OF MAKING LIONS SMILE

Mrs. H. E. Cole claims to have the recipe for making a lion laugh. She dubbed this six-weeks-old jungle scion "Pershing" and right away the cub registered a regular lionine grin.

Mrs. Cole, wife of Lieut. Cole, assistant provost marshal of the western department of the army, surmises that her pet's pride was flattered by being named after a real fighter. You might try it on the next lion you meet up with.

AMERICANS RAID GERMANS IN VOSGES

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sunday, July 21.—(By the Associated Press). American troops in the raid into the German lines into the Vosges Friday inflicted 150 casualties on the enemy and sustained virtually none themselves. The German prisoners declare they had been receiving bad food and poor ammunition.

Six officers and sixteen men have been commended in French and American orders for "conspicuous bravery in the execution of the raid into the Vosges recently." Two hundred Americans, including thirty-two band men as stretcher bearers, penetrated 800 yards into the German trenches and inflicted nearly 100 casualties. The raid occupied only 45 minutes.

Battery On Bank of Marne Hammered Constantly By Five Enemy Batteries for Three Days and Nights—Communications Cut and Officer Acts as Messenger. Boy

LONDON, Sunday, July 21.—Reuter's correspondent at French headquarters telegraphs: "I spent yesterday (Saturday) on the bank of the Marne with the American troops. They were the officers and men of a battery of American 75's which had been in position on a bare exposed plateau above the river, about 1,000 yards from the Boche ridges during the entire week. They were aroused by terrific artillery preparation on the part of the enemy on the night of July 14. The American battery was in the open and of 30 enemy batteries which had been identified in the sector, five

IT STOPPED MY SUFFERING

Said Mrs. Jaynes, Speaking of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Anderson, S. C.—"I got into an awful condition with what the doctors said was an organic displacement. I would have pains so badly that they would have to put hot clothes on me and give me morphine. The doctor said I would never be any better without an operation and I would never have any children without it. A neighbor who knew what your medicine would do advised me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did so and it made me a well woman and the next September I gave birth to a healthy baby boy."

The letters which we are constantly publishing from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

were concentrating on the American battery. The men had to turn out and open on the enemy without a moment's delay. They continued to fire as hard as they could for 72 hours.

Never Stopped Shelling

"The Americans were under a heavy shelling themselves but they never relaxed their efforts. The whole plateau is plowed up by German shells. The Americans who had never been in a serious action before, lost both men and horses, but the battery was never silenced.

"In the first hour of the bombardment every telephone wire in the sector was cut by German shells and the battery was left without means of communication with the American infantry, whom it had to support.

"A young lieutenant volunteered to restore the liaison. Taking a horse he rode down to the river through the German barrage and back, and during the night galloped 16 times between the battery and the river, always under a terribly heavy fire. He had eight horses hit under him and on the last journey he himself was hit in the knees.

Wounded Men Keep Working

"A battery commander told me he had the greatest difficulty with his slightly wounded men. None of them wanted to leave the battlefield and the men ordered to go away for treatment would hide themselves in order to avoid notice, hoping in this way to be able to remain with their comrades. One gun, the crew of which had been knocked out by a single big shell, was kept working by the telephone men, who, realizing what had happened, dashed out of their shelter and began to man the gun themselves without orders."

After reading the various statements by Austrian commanders we have come to the decision that they have all been sport editors in towns that had losing teams.
