BOYS AT THE FRONT SERVING UNCLE SAM

(The Mail Tribune will publish in this column each week interesting letters from our soldiers and sailors and news items concerning their movements. The Association of Mothers Wives and Next of Kin requests that items for publication be furnished to Mrs. M. C. Barber, chairman of the press committee, not later than Thursday of each weeek.)

Supply School, Ordnance Training Camp, Camp Hancock, Ga.

Dearests:

I'm going to try to write you a real letter for once; as I have a few minutes to spare. Tomorow I've got to make out Saturday's passes—I guess I told you that I'm in charge of passes in the company and that means I get more cigars handed me than I can smoke—by ambitious applicants. Its great old graft; and the old Edisonian luck still holds.

And I get in on more boxes that the birds get from home. I make a practice of browsing around from tent to tent an hour or two after supper mess; and I never fail to get in on two or three. But I surely did appreciate the caromels and the Christian Science book and the muffler. I'm going to hang the muffler up somewhere in my tent to give a cooling effect on these hot days. Or else I'll wear it to reveille some morning and give the boys a start.

Don't worry about me, mother, as I believe you have been doing. I'm getting more adjusted to this soldier's life every day. Not that I won't be damn glad to come home the minute the last retreat sounds, and I'll sure appreciate that old platform rocker more than I ever did before. I'm getting used to the cold showers and the sand floor and the hard work. Mother, I work from a. m. to 10 at night just as regular as a clock! I'll sure be able to turn out the old stories when I come back, too—not three thousand words a day, but six. Four hours work, as I used to do, will be just a morning's relaxation. I'll have stuff to write about, too, I'll say. I'll be all freshened up. And don't think I'll lose my happy outlook on life—grow old as you say. The boys surely do grow old; but I find too much to laugh at to change very much. The ordinary, every day emotions that most people feel and like to read about have been freshened up to portray family love and love of home and a good many other things lots better than I ever did before.

Last night I had an invitation to go to a nice house where there was a nice girl. I went down in the afternoon, before the girl returned from the canteen where she does Red Cross work. It was a typical southern house with magnolias in the yard and grass and flowers and shade trees. The house was as old as the hills, with high ceilings and I suspect, a past. It was as homey a place as I was ever in, in spite of a sort of gloom that hung over it. On the walls were portraits—and remarkably well done things too—of my hostess and ancestors—women who were belles before the Civil war. The family was very prominent then—slave holders of course. I fancy it is having a hard time now, although its hospitality hasn't suffered a bit. Not a very hard time, either, but I mean they don't keep up things the way they'd like too. I caught the idea of the south, their retrospection, and their pride, more than any other place I've been. The woman had me come in and we talked awhile. Then she had to excuse herself and left me alone in a big cool room. I relaxed on a couch and darned if I didn't go to sleep. Characteristic, I'll swear. The first time I was ever in her house, mind you. She came in a lot of times while I was asleep, she said, but realizing I was a tired soldier boy she didn't wake me up. Her daughter came at last, the first really beautiful southern girl I've seen. Black eyes and hands that never did a lick of work in her life. Beautiful hands! She sang and played for me till I had to go home. We have to be in our banks by 11:30 or they get us for A. W. L.—which is courtmartial offense. I forgot to mention that the dinner she served in a dining room as big as ours was a peach, too. They had a nigger girl for a servant. And while I sat on the porch I saw two characteristic things. One was a negro woman carrying an enormous great big box on her head, swinging her arms and just booming down the street. Another was a surrey like our old one and two spick and span negroes all dressed up in the front seat and a white woman and her daughter in the back. You can hear mocking birds every morning in August.

The people here are quaint and they talk; stoall talk and about operations and things like that a whole lot more than westerners do; but they are charming in a way.

And the camp? I guess I've described it a time or two haven't I—Miles and miles of sand and grove, and more soldiers than you can count. Thousand and thousands of them. My own company has a particularly good personnel—practically every man a college man and a success in whatever business he was in. It makes it particularly hard for them, too, for none of them have done hard physical labor for years. And the way they moan when the captain comes charging up on his magnificent horse—he couldn't do it any sniffier if a whole brigade of Germans were in sight—to announce that he has found a cigarette stub on the drill grounds and we must go out and police it again. However, the ordnance department has got some stiff work in sight. Parts of it will do such things as laying the barbed wire on No Man's Land and salvage work and getting ammunition up to the front and all that sort of thing. As a whole it goes more active service than practically any branch except infantry and artillery. We get stiffer training, according to what the boys say, than any other men in camp.

The way these boys do grow old in a few weeks! They aren't like boys at all. Always so serious in the way they think about things. And if I could write anything to make the American people write letters to their boys I'd surely do it. It is simply pathetic to see the way they go into the hall where the letters are passed out, and the way they look when they come out without hearing from any one. And I'm not exaggerating a bit. No matter how good the camp, or how careful the government is, you can't get away from the fact that soldiering is a hard life—no boy's game at all. It is an unnatural life—everything about it from the iron discipline that is present every moment of the day, to living in tents in the hot sand.

