REGISTRATION INCLUDES MEN 46 SEPTEMBER 13

PORTLAND, Sept. 9.—If a man is 46 years old on Registration day, Thursday, Sept. 12, he is required to register.

This is typical of many questions asked regarding registration requirements under the new draft law, which lowers and raises draft limits to include all men between ages of 18 and 45 years, both inclusive.

The answer to the foregoing question is "No." A man who is 46 years old on Registration day, September 12, does not register.

If, however, his 46th birthday should come on September 13, the day after Registration day, he would have to register, for he would then be within the 45 year age limit on September 12.

Similarly, a youth who has attained his 18 birthday on or before Thursday, September 12, must register. If he is not 18 years old until the next day, September 13, he does not register.

All men between the ages of 18 and 45 years, both inclusive, who have not already registered under the former 21 to 30 age limits, both inclusive, must register on Registration day. The only exceptions are men already in the military or naval service.

That is to say, every man who has attained his 18th birthday on or before Thursday, September 12, and has not attained his 46th birthday by that date, must register unless he has already registered under the 21 to 30 year draft law, or is in the military or naval service.

THE SAME OLD GAME

EVERY time an industry is started in southern Oregon and is in a fair way to become permanent, established industries in Portland and the northern portion of the state attempt to throttle and kill it. It doesn't make any particular difference what it is—if it disturbs the monopoly enjoyed by the metropolis, it is put out of business sooner or later.

The history of the past few years is replete with instances whereby bankruptcy and ruin has been forced on the small town competitor by unfair methods and the country dotted with closed factories and workshops. As a result the small towns of Oregon, almost without exception, have gone back as the Portland hog grew fatter.

Of course the policy in the long run is fatal to Portland, for unless the country she depends upon is thriving and growing, Portland cannot be permanently prosperous. The metropolis was feeling the reaction caused by her business methods when the war industry boom revived her shipyards and gave her a mushroom boom, which has still further inflated her by depleting Oregon to increase her size—all ready out of proportion to the development of her territory. But Portland always was shortsighted.

The latest effort is the attempt of the Portland butter trust, composed of large northern creameries, to destroy the butter industry in Southern Oregon. The butter trust has succeeded in closing most of the small local and co-operative creameries of the state. If successful, it will close them in Jackson county also and make us pay an added cost on the butter we eat—a toll to the railroad both ways and the trust's added profit. The method of this trust have been exposed many times, and it simply changes the channels it works through and proceeds with its program of destroying local industries.

For a year past the trust has been making strenuous efforts to invade Southern Oregon—having never done a thing, in the years it held a monopoly, to develop dairying in the Rogue river valley. Its methods employed in soliciting cream shipments have been as unscrupulous as their methods were a few years ago in preventing the marketing of local butter. They have succeeded in making it impossible for a number of local creameries to continue in successful operation and as a result, the Valley Pride creamery at Applegate, the Farmers' Co-operative creamery of Medford and the Jackson County creamery have been forced to consolidate in order to continue operation.

If the northern creameries are successful in eliminating the local creameries, all of the cream will be shipped north and the manufactured product shipped back. The price of cream to the farmer will be cut and the price of butter to the consumer raised. The local payroll will be lost and the dairying industry languish. An illustration of this is the recent absorption of the Riverbanks creamery of Grants Pass—since which the manufacture of butter has been discontinued, the cream shipped to Portland and the butter back to Grants Pass. The farmer as well as the community, is the loser—for the supplies will all be bought at Portland and the payroll spent there.

The northern creameries sought to take over the Applegate creamery as well as the Farmers' Co-operative, but as the proposition involved making the local factories into cream collecting stations, the stockholders refused and under the new consolidation, both Applegate and Medford will retain butter factories. So the trust will probably use its method of invasion—establish a plant to ruin the local plants by demoralizing the market and then when monopoly is assured, pinch both the farmer and the public—the same old familiar game.

If we want to build up a prosperous country, we must do it ourselves. Portland won't do it, neither will any other community. If we want to retain industries, we must support them when we have them, for no one is going to establish permanent industries in a locality that does not co-operate in maintaining those we already have. If our dairymen do not want to be placed at the mercy of a state monopoly, whose only interest is to mule them, they must also co-operate—lest the pennies they may save by catering to the trust lose them dollars later on.

Sweetmeats for Dessert

If you want candy, make some of the following kinds and serve them instead of a sweet dessert, suggests the United States food administration.

Parisian Sweets: Put thru the meat chopper one pound of prepared meats, figs, and nut meats. Add one tablespoon orange juice, a little grated orange peel, and 1/2 cup of honey or syrup. Mould into balls and roll in chopped nuts or coconut or chocolate. This mixture may be packed in an oiled tin, put under a weight until firm, then cut in any shape desired. Melted chocolate may be added to mixture before moulding if desired.

Stuffed Prunes: Steam 1 pound prunes and remove stones. Stuff part of the prunes, each with chopped prune, stuff others with chopped salted nuts, or stuff with mixture of 1 cup each raisins and walnuts and a few candied cherries. Another suggestion is to stuff prunes with citrus orange marmalade.

Peanut Brittle: 1 cup white syrup, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup freshly roasted peanuts, halved.

Cook the syrup, vinegar and salt in a saucepan until a little dropped in cold water forms a soft ball. Put the peanuts and this syrup into an iron skillet and stir until the syrup becomes a golden brown. Remove from the fire and stir in vanilla. Have ready a shallow buttered pan, pour candy in and spread out in a thin sheet. Allow to cool, then remove from pan and crack into pieces. Candied Citrus: 1 cup cooking apples, 1/2 cup syrup, 1/2 cup water, nuts. Cook apples as for sauce. Add 1/2 cup corn syrup and cook until a thick paste. Nuts may be added. Spread out in buttered pan. Dry out in oven or over oven for 1/2 day. Use other fruits in the same way.

HUNS MAY HAVE TO WEAR ADAMS' DUDS

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 9.—The Bavarian press is fearful that the entire population of Germany may soon be reduced to such straits in the matter of clothing that only bathing suits will differentiate them from the men of Adm. And much perturbation has been caused by the removal of the authorities to issue vouchers for bathing suits except for children.

WAR TAX BILL DEBATED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A billion dollars more than the $8,114,000,000 estimated by the house ways and means committee will be raised by the war revenue bill, declared Representative Fordney of Michigan, ranking republican committee member in addressing the house today when it resumed consideration of the measure. Mr. Fordney criticized several sections of the bill, saying that capital should be more liberally defined and that the six per cent tax should not apply to undistributed dividends. Mr. Fordney also opposed the provisions in the bill permitting congress to obtain by resolution the tax statement of any company or individual, calling attention to the fact that when sent to congress they become public property.

CONSERVE GOLD BY LICENSING SHIPMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—To conserve gold for essential monetary purposes, the government today forbade issuance of gold bullion from the mints at Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco and from the New York assay office without licenses from the war industries board, federal reserve board or the secretary of the treasury.

COTTON GINNING BREAKS RECORDS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—More cotton was ginned in America this year prior to September 1, than in any previous year. The census bureau announced today that 1,309,620 bales had been ginned.

The largest quantity heretofore ginned to September 1, was 850,968 bales in 1916 when 7.5 per cent of the crop was ginned to that date. Ginnings reported today comprise 9.3 per cent of the 11,137,000 bale crop forecast from August 25 conditions. The heavy ginnings are ascribed to hot weather in the western part of the cotton belt. Much cotton opened prematurely and the picking was done early. There was a considerable increase in southern Texas acreage and the crop there matured early.
