COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor: Will you please allow me to tell our anxious friends a sure relief and most certain cure for pneumonia, and other lung troubles, I have used it for years in my family with the best results.

Get 1 oz. of chloroform and 2 oz. of alcohol at the drugist's, mix and put a few drops on a piece of cotton that can be held between the teeth, and then breathe thru it; repeat in a few moments till relieved; then after say half an hour repeat the same, but always with a clean piece of cotton. The bowels must be opened with proper laxatives after a few hours treatment with this. It is harmless if care is taken not to swallow it. This treatment should be kept up for several days and in my opinion would be a great help in the present crisis.

MRS. ELLA HASKIN.

SUPPORT THE PRESIDENT

POLITICIANS are much wrought up over the appeal made by President Wilson to the voters for an endorsement of his administration by the election of a democratic congress. Republicans had been conducting a year's gun shoe campaign to win the House on the specious plea of supporting the president, having no other vital issue, and the president's appeal has shown them in their true position—supporters of the war, but not of the president.

The republican leaders in congress have omitted no opportunity to embarrass the president. They have sought to take control of the war out of his hands and substitute an unconstitutional war council to do the president's work. They have introduced numerous resolutions to tie his hands, even in the peace negotiations, and have ceaselessly played politics for partisan advantage. Notwithstanding which the war has been run efficiently, with few of the scandals that marked the Spanish-American war, and a maximum of results. The administration has delivered the goods.

There never was a president elected by a political party who did not appeal for a congress to support his policies. The election of an opposition congress in the midst of a presidential term cannot be construed as other than a loss of confidence in the executive. A hostile congress can tie the president's hands and nullify his program—and there is now a widespread conspiracy, financed by reactionary captains of industry and self-seeking politicians, to thwart him.

The nation has developed in Woodrow Wilson one of the great statesmen of the time—perhaps the greatest. His leadership is acknowledged throughout the world. He has been universally recognized by belligerents and neutrals as the spokesman of the allies and of the cause of democracy. Only in his own country do the libidinous carpers, blinded by partisan prejudice, attempt for selfish and political purposes to malignantly assail him.

The president's chief concern, however, is not the effect that the election of a republican congress will have in America—for by an appeal to the people and an aroused public opinion, he can force through his most vital measures, but the effect that it will have on European countries, where the election of an opposition congress will be regarded as popular disapproval of his conduct of the war and of peace negotiations.

Lloyd George is soon to appeal to the people of Great Britain on the same platform that President Wilson now appeals. If a majority favorable to him in the house of commons is not secured, it means that the British people do not approve of his course in winning the war and it means his retirement as premier. The difference in the British and American constitutions is that the executive in American continues through his fixed term, while in England and other continental countries, a vote of lack of confidence ousts the administration.

There is plenty of precedent for the president's appeal. We do not need to go back further than the Spanish-American war, when in 1898 we find Theodore Roosevelt, then a candidate for governor, appealing to the country to elect a congress of the same party as the president, as follows:

"Remember that whether you will or not, your votes this year will be viewed by the nations of Europe from one standpoint only. They will draw no fine distinctions. A refusal to sustain the president this year, will, in their eyes, be read as a refusal to sustain the war and to sustain the efforts of our peace commission to secure the fruits of war. Such a refusal may not innocently bring about a rupture of peace negotiations. It will give heart to our defeated antagonists; it will make possible the interference of those doubtful neutral nations, who in this struggle have wished us ill."

We find, on the eve of the same election, Benjamin Harrison, former president of the United States, making the same appeal as follows:

"If the world goes forth that the people of the United States are standing solidly behind the president, the task of the peace commissioners will be easy, but if there is a break in the ranks—if the democrats score a telling victory, if democratic senators, congressmen and electors are elected—Spain will see in it a gleam of hope; she will take fresh hope, and a renewal of hostilities, more war, may be necessary to secure to us what we have already won."

It is just as true in the situation today. If the people of the United States do not stand solidly back of the president, America's influence in the peace negotiations will be nullified and it will be next to impossible, with the powerful autocratic and reactionary elements existent among our allies and enemies to force a peace that will make the world safe for democracy and democracy safe for the world.

BOSNIANS UNEDUCATED UNDER AUSTRIAN RULE

The Croatian Journal Obzor, published in Zagreb, in a recent issue describes the lamentable situation of the Bosnian population concerning education. The statistics given are another proof that the directors, at Vienna and Budapest, employ all possible means to let the Bosnian people wallow in the completest ignorance.

