Word has reached Medford from several sources that the 69th artillery battalion in which there were a number of former Seventh company members and which was ready for departure and expected to start for France two weeks ago, is in quarantine at Fort Stevens. In fact the report is that all the soldiers at Fort Stevens are in strict quarantine and have been for over a week, but for what reason or disease it has been impossible to learn in Medford. This explains the delay in starting for France after a number of the boys wrote home some time ago that they were ready to depart within a few days.

WAR WITHDRAWING PREACHERS FROM PULPITS

EUGENE, July 25.—The war is taking the ministers from the churches of Oregon at such a rapid rate that cooperation of various denominations is essential in the opinion of the Oregon Presbyterian synod which today issued a challenge for a union of forces on the ground of simple faith in Jesus Christ.

The Home Missions committee reported that 25 per cent of the members of the synod are now actually engaged in war work and that nine men are in France. Dr. John H. Boyd of Portland was authorized to draw up a declaration of principles on which the church will meet other churches in the state.

WEDDING BELLS

Another pretty war wedding took place Wednesday afternoon, July 24th, when Miss Jessie E. Garrett and James J. Rice were united in marriage at the home of Rev. F. B. Huffman of the Christian church. KING NICHOLS OF MONTENEGRO BACK AT FRONT

LONDON, July 25.—What has become of old King Nicholas of Montenegro, the only sovereign in Europe who is really regarded as the "father of his people?"

Despite his age he is back on the battle front in Albania, visiting the front, reviewing divisions, even attending naval maneuvers, according to Milan dispatches.

Crushed and battered by fate, the great king of the little people remained in seclusion among the French after the Austro-Huns had smothered his kingdom. But with the renewal of the war in Macedonia he has been unable to restrain his impulse to go to the front.

Stories once more are being told about him. It is being recalled how in the old days he used to sit under a tree on the public square of Cetinje and dispense justice to his people like a primitive potentate.

All through his reign he had a habit of talking with every one he met on his frequent rambles about the country. It was a usual thing to see him jesting and playing with children on the roads.

Once he noticed a dozen boys gazing wistfully at a barrow of fruit. "How much for the whole lot?" he asked the old woman peddler. He took the price she named from his purse and handed it over.

"Now, my sons, fall to," he said to the boys, and stood delightedly watching the scramble.

King Nicholas always refused to visit England because he was deathly afraid of the sea. On this subject he said recently:

"I'm in mortal terror of the sea. I once screwed up my courage to start on a visit to the czar, but a breeze soon sprang up and I fled for refuge into a remote port. There was no railway or telegraph and people began to wonder why I did not arrive. I believe the press of Europe had a standing headline of 'The Missing Monarch' for nearly a week."

SMUTS OPTIMISTIC OVER WAR OUTBREAK ON WEST FRONT

LONDON, July 25.—Lieutenant General Smuts of South Africa, referring to the general situation, in a speech today, said:

"We must not cherish extravagant anticipations, but there is sufficient ground after the happenings of the past two months for cheerfulness and gratitude.

"We hope and trust this time the tide has finally and conclusively turned. The gaps in the allied armies due to the defection in Russia have been made up with much sterner stuff from the United States. They are pouring across the Atlantic at the rate of more than a quarter of a million a month and it will not be long before the American army in France will be as large as the Anglo-French armies combined.

"When it is remembered that Germany, at the height of her power before the Americans came in, could not strike a paralyzing blow, what will be her position when America's new and incomparable army is fully on the scene? We can be confident as regards the end, be it far or near. It is sure as the rising of the sun tomorrow."

Referring to the political situation in South Africa, General Smuts said the elements which made for unity and strength are far stronger than the sporadic influence of the working division of opinion.

YANKEE TROOPS HIGHLY PRAISED BY AUSTRALIANS

LONDON, July 25.—An official announcement today gives the views of an Australian correspondent with the Australian forces in France, which says:

"The German newspapers have been concentrating on deprecating the American forces, the campaign against General Foch, intended to shake the confidence of the allies in their common commander was hopeless at the start and has been utterly stultified by the second battle of the Marne. The newspaper barrage of deprecation of the quality of the Americans is intended for people inside of Germany, since we in France see and know.

"If the German comforts himself with the idea that they are not equal in value to any of his troops, so much the better, because his surprise will be very great. Their military authorities taught them the same fallacy respecting the troops of the British dominions. We here on the spot know that the quality of those troops is infinitely higher than that of any of the German troops the Australians ever met in France. Australian officers and men who know this war in every form, say that without exception the American troops are the finest one could possibly wish to meet."
