THRIFTING—ARE YOU?

(Edmund Vance Cook.) We think we are thrifting. But maybe we're drifting. And the coin that we clink is not saving but shifting.

In gleaming my meaning, You'll find gasolining. Is still used for dusting instead of for cleaning.

Oh, maybe you're guilty and maybe you're not. But ask, "Have I thrifted as much as I ought?"

Our thrifting is fickle. It runs in a tickle. We pickle a nickel to give us a tickle.

Man still goes on puffing, Imbibing, and stuffing. And holding enough yet without "Hold! enough!"-ing.

While woman still poses And shows us her hoses, All silken and sheer to excuse her disclosures.

At the end of the day, if you're feeling too good, Ask this, "Have I thrifted as much as I should?"

Thrift? Have we yet won it? Nay, have we begun it? It pops up its head and we see it or stun it.

But while we are raving Of saving and convincing, Who of us is conscious of cutting a craving?

We still go hoteling And swanking and swelling, As if war were pastime and seldom compelling.

We go restauranting And jaunting and flaunting, With little denied that is wanted or wanting.

If you're doing the limit, keep hitting on wood. And ask, "Have I thrifted as much as I could?"

Some go profiteering And on the high gearing. They hit the high spots with a rolling cheering.

And day-working doleys, Are snuffing patchouli, While over the ocean, they're living like coolies.

Aye, aye, there they buckle Their belts as they knuckle Hard down to their work, while refusing to truckle.

As you pillow your conscience at bedtime tonight, Ask this, "Am I thrifting as much as I might?"

DO YOUR PART.

MEDFORD'S most important contribution to the war outside of the man-power we furnish is the Red Cross work supplied by our woman power.

Each Red Cross chapter is allotted the amount of work it must turn out for the welfare of the army and navy. With the increase of the army, with the casualty list already totalling a thousand a day and only started, the necessity of filling the quota allotted is apparent to all.

The local Red Cross chapter cannot continue work without additional money to purchase the raw materials needed. It is up to the rest of us, who neither fight nor do war work, and we comprise about 95 per cent of our population, to furnish this money.

On Monday a drive will begin to raise these funds—and if you are not a slacker, you will cheerfully and gladly contribute the least you can monthly.

The money is used in purchasing materials, which are supplied at cost by the National Red Cross. The allotments of the Jackson County unit requires $1629.12 a month, half of which must be furnished by Medford and its auxiliary units.

America's Roll of Honor

Today's Casualty List Sent By Pershing From Battle Front in France.

The following casualties are reported by the commanding general of the American expeditionary forces: Killed in action, 27; missing in action, 15; wounded severely, 164; died from accident and other causes, 69; wounded, degree undetermined, 69; died of wounds, 15; wounded slightly, 1. Total, 293.

DOUG FAIRBANKS AT PAGE THEATER TONIGHT

If laughter is a health tonic those who see Douglas Fairbanks at the Page theater, in his latest athletic-comedy bit of screen athleticism, "ay, Young Fellow," are due for a little vacation rejuvenation.

This new Artercraft picture gives the popular Fairbanks a new characterization. Instead of the cowboy with his armory of weapons, a general society Mr. Fix-it, or a detective.

COMMUNICATION.

The order of Secretary McAdoo forbidding garnishment of the wages of railroad employes will likely be criticized, but having for some years been a member of the supreme court.

The Fairbanks grin and the Fairbanks athletic prowess are very much in evidence. He vaults over flower beds like a kangaroo, jumps fences, scales the front of a building as if was a toy house, makes a run and jump to a table and into the arms of "the villain," draws himself up hand over hand upon a narrow shelf when an angry mob hurls into a room.

The reporter of the story was distinguished by interviewing a millionaire who never before had talked with a newspaper man. Then, as a tribute to his prowess, the city editor sends him to a neighboring town to expose a fraudulent factory scheme.
