NOT A LOSS.

"Should anything happen to me, just think of me as a Liberty bond, not a loss, but an investment."—Private Chas. R. Oliver, Co. G., 11th Inf., A. E. F.

Well, suppose that I do go before, and beyond?

What of it? I am part of the cost. Yes, I'm an investment—a Liberty bond!

So who shall consider me "lost"?

We have clipped in these years of our vigorous prime

And each of us fellows who fall

Are the Liberty bonds of our country and time,

And our coupons are freedom-for-all.

I shall live if I may, I shall die if I must.

And it won't make you any less fond

If you think of your soldier boy, pledged to his trust;

Not a "loss," but a "Liberty bond!"

There's never a value, but someone must pay

And we—we are proud of our place

Which may give those who love us the license to say

"He invested his life for his race!"

—Edmond Vance Cooke.

SPORT IN THE DISCARD.

JUDGING from the last number of the "Stars and Stripes," the official newspaper of the American Expeditionary forces in France, the American soldiers have little use for professional sport and baseball players and fail to see why husky athletes should play for fat salaries while they are fighting and dying for America.

"Sport as a spectacle, sport as an entertainment for the idlers, has passed on and out. Its glamor in a competitive way has faded. Its leading stars are either in the iron harness of war—or forgotten—until Germany is beaten.

"The Stars and Stripes" appreciates in full sport's abiding value and the countless thousands of trained men it has sent into the line. But these men have given up the glory of the sporting page and the old action snapshot. They are not to be mentioned today because their job has taken on another hue.

"There are tennis and golf champions, football players galore, track stars without number, boxers and ball players who have traded the easy glory they knew at home for the hard unglorified grind of the line, or the bloody heritage of the western front. * * * And their fame belongs with the mass, not with individual mention.

"The Stars and Stripes" is printed for the A. E. F. not to help perpetuate the renown of able-bodied stars, who, with unusual qualifications for war or useful work, elected to hear only the business as usual slogan above their country's call for help in the greatest war she has ever known.

The point is well taken. The Yanks don't wait till the end of the ball season to tackle the Hun. They don't ask to be excused from one battle to await the beginning of another to suit their own convenience.

The example of the Stars and Stripes in eliminating the sport page can be followed with profit by our city papers. It will help them conform to the war board's order to cut the size of their issues 20 per cent and save paper.

Winning the war is the business of the nation. Until the result is achieved, sport must go into the discard.

MYSTERY SHIP AIRPLANE CARRIER VISITED BY KING

WITH THE GRAND FLEET, July 25.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) Visiting the fleet this week King George inspected a "mystery" ship which is a puzzle to the enemy. Reference to her peculiarities is officially restricted to the statement that "she is an airplane carrier."

This carrier was concerned in the recent attack on the airships at Tondern. She reached a suitable point off the German coast in the small hours of the morning and a number of airplanes were sent up with the object of destroying Zeppelin hangars at Tondern.

Captain Dixon arrived at Tondern in the early hours of the morning and came on low in searching for hangars that at one time he was within 50 feet of the ground.

He found Tondern very much asleep and flew over the main street unobserved, seeing only one human being on a farm cart who waved a cordial greeting.

Observing what he believed to be a hangar, Captain Dixon released one bomb from a height of 300 feet and received a shock when a munition dump exploded. He immediately made out the Zeppelin sheds and unloaded his remaining bombs which caused a fierce fire.

A heavy barrage was then put up but Captain Dixon flew off and reached home after three hours in the air.

The barrage indicated to other attacking planes where to operate and another machine piloted by Captain Smart, who was decorated by the king later, attacked and accounted for the second Zeppelin shed.

MAKES FORTUNE SPECULATING IN RUSSIAN RUBLES

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 27.—While Russia fights its revolts and Russian money values are a precarious quantity, one Russian who lived in Japan is making a fortune out of the eb and flow in the value of the Russian ruble, the standard coin.

He has built up a ruble buying and selling organization that is said to bring him an income of a million rubles a month, a sum equal in normal times to $500,000. Here's how this remarkable financial genius works.

