The public market of this morning which had been counted on to be the best of the season, did not meet this expectation because of the heavy rain. Despite the downpour from early morning, however, there was a plentiful supply of everything except peaches and potatoes and a large patronage. Potatoes which had been expected in from Persist by parcel post failed to arrive, probably because the rain of the past two days had prevented digging them.

Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Barber are still without any official news as to the fate of Lieutenant Newell Barber, their son, who during an airplane battle last month was seen to descend in his disabled plane behind the German lines. Two days ago Dr. Barber received a message from the war department that as yet that department had no word even of the mishap that befell the young Medford soldier. Dr. Barber has asked the war department to at once take steps if possible to ascertain from the German government the whereabouts of Newell and whether he was injured.

Are you a wife who is proud of her husband's fatal attraction for women? Or are you the husband in the case? In either event, you should go to see "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," the screamingly funny farce comedy which A. H. Woods will present at the Page theatre on Monday evening, direct from the Republic theatre, New York, where it was one of the conspicuous comedy hits of last season.

"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" is said to contain one of the most ingenious plots ever embodied in a comedy. As much of it as has been divulged concerns the adventures of an innocuous young husband who is compelled to live up to his wife's conception of him as a gay Lothario. Modest and innocent as he is, she still believes him irresistible to women, and glories in his imaginary past. To sustain the illusion he proceeds to pose as a dare-devil, and quite unwittingly becomes involved in a desperate situation in a private suite in a lonely wayside inn. A carnival of laughter follows in the wake of his predicament, and a wealth of hilariously amusing lines and situations.

his privations. This is a characteristic service of the army. Their quota is modest and will be easily met by many small subscriptions of willing citizens. The council of defense are preparing the names of team captains and workers and will publish the same very soon. Each person named will be expected to report to his captain by phone or in person at once and hold themselves ready for service Wednesday morning. This is a patriotic duty and all are under the conscription law now.

Among the Redcliffe Chautauqua entertainers who are guests at the Hotel Medford are J. A. Robinson, Abby A. Flint, Mary Joslin, Myra H. Gilhinson, Louisa Higgins and Alex Whitmore of Washington, D. C., and Jean Parlot, Alfonso Bocus, Oreste Dwanato and Orest Coppola of New York.

MONROE SALISBURY AT RIALTO SUNDAY

Monroe Salisbury, winner of screen laurels for his work in many master Bluebird photodramas, is at the Rialto theater with his latest and perhaps most appealing drama of the great west. Incidentally, he carries a new role to add to the wonderful gallery of characters he has already made famous.

If you like a good story, if you are in sympathy with the man of moderate means who is bucking the monopoly of big business, you will like Monroe Salisbury as Alan MacDonald in "Winner Takes All," founded on G. W. Ogden's novel, "The Rustler of Wind River," which will be shown at the Rialto theater tomorrow.

You will recall Monroe Salisbury as the star of "Hungry Eyes," "The Savage," "The Guilt of Silence," "Hands Down," and other successful dramas of the screen.

Mrs. Thomas Fulton and daughter left Friday for a visit at Yreka where Mrs. Fulton, who had been ill for two weeks with ptomaine poisoning, hopes to thoroly recover her health.
