RED CROSS MUST HAVE MONEY TO FILL REQUIREMENTS

Next Monday morning Medford unit of the American Red Cross will begin a drive in the city to raise money necessary to pay its monthly expenses in carrying on its allotment of war work and submit to the people of the city the specific figures on the war supplies it is shipping to the front monthly, on what these supplies cost, and what the average cost per month will be to maintain Medford's share of this work. Of course all of us realize that this is our personal contribution to the cause of the allies and humanity, and acknowledge our personal responsibility in keeping up the work. The balance in the treasury of Medford unit on August 1st was $31.65. Medford must have a minimum of $871 monthly. Of this, only $78 goes for administrative expenses, every dollar of the balance of $800 going for the purchase of supplies that are made up into hospital garments, surgical dressings, etc., by the workers of the local unit, and shipped to the front.

The monthly allotment of Jackson county follows. Medford and its auxiliary units contribute about half of the county's total:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Cost of Material. 1940 articles surgical dressings $ 298.84, 350 pairs-sock, 50 sweaters 389.38, 964 hospital garments 815.50, Boxes and paper for packing; freight and drayage 121.00, Total cost of materials, etc. $1,624.12

Of the foregoing amount, Medford must furnish not less than $871 monthly, representing a proportionate amount of the total work turned out in the county. The people of the city will be asked to provide this sum monthly in the forthcoming drive for funds.

BIG VAUDEVILLE AT RIALTO TONIGHT ONLY

The Gladstone-Chandler vaudeville road show, a company of high class entertainers from the Orpheum and Pantages circuit arrived in the city this afternoon in three big touring cars on their way to Crater Lake for the summer's vacation, they were so fascinated with Medford and its surroundings that they decided to spend a few days here and will appear at the Rialto tonight only in a series of the most successful acts having just closed engagements on the Orpheum and Pantages circuits. Medford is fortunate indeed to be able to have these artists appear here at this time.

THE WAR REVENUE BILL GREATEST OF ITS KIND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The war revenue bill, greatest measure of its kind ever brought before the legislative branch of any government, progressed through congress when it came up today in the house.

In fact there was not even a quorum present when Democratic Leader Kitchin called up the bill, which provides the means of raising $24,000,000,000 to save America's share for the war for the coming year.

The big bill first is considered with the house sitting on a committee of the whole. The plan is to have the measure ready for the senate in about 10 days.

The bill is considered by both parties as a win-the-war measure.

COL. BOWEN U.S.A. ON WAR EXTENSION WORK, HIGH SCHOOL

Col. William H. C. Bowen, U. S. A., who last night at the high school assembly room delivered the opening lecture to the Medford class in the extension work of the department of military science of the University of Oregon, was on the retired list of the army at the beginning of the war. He was recalled to active duty, and has since been engaged continuously in important posts connected with the work of organization and training officers and men for army service. He will be at the head of the new students army training corps at the University when it opens for the fall term, having under him a large corps of instructors and a thousand students, the number allotted to the university at this time under the government's plan.

Col. Bowen's lecture was devoted to an explanation of the work undertaken at the university in its intensive training courses, during the regular school year and which were inaugurated this summer as vacation period work, beginning in June. Col. Bowen, whose connection with the university began during the past collegiate year, held the chair of military science and tactics in the department of military science, co-operating with the commandant of the department, Lieut. Col. John Leader of the British army, in the work of instruction.

The colonel, who has taken a keen interest in the proposed extension work, and will continue to be interested in it in his new position at the head of the S. A. T. C., presented the details of the university's plan insofar as they have been worked out. The text books to be used were presented and methods of study and instruction sketched out briefly, and some interesting details of the student's training given, in connection with which the speaker replied to various questions asked by members of his audience.

In his conference with the Medford executive committee, and with the university's state representatives, C. M. Thomas and Alan Brackinwood, preceding and following the lecture, Col. Bowen's personal interest in the extension work was expressed in a most encouraging manner, coupled with a broad view of the value of the training field opened up by the movement. An audience of nearly 300 men, including the state guard company under Capt. Canaday's command, present in uniform by invitation of the committee, and the members of the Medford extension class, with representatives of the Ashland and Grants Pass organizations, greeted Col. Bowen's appearance on the platform, and responded with every expression of keen and delighted interest to his remarks.

T. W. Miles, chairman of the Medford executive committee, presided at the meeting.

UNIQUE CONTRIVANCE OF FOREST FIRE FIEND

"While C. A. Miller, superintendent of the P. L. S. Cattle company in eastern Oregon, was here recently on a visit to his mother, Mrs. M. E. Frazier, living on B street, he ran across a devilish contrivance in his timber tract just south of the city limits," says the Ashland Record. "A lantern globe had been attached by a wire to a long sack filled with dry pine cones and suspended from a manzanita bush in an opening where the sun's rays would fall with full force, with the evident intention of starting a forest fire when the sun became hot enough to set fire to a paper cone in the globe and communicate with the dry cones in the sack by means of a cotton string that led to the bottom. It was an ingenious contrivance and would have done its work well had conditions been right, as there is a dense carpet of dry brush underneath and all around the bush on which it was suspended. Some unkind villain figured on the destruction of the timber in that section, but a kind providence thwarted his plans."

OLD MEN GOOD U-BOAT HUNTERS

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The old man has come back, not only in work behind the lines, but in the front lines against the Hun submarines. Age has no limits when it comes to stalking the U-boats.

When the war broke out, the admiralty was beset by retired admirals, vice-admirals and rear-admirals for service against the Huns. They were too old to be placed in their former commanding ranks, but many were only too happy to be placed as captains and commanders in charge of armed yachts to hunt U-boats.

The work of these men has won praise and honors from the government. They have combed the sea for mines, have sunk the sneaking U-boats, and have kept clear the lanes of commerce.

One of the exploits of these old men that is going the rounds of the naval clubs tells of how one captain brought his yacht over the spot where a U-boat had disappeared. He exploded a depth charge and the water became covered with black and greasy matter. The enemy's periscope suddenly appeared about 300 yards away, but a well-placed shot finished the job.