Some east siders from New York are up on the hill, and none of them can talk English—hardly. They are surely hard boiled birds. Many of them use dope in one form or another—got by their draft boards.

I'm enclosing a little poem that appeared in Trench and Camp, the camp publication. Now I have to stop and stand retreat.

With love as always.
EDISON MARSHALL.

The Mothers' Day letter of Sergeant F. R. Moffat, Co. B., 7th bat., 20th Engineers, nephew of John C. Mann of Medford, and who lived here for a year and was for some time in the forestry service at Fort Klamath, written on May 12th, "somewhere in France" to his mother, Mrs. L. Moffat, of Dubuque, Iowa, aroused the admiration of Lieut. H. N. Nory, D. R. C., the censor for the company.

Lieutenant Nory calls the letter the prize winner in the following letter to Mrs. Moffat which he wrote on May 12, after having read Sergeant Moffat's letter.

"Allow me to congratulate you in having such a son as F. R. His Mother's Day letter was the prize winner, but as yet we have not decided what the reward is to be.

"You see I have a mother back home and we are sure strong for the chap who thinks enough of his mother to write her a 14 page letter. I always thought I wrote 'book length' letters, but F. R. holds all records. However, his mother must be mother and 'fiancee' combined—a rare combination but ideal I must admit.

"I trust you will forgive my intruding upon such sacred ground as a letter to a mother is in my opinion, but believe me I simply could not resist the temptation of writing just a few lines offering my congratulations."

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett

Last Saturday afternoon just as I had finished my last letter to the Mail Tribune who should walk into the Sunnyside but Mr. and Mrs. Manual Leidman. They had been up in the Blue Canyon country for about two weeks visiting Mrs. Leidman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Zimmerman, and after occupying their room over night and spending the most of the day Sunday they went to Medford to live, as Mr. Leidman has a job in a fruit box factory. Mrs. Leidman nee Clarice Zimmerman, was formerly in our town and one of our pleasantest boarders and we feel that our temporary loss will be to the advantage of someone in Medford.

Thomas Lewis and Pearl Stowell and wife—they were accompanied by another party but I have been requested to withhold the name—returned from a trip to Crater Lake, Fort Klamath, Klamath Falls, Hornbrook, etc., Saturday afternoon.

Sunday morning about 8 o'clock Mr. Charlie Strang and wife and daughter Miss Helen and C. Virgil Strang, Mrs. A. G. McCarthy, wife of the pioneer stage driver from Jacksonville to Yreka and Mrs. Frank Moore drove up to the Sunnyside and inquired: "What is the chance for breakfast," and on receiving an assurance that the "chance" was good got out of the car and began to apologize for calling so late for breakfast saying that they had started early but had a puncture. They were on the way to Prospect for an outing and picnic dinner and were supplied with everything except breakfast, for the trip. Later in the day we had S. H. Harnish, Jos. Mooman, Horace Geppert and his mother, two sisters, Mrs. Anna Corum, Miss Zula Geppert, Jed Edsall, Fred Putnam, Fred Stillwell, Wm. Bibby, Joe Trefren, Mrs. T. F. Boltz and two children, Roy Parker, Raymond Reter and wife and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Pennington of Wichita Falls, Texas. They had traveled home in Texas across the country as far west as they well could and remain in our own country and after looking over Washington had come this far south and after supper Sunday evening started for Prospect, Crater Lake, Fort Klamath, Klamath Falls, etc., to explore California. They were simply taking a pleasure trip and seemed to be enjoying it.

We had a very interesting Sabbath school Sunday morning and especially the Bible class is getting to be more interesting every Sunday, and Sunday evening we had the regular meeting of the Christian Endeavor society. Miss Winifred Haak was leader and she seemed to handle the subject like a veteran.

I noticed Harold Van Scoy and Frank Brandon, two of our youths who have been working in a box factory in Hilt on our streets again and on inquiry why they came home found the reason was that the cost of living was too high at the hotel where they were boarding as they raised from a dollar a day to a dollar and five cents and they thought that they could make more money here than they could there.

Born—To the wife of Joe Pool, July 22, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Maxfield, and family were doing business here Monday.

Mrs. T. F. Boltz and her two children started Monday to join her husband in Montana who is doing business there for a concrete company.

Benj. Brophy, one of our promising farmers and stock men spent the day picnicking and fishing with his family Monday and by the time this is in type they will be enjoying an outing in the Rancheria country. Before he left he renewed his subscription to the Daily Mail Tribune.

Mrs. Amos Ayres is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Trusty of Elk Creek.

