BOOTLEGGERS WITH 145 QUARTS OF BOOZE CAUGHT

Three Portland bootleggers who were attempting to import liquor in wholesale quantities in their auto from California to Portland, came to grief last Thursday forenoon as they were caught red handed on the Siskiyou and are now languishing in the county jail awaiting sentence, following their hearing before Justice Gowdy at Ashland yesterday at which they pleaded guilty.

As to whether there are "higher-ups" in the affair or whether they were just working for themselves in trying to get the booze to Portland, County Prosecutor Roberts refuses to make any comment.

Anyhow, pronouncement of sentence is being reserved on the defendants at the prosecutor's request, and further important developments may follow. The prisoners, young men, between 20 and 24 years old, are George B. Goldenberg, Barney Pearlman and Morris Minsky.

Accident to Car

Their capture came about in a peculiar way. While coming over the mountain Thursday forenoon a part of their car broke and the car came to a stop so suddenly that Minsky, who was driving, was hurled through the windshield, suffering cuts about the face and the loss of two teeth.

The bootleggers then got busy and carried the 145 quarts of whisky and three dozen bottles of beer to a place of concealment they selected on the mountain side. Then they hurriedly footed it to Ashland to hire another car and return for the booze.

Not long after they had gone a citizen, whose name is not known, while coming over the mountain, saw the disabled car standing by the roadside, becoming curious to see what had happened, he looked it over and in so doing found three quarts of whisky which the bootleggers had overlooked carrying to the hiding place.

Cache Is Located

On looking around the discoverer discerned a fresh trail leading from the auto up the hillside. Still giving vent to his curiosity he followed the trail to its end where the booze had been placed in hiding. Then hurrying to the nearest telephone he called up Chief of Police Thatcher of Ashland and told him of his find. He staid on watch until Chief Thatcher arrived with an auto into which they loaded the whisky and beer. Hardly had they completed their task than the unsuspecting bootleggers arrived in an auto from Ashland to take charge of their illicit joy stuff. They were at once placed under arrest and taken to Ashland.

Chief Thatcher conferred with Prosecutor Roberts over the phone and on the latter's instructions the prisoners were at once separated. One was brought to the Medford city prison, another was taken to the Jacksonville jail and the third was placed in the Ashland hoist.

Each prisoner was then in turn "sweated" by the prosecutor and his assistants, and kept separate until after their hearing at which they pleaded guilty.

taken and cavalry is operating in the rear of Turkish forces which are holding the line east of the front where the attack was launched. These enemy units are prevented from retreating eastward by the hostility of Hejaz tribes beyond the Jordan and they face a serious problem in making their way back to safety along the western bank of that stream. More than 3,000 prisoners have been captured by the British who have also taken great quantities of war materials.

WAR RELICS FROM CHATEAU THEIRRY HERE ON MONDAY

As the drive for the fourth Liberty loan is in progress, Medford people will have an opportunity to see what the Americans took when they stopped the Germans at Chateau-Thierry.

The special train of four cars carrying captured German cannon, machine guns, bomb throwers, gas tanks, bombs, gas masks, shells, helmets, breastplates and much other war equipment reaches Medford Monday morning at 9:00 and must leave at 10:30 a. m. A Pullman containing soldiers and speakers accompanies the train and the local band will probably play while the exhibit is here.

This is pronounced the biggest thing in its line that has ever come to Oregon, and no one should miss seeing the war relics.

Three cars are filled with the relics. The train, with Frank E. Smith in charge, is being sent over the state to assist in the Liberty loan drive. Robert T. Smith, state manager of the Liberty loan drive, will accompany the train most of the way on its trip. Two squads of soldiers, a corps of speakers and busters, several electricians and mechanics will be with the exhibits.

The demonstrations will be real. The soldiers which accompany the train will not only demonstrate the various pieces of war booty but some of the men will put on the gas masks, walk about the streets during the brief stops, and will show how the chest shields are used in actual warfare.

The train will be side-tracked near Main street and people are asked to be on hand promptly as there must be no delay.

Everywhere that the train stopped, thousands have passed thru and affectionately patted the big French 75. Eugene waited until 2 o'clock in the morning to see it, and received it with a band and stayed up the rest of the night to examine each interesting relic from "over there."

The train is one of the biggest features that has ever been sent out in the interests of a Liberty loan campaign. At Forest Grove and Hillsboro more people saw the train than there were residents in the city, for farmers blocked in from everywhere. The train left Portland last night on its second lap going to Marshfield, North Bend, and then back to Roseburg and Klamath Falls.

Speakers tell visitors some of the history of the relics, wherever the train stops.

The train stops at Ashland at 7 o'clock in the morning.

The trip is to last about nine days. Nearly every town in Oregon that is situated on a railroad line will be visited by the train. When the train pulls into the larger towns along the way, and many of the smaller ones, it will be met by local bands, which will head the demonstrations.

The train sent here was arranged by the committee on public information at Washington, D. C. The cars are well equipped, being lighted with electricity.

ASHLAND RELIES UPON PATRIOTISM

The Ashland Liberty bond campaign will be launched Monday. It will be entirely voluntary, no solicitation unless necessary. Circulars will be mailed to all announcing the opening of the campaign and Ashland patriotism is depended upon to do the rest. All theatres and churches will make the announcement and on Thursday six booths will be established on the streets for receiving subscriptions.

Mrs. L. P. Knapp arrived in the city today from her home at Oakland, Calif., for a visit with her nephew, B. L. Hobbs, and family.

THE MEN IN CLASS A1

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able at seventy as at twenty. Condition, not years, puts you in the discard. A system weakened by overwork and careless living brings old age prematurely. The bodily functions are impaired and unpleasant symptoms appear. The weak spot is generally the kidneys. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you will generally find yourself in Class A1. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and your system will always be in working order. Your spirits will be enlivened, your muscles supple, your mind active, and your body capable of hard work.

Don't wait until you have been rejected. Commence to be a first-class man now. Go to your druggist at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil—the kind your great-grandfather used. Two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Money refunded if they do not help you. Remember to ask for the imported, GOLD MEDAL Brand. In three sizes, sealed packages. Adv.

Some Problems Before Us Today

There never was a time in the history of this company when operating problems were as numerous or as great as they are today. Not only must we maintain service at normal—but we must provide a large additional service to meet the requirements of war industries.

How tremendous this task has become is perhaps hardly realized by the average consumer of Electricity. It is such a simple matter to switch on your light and transform a dark room into a bright cheerful interior, that it is not surprising that little thought is given to the plant producing the light and the conditions confronting it today with the country engaged in war. Back of your switch on the wall—at the other end of the wire—problems—big and vital problems—have arisen. They are problems of materials—of money—of machinery—of transportation—and of men. Practically every phase of operation presents its difficulties, difficulties that are taxing the capacities of the ablest public utility managers and efficiency experts everywhere in the country.

But this company is a public utility. Its single mission is to serve the public and serve it well—and this we are attempting to do despite every obstacle.