The value of the ruble differs in various cities. For instance, it may be high at Harbin when it is cheap at Vladivostok or Shanghai, and vice versa. The essential fact is that it is never the same in any Chinese, Japanese or Russian city.

By means of this organization this shrewd Russian continually buys in a cheap market and sells in a dear one. His system is so simple that it is a wonder it is confined to him. It requires an immense capital, however, and a perfect knowledge of exchange rates.

So while Russian business men are wondering whether they ought to keep their capital in rubles or exchange it for Chinese yen, this man goes on placidly accumulating a fortune. The allied expedition to Siberia may put a crimp in his operation, however.

IMMIGRATION LOWEST SINCE CIVIL WAR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Immigration to the United States during the year ending June 30 placed at 119,618 by a bulletin of the immigration service issued today was less than in any year since the civil war.

Mexico furnished the largest number of the 1918 immigrants, the total admitted from that country being 17,992. England was second and Japan third.

How Many Kinds of Sugar Are There?

When you say sugar, you mean that white crystalline material which comes originally from the sugar cane or the sugar beet. And that substance is a pure sugar. But it is not the only sugar, by any means.

If you were a chemist you would call that sugar "sucrose," and you would remark quite casually that of course there are other sugars.

Some of these other sugars are "glucose" or "dextrose" or "grape sugar," "fructose" or "levulose" or "fruit sugar," "lactose" or "milk sugar," and "maltose" or "malt sugar."

Honey, corn sugar, maple sugar and maple syrup, corn syrup and many other syrups contain one or more of these "other sugars." In this source, all the sugar substitutes are really not substitutes at all, but are sugars, just as cane sugar is sugar. All fruits contain sugar of one kind or another. Dried fruits—prunes, figs, apricots, dates—contain a great deal of sugar. They can be used by themselves as sources of fuel for home lighters.

All these sugars have a very high food value. That is the second fact to keep in mind. They are energy foods and of substantial value in that they are very rapidly in producing energy for the body to use.

Sugars are not all alike. Some of them are more complex than others. But, in the end, they all break down into one of the simple sugars, like "glucose," "fructose" or "galactose."

SEEK REVISION OF BREST-LITOVSK PEACE TREATY

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Revision of the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty which shall secure for Germany an alliance with Russia and the "Asiatic Bloc" attached to Russia, is advocated by George Bernhard, political writer in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin. After declaring that all the German offers of peace have been rejected by Great Britain, the writer says:

"Their acceptance can be counted upon only if England's position on the political chessboard is rendered such that there is no course for her but that of acceptance. The vital idea of the new German policy must hence be directed toward the creation of a group of powers which will have a word to say concerning English efforts either to carry on the war or of the peace conference, or at least in the matter of conducting economic warfare. No German leader denies that the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty is the chief obstacle to the formation of such a group."

Bernhard admits that the treaty cannot be annulled but he lays stress on the view recently outlined by Dr. Solf, the German minister for colonies, that the treaty is only a frame to be filled in in the future.

Little craft before the mistake was discovered.

POLICY OF TYRANNY URGED UPON CZAR BY HIS MOTHER

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 27.—A policy of "unrelenting power" was urged upon the former Russian emperor by his mother, the dowager empress of Russia, early in 1916, according to the secret diary of the emperor as published by the Izvestia of Moscow.

The alleged letter was dated January 14, 1916, shortly before the assembly of the first duma. According to a Moscow dispatch to the Rheinische Westfalische Zeitung of Essen the abbreviated text reads:

"Dear Nicky. We are deeply thankful for your dear letter. It breathes a new spirit. If earlier we had been more energetic and shown more firmness in the exercise of power much would have been avoided. I do not understand why Witte (one time Russian premier) lost so much time.

"Now to the question which greatly occupies and disquiets—the question of the cabinet and crown domains which these swine want to take from us, according to their various party programs. They must be impressed with the fact that no one shall dare to interfere with these personal rights of the emperor and his family. It would be a great historical mistake if we now gave way in the slightest point. Every concession would be interpreted as weakness. Our absolute principle must now be a policy of unrelenting power.

The year the dowager empress' letter was written, according to the Moscow dispatch—1916—evidently is an error. The first duma met on April 27, 1906, during the premiership of Count Witte.
