"BUY RAILROAD OR I'LL SELL IT" DECLARES BULLIS

The latest development in the Medford-Jacksonville railroad situation is that last night President S. S. Bullis of the Southern Oregon Traction company came square out in the open and declared his intention of selling the railroad. He did this in a telephone conversation with Mayor Gates. Calling up the mayor he said that he had noticed the protest made by the city council over his intention, declared that he was going to sell the railroad and intimated that the people of Medford wanted the road so bad they should purchase it before it was sold to others. He suggested that a conference be held between himself and the people of Medford to this end, Mayor Gates said today that he saw no reason for such a conference. It is reported around town that Mr. Bullis' attorney went to Attorney A. E. Reames, who is representing Medford in opposing the proposed discontinuance of the railroad, and suggested the holding of a similar conference with a view to the purchase of the road, but the people's attorney spurned the suggestion. No word has yet been received from Colonel Disque at Portland relative to the protest made by the councils of Medford and Jacksonville. In an interview this morning Mr. Bullis reiterated his intention of selling the railroad. "Of course I am going to sell it," he said. "Some one else has got to carry the load."

OUR SERVICE And What It Means to You

YOU CAN INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST You Can Take the Same Care that You Would Want to Take in Making ANY Important INVESTMENT

When you buy an implement, you make an investment. You put your money into the implement for what the use of the implement will pay you in return. If the implement increases your ability to raise bigger crops at less cost, and continues to give you good service for a maximum period, it is a good investment. If the implement fails in some vital particular, or at some vital time, thereby affecting your entire farm investment and your season's work, it is a mighty poor investment. Don't forget that the profit from an implement investment is more important than the amount of the original investment itself. We would be glad if you would consider implement investments just as carefully as you would consider any other important investment. Investigate thoroughly before you invest. We keep a complete stock of implements right here at your hand so that you may conveniently and fully exercise this precaution. We want you to select before you order and to see before you select. To make your selection easier, we keep only high-grade implements. To assure full satisfaction to you from the transaction, we stake our reputation in this community for fair and helpful dealing in farm implements. Come in and make a sound, profitable implement investment.
