(By Associated Press.) Tanks manned by Americans trained in England led the assault against the German forces on the eastern side of the Sella river yesterday. They were faced by German marine divisions which put up a hard fight. According to latest reports the allies are still gaining ground against the desperate resistance of the enemy. At one point the Germans delivered a counter-attack and momentarily gained ground but the tanks passed over and beyond the high ground where the Germans were making their stand and quickly drove the enemy out of his trenches.

American engineers, working under heavy machine gun fire, placed bridges across the river and then the American and British infantry swept across. The tanks helped to keep down the enemy fire until the engineers had finished their work and then went over with the infantry.

SMITHERS PLEADS GUILTY; SENTENCE AWAITS RETURN

State Policeman Charles Smithers who was arrested in the raid made on the room of State Policeman C. C. Triplett late Thursday night, pleaded guilty to the charge of maintaining a nuisance when his case was called for trial yesterday afternoon before Judge Taylor, hence the two young women and James Brown, who were also arrested in the room, held as witnesses, were not called upon to testify.

Triplett did not return to the city last night from Portland as expected, and on recommendation of Prosecutor Roberts sentence was deferred on Smithers until after Triplett had been arrested and given a trial, as Smithers' evidence as well as that of the women is wanted against Triplett, who it is claimed, has for some time used his room for booze parties. Sensational developments may yet come out of this raid, bearing on the conduct of the state policemen stationed in the Siskiyous to apprehend persons smuggling liquor into the state. Over 100 bottles of liquor piled in their auto were captured yesterday at Roseburg by Sheriff Quine of Douglas county.

AUTO PLUNGES INTO MOVING TRAIN; 2 SLIGHTLY HURT

A remarkable accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Rigby of Salt Lake City, Utah, miraculously escaped instant death or serious injury took place at Dole Crossing, between Myrtle Creek and Dillard at 6 p. m. Thursday when their auto crashed into a south bound passenger train. Blaine Klum of this city was a passenger on the train and witnessed the accident.

The couple were in a Ford car, descending a dangerous winding road down a hill, when Mr. Ripley evidently lost control of the car or the latter struck a stone. Anyhow, the car suddenly swerved and jumped off a twelve foot railroad embankment, and struck squarely the side of the dining car of the fast moving train. Mr. Klum was in the diner and saw the descending auto which struck the side of the car just back of him with an awful crash. After striking the car the auto bounced back, then lunged forward again, striking the steps of the rear Pullman car and was dragged for a distance of 20 to 30 feet.

The train was brought to a stop as soon as possible and backed up to the scene of the accident, the passengers expecting to find the auto's occupants ground to pieces. But not so. The auto, ground into a shapeless mass, was found lying on a cattle guard of the railroad, and pinned beneath the wreckage was the woman, lying face downward on a cattle guard, badly shaken up, but whose only apparent outward injury was a contusion in the center of her forehead, small cuts under the left eye, and a sprained ankle.

Remarkable as it may seem the man was found lying on the other side of the track, his only apparent injury being a sprained knee. He was either thrown clear over the train or else after the train had passed had scrambled up and walked to the other side of the track where he fell prostrate. Both the husband and wife were perfectly conscious when found. They were taken to Glendale on the train and placed in the Glendale hospital.

The front wheels of the auto were found 75 feet away from the other auto wreckage with every spoke broken in both. The crushed suit cases of the couple found near the accident had all the leather ground off the sides, and the handles were torn off.

Buy Your Christmas Gifts Now JEWELRY THE GIFT OF LOVE In the Jewelry Store for this War-time Christmas. Not for show, not for vanity, will jewelry be given this Christmas. Each gift of jewelry will be more truly than ever this year a gift of love. There is nothing in the world that a woman cherishes as much as a fine jewel. There is nothing that she wears so constantly day by day, year by year. Nor is there anything so easy convertible into money, if needed. The gift of a diamond today is an investment which constantly advances in value. The gift of gold and silver seems to be the only one fitting to represent the love which is welling up in every heart at the thought of coming separations, of the days when a sea will stretch between, of the days when people on this side and people on that side will be striving for right. The man who expects to be ordered to France any day wishes to give his wife or fiancée an unforgettable symbol, if that were needed, a symbol intensely personal, perhaps a ring, which will always be worn, which will become a very part of the recipient. The son off for the front thinks of his mother; he wants her to have a token from him; something of which to be proud; perhaps a diamond brooch or bar pin. FACTS ABOUT WOOL THE NEED FOR CONSERVATION is apparent to all, in the present acknowledged SHORTAGE of WOOL and the growing anxiety as to the question of FUTURE SUPPLY. This problem is ever increasing in importance because of the tremendous demands already made, and in immediate prospect for the QUARTERMASTERS department in providing adequate clothing and equipment for an army whose present estimated maximum will be five million men. The requirements for such an enormous military establishment can be shown in brief, by the TEXTILE WORLD in issue of recent date, in the following interesting data. It has been estimated that 70 lbs. of scoured wool per year will be required for each man in active service, which, on the basis of present army estimates, will call for 350 million pounds. It will readily be seen from the standpoint of military necessity alone, that an unprecedented demand for this commodity has been created. In addition, the needs of the civilian population, even though reduced to a minimum, contributes another enormous total to those of the military estimates. The extent to which restriction is being placed on civilian consumption of wool is aptly illustrated by a recent order from the war industries board prohibiting the manufacture of hard knitting yarns of wool until further notice. With this unprecedented demand on the world's supply of wool, we find the following far from reassuring facts: The United States produces annually about 110 million pounds of scoured wool or about one-third of the wool required for an army of five million men, which appears to be the present estimated ultimate size of the army. The other sources of supply such as Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Argentina are cut off on account of the enormous demands of the war department for the transportation facilities to France. So it is up to the people who stay at home to have their old clothing reclaimed by having them cleaned and pressed or dyed. Master service is our motto.