Bobbie Pelouze, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pelouze left us again to take a fresh start to try to win the world for democracy the first of the week, Monday or Tuesday. He is one of our indomitable young men such as are now striking terror to the hearts of the leaders in the German nation and he will never feel satisfied until he has taken a more active part in the great conflict. Our prayers and sympathy will follow him thru his career thru life and wish him abundant success in his undertaking.

Monday Fred Frye and wife, August Elder, Miss Elizabeth Elder, Mrs. H. A. Frey, Miss Cecil McAllister, L. C. and A. L. George of Portland with the Portland Land company were here for dinner.

Mrs. Sarah Gurien and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Gurien of Portland are here visiting Mrs. Gurien's brother, the Broks brothers and sister, Mrs. S. B. Holmes and Mrs. Frank Gurien and Mrs. Lottie Van Scoy spent Monday evening with Mrs. Howlett. Miss Ruth Holmes of Central Point, is here visiting Miss Hazel Brown and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hildreth, Jasper Miller, one of the pioneer school teachers who has been spending the past few years in Arizona and Miss Gardner of Trail were passengers on the P. & E. Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Vinson and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ditsworth of Prospect and Miss Gordon, a sister of Mrs. Vinson were here Tuesday for dinner.

In addition to those already reported in this letter V. A. Heffner sent me a check for two and a half dollars to renew his subscription to the Daily Mail Tribune.

CENTRAL POINT

Mr. Ed Norcross and Mrs. Norcross of southern California, who have been touring the Pacific northwest, stopped in Central Point for a several days' visit with relatives. Mr. Norcross is a brother of W. H. Norcross, L. L. Norcross and Mrs. R. H. Arnold of this city.

Lake Peart left Sunday morning after a short visit with home folks here to join his company, which soon begin service for Uncle Sam.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Merritt of Gold Hill came to Central Point Sunday morning and were met at the depot by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Burwell who headed their car Ashlandward where the party enjoyed a most delightful holiday.

Harry Lewis, Walter Hawks and George Thompson departed with the other Jackson county boys Monday morning to begin training at Camp Lewis.

Miss Esther Pankey was among the Central Point residents who spent Sunday in Ashland.

Mrs. E. Force left the first of the week for San Francisco, Cal., where she will remain indefinitely.

Mrs. Mario Purkeypile is in Leland, Ore., this week, enjoying a visit with her son, Mr. Court Purkeypile, and family.

Mrs. Penland, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Gregory and other relatives here for several days past, left for a visit with California relatives Monday morning.

Glenn Owens of northern California is greeting his many Central Point friends this week.

Vernon Pankey and Glen Pruitt left for Portland Tuesday evening, at which place they have employment for the rest of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sisty visited Gold Hill friends during the week.

Mrs. Welcher and young sons spent Tuesday in Ashland enjoying the Chautauqua.

Professor E. B. Stanley, Mrs. Stanley and their young son arrived here from Portland Tuesday afternoon. It is rumored that the professor has accepted a position as principal of the Corvallis high school for the ensuing school term and will not preside over the Central Point schools as was thought.

Mrs. Carn Hawks made a business trip to Grants Pass Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Addie Young of Paisley, Ore., who has been in San Francisco, Cal., for some days past, visiting a son there, arrived in Central Point the first of the week for a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Thornlove prior to returning home. Mrs. Young is a sister of Mr. Thornlove.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Boles and young son Roland, motored to Ashland Tuesday evening to attend the evening session of the Chautauqua.

Walter Grim and Martin Witte are visiting home folks here after a lengthy stay in Klamath Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Clary of Ashland spent Saturday here with the latter's mother and then left Sunday morning for Portland, at which place they will make their permanent home.

Isn't the new sultan of Turkey to get a few kind words from his "Christian dog" brother, Bill?

The Itching and Sting of Blazing, Fiery Eczema

Seems Like the Skin Is on Fire.

There is a harrassing discomfort caused by Eczema that almost becomes a torture. The itching is almost unbearable, and the skin seems on fire with the burning irritation. A cure from local applications of salves and ointments is impossible, because such treatment can only allay the pain temporarily. The disease can only be reached by going deep down to its source.

The source of Eczema is in the blood, the disease being caused by an infection which breaks out through the skin. That is why the most satisfactory treatment for all so-called skin diseases is S. S. S., for this remedy so thoroughly cleanses the blood that no impurities can remain. Get a bottle to-day at any drugstore, and you will see results from the right treatment. Write for expert medical advice, which you can get without cost, by addressing Medical Director, 21 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Women's Danger Period

The period between forty-five and fifty-five years of age is said to be a crisis or danger period in a woman's life which tests her for her fitness to continue in the race. It is then that she suffers from such annoying symptoms as heat-flashes, nervousness, headaches, "the blues," or dread of impending evil, or some dormant disease in the system becomes active. When a woman is passing through this crisis there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which after forty years of success is now considered the standard remedy for woman's ailments.

Proposals for State Highway Construction
