USE SCHOOL WOMEN FOR WAR WORK

BERKELEY, July 25.—Women between the ages of 21 and 35 in good physical condition, high school graduates or with an equivalent education, are eligible to become members of the army school of nursing established by the surgeon general of the United States, under the medical department of the army. While the normal length of the course of instruction is three years, adequate credit will be given women for similar work taken elsewhere, and college graduates will be allowed nine months' training credit upon presentation of their diplomas.

A branch hospital will be probably opened in San Francisco, where actual nursing of sick and wounded soldiers will form a part of the daily curriculum. The training received, it is understood, will be valuable even after the war, for those women who may enter civil hospitals, and also in the home. The course of study includes surgical and medical nursing, public health training, and laboratory work. Upon completion of the required course of training the students will be awarded diplomas of nursing and will become members of the army nurse corps in the order of vacancies. Applicants should write immediately to the University of California Military Bureau, Alumni Secretary's Office, 114 California Hall, Berkeley.

Anyway, It's Money!

LONDON, July 25.—The war is introducing novelties in coinage. New French coins have holes in the center. The Indian government is issuing square coins with rounded corners. Oddly shaped coins are easily distinguishable by feel instead of appearance, which is a decided advantage in lightless nights.

DISCIPLINE OF GERMAN TROOPS IN A BAD WAY

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, July 25.—The claim of Germany that the retirement from the Marne is part of a set program is given the lie by an order of General von Boehm, commander of the seventh army. The seventh army has borne the full weight of the Foch counter offensive on the west and its divisions around Soissons suffered heavily at the hands of the Americans while those east of Chateau Thierry were thrown back across the Marne by the pressure of the French.

For this reason the order of General von Boehm, written a month prior to the beginning of the battle, is of unusual significance. He deplores the lack of discipline which resulted in the pillaging of stores in the back areas during the advance in May, when all edible booty found in the wake of the retreating French speedily vanished, instead of being distributed among the hungry troops in due proportions.

The pillaging in the back areas, of which von Boehm complains, appears to have become widespread. Recent orders issued by the commanders of the 15th and 2nd armies, opposite the British, have revealed excesses which seem almost incredible, considering that the German military machine has been notorious for its iron discipline. Trains have been held up and the guards killed and provisions carried away by gangs of desperate soldiers intent upon satisfying their hunger, even if they are shot for it.

As a rule the troops in the front line are well fed, and prisoners recently taken corroborate this, but in order to supply them with adequate provisions, the rations of the divisions resting or training in the back areas are cut down to a minimum and the amount doled out to each man today is not sufficient to satisfy his normal needs.

All the orders issued on the decadence of discipline have been couched in curiously mild language, being in effect more of an appeal than a threat, as the higher command realized that the men were in a dangerous mood and disinclined to submit to severe punishment.

While too high hopes must not be based on these reports of insubordination, it remains a fact that the discipline of the German army, at least on the western front, is in a bad way, and the present defeat on the Marne does not seem likely to improve it.

SENATORS WARN AGAINST GERMAN PEACE EFFORTS

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Possibilities of a peace offensive were discussed in the senate today at the semi-weekly session. All senators who spoke decried the crushing defeat of Germany was necessary before peace negotiations could be considered.

Senator Lewis of Illinois, democratic whip, warned Americans against "new professions of peace and false propaganda," from Germany.

Senator Sherman of Illinois, republican, declared peace could come only by a victory that would sweep the kaiser and his counselors out of power.

That another peace offer from Germany is en route thru Italian sources also was stated by Senator Lewis.

If allowed to hold the eastern peoples in subjection, Senator Lewis said, Germany's plans involve raising an army of stupendous force to assault the United States from the Pacific in a new war.

"The United States would be the first to pay the penalty," he said, "or yielding to the artful suggestions from Germany."

Senator Sherman criticized what he termed an unofficial "mysterious" commission reported gathering information to be used in the peace conference. These men, he said, are the president's personal envoys.

Senator Lewis suggested that the commission is merely collecting and transmitting its information for future use.

Senator Thomas of Colorado said, "German peace propaganda is a light intermittent fever; it comes with every disaster to the German arms."

VON BOEHM MOVES LARGE PORTION OF GUNS AND SUPPLIES

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, July 24.—Night.—(By the Associated Press.) No great artillery fighting characterized fighting yesterday. Tuesday the Americans fought three times for the possession of Epieds, the Germans countering every time. The Americans passed Epieds today with comparatively little resistance. The French on their part of the line also found the enemy willing to move.

Hot rear-guard actions are continuing. The losses among the Germans have been lighter than usual on account of their failure to resist strenuously the advance of the allies. North of Chateau Thierry the allied forces used mounted patrols at two places in maintaining contact with their armies in the rear.

It is known now that General von Boehm, the German commander on this front, has managed to move a large part of his guns and stores.

Owing to the fact that the day was bright and there was little wind, aviators played an important role in the fighting.

American aviators in combats north of the Marne on Wednesday downed five German machines. The Americans suffered no losses. Their first fight was with a German squadron of 12 planes, the battle lasting nearly two hours. Four Germans were downed. Later the Americans shot down another enemy plane.

A Tribute to Advertising

By the Makers of America's First Car
WE TAKE a great deal of pride in the fact that we have had the honor of handling the advertising of the Haynes—"America's First Car"—during the period which its output grew from a few hundred per year to more than ten thousand cars sold in 1917.

Advertising naturally has had a great deal to do with letting the people know about the quality and performance of the Haynes Light Six. It is, therefore, with pleasure we reproduce the letter written to us on April 3rd, by Mr. A. G. Seiberling, General Manager of The Haynes Automobile Company, Kokomo, Indiana:

"The Wm. H. Rankin Co.
"Five years ago we made our first contract with your company. It is genuinely gratifying to us now to advise you to continue to place our advertising for the year 1918.
"We know that the increase of our business is in no small degree due to advertising and the thorough manner in which you have handled our copy, art work, dealer helps, publicity and merchandizing.
"The constant, industrious efforts and the thorough spirit of co-operation with our Advertising and Sales Departments, as evidenced by the members of your organization in furthering our interests cannot help but be a tremendous asset to your company as they have been to ours.
"We have always felt we received first-class service from your organization but we have noted a great improvement in service in all lines during the past two years.
"In these times when it is so necessary to make every dollar count, it is a relief to know from actual experience that our advertising interests are being cared for efficiently.
"We know that you look after our interests as thoroughly as you do your own business and for that reason we are glad to continue to show our appreciation of your services by renewing with you for the sixth consecutive year.
We are interested in making business connections with other companies who have the same ideals of service efficiency that the Haynes Automobile Company has.
The diagram below gives an interesting record of our newspaper business since 1899.
It is interesting to note that our newspaper billing has more than trebled since 1909.