In the annexed countries, last year, there were in all 187 primary schools, "This number comprised 221 state schools, 146 confessionals, and 16 private. The pupils numbered 42,587, which represents hardly one-third of the children who should frequent school. Among the inhabitants, above seven years, only 177,168 can read and write. This does not represent 12 per cent of the whole population. Therefore, about 1,311,822 of the people, or 78 per cent are illiterate. In certain villages, the per cent of illiteracy is still higher. Certainly, this is a sad state of affairs for an Austro-Hungarian regime of forty years standing!"

The Itching and Sting of Blazing, Fiery Eczema

Seems Like the Skin Is on Fire. There is a harassing discomfort caused by Eczema that almost becomes a torture. The itching is almost unbearable, and the skin seems on fire with the burning irritation. A cure from local applications of salves and ointments is impossible, because such treatment can only delay the pain temporarily. The disease can only be reached by going deep down to its source. The source of Eczema is in the blood, the disease being caused by an infection which breaks out through the skin. That is why the most satisfactory treatment for all so-called skin diseases is S. S. S., for this remedy so thoroughly cleanses the blood that no impurities can remain. Get a bottle to-day at any drugstore, and you will see results from the right treatment. Write for expert medical advice, which you can get without cost, by addressing Medical Director, 21 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE BY CZECHO-SLOVAKS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The Czecho-Slovak Declaration of Independence just issued is one of the most memorable documents of the war. In it the Czecho-Slovaks outline the main principles of the constitution of their new state.

"The Czecho-Slovak state shall be a republic," says the declaration. "In constant endeavor for progress, it will guarantee complete freedom of conscience, religion and science, literature and art, speech, the press, and the right of assembly and petition. The church shall be separated from the state. Our democracy shall rest on universal suffrage; women shall be placed on an equal footing with men, politically, socially and culturally. The rights of the minority shall be safeguarded by proportional representation; national minorities shall enjoy equal rights. The government shall be parliamentary in form and shall recognize the principles of initiative and referendum. The standing army will be replaced by militia.

"In its foreign policy the Czecho-Slovak nation will accept its full share of responsibility in the reorganization of eastern Europe. It accepts fully the democratic and social principle of nationality and subscribes fully to the doctrine that all covenants and treaties shall be entered into openly and frankly without secret diplomacy.

"Democracy has defeated theocratic autocracy. Militarism is overcome, democracy is victorious. On the basis of democracy, mankind will be recognized. The forces of darkness have served the victory of light. The longest for age of humanity is dawning.

"We believe in democracy. We believe in liberty, and liberty ever more."

RUSSIAN WORKERS IN AMERICA TO AID NATIVE COUNTRY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—The Russian Industrial Union of Philadelphia has received from President Wilson a favorable reply to its offer to send abroad its little army of trained workers, to help in the rebuilding of Russia at any time this government sees fit to call upon it. The president's reply acknowledges with thanks the willingness of the Russian Industrial Union to be of service, and states that the United States will avail itself of the offer when the right time arrives.

About a year ago, the Russian workmen of Philadelphia formed this organization, which includes textile workers, woodworkers, carpenters, mechanics, shoemakers, leatherworkers, brickmakers, sugar refiners, and a number of other trades. Their purpose was to hold classes in which Russian workmen could train themselves and become acquainted with superior American methods, so as to be able to render the greatest service in Russia and Siberia, when the time for reconstruction arrives.

Altho the society is called the Russian Industrial Union, it is nothing to do with the I. W. W. and is directly opposed to their methods. The membership in Philadelphia amounts to about 290. Similar unions have been founded in Detroit and in some of the other larger cities.

INFLUENZA WORSE THAN HUN BULLETS

Claiming More Victims Than Battle Fronts of Europe—Diseases Can Be Avoided

According to carefully compiled statistics it is an indisputable fact that the Spanish influenza epidemic which is now sweeping all parts of the country is daily claiming far more victims than German bullets on the battle fronts of Europe. Altho civil and military authorities have succeeded in checking the disease in some localities, it is growing worse in others and continues to spread at an alarming rate. That the disease can be avoided there is no longer any doubt. According to leading authorities the powers of resistance of the human system can be a perfected that it can throw off almost any infection, not even excepting Spanish influenza, which is one of the most contagious diseases known.

It is persons who are suffering from lowered vitality, who are weak and rundered and who have not the strength to throw it off who are the earliest victims. Persons who have had colds, who are suffering from catarrhal troubles, or inflammation of the mucous membranes are especially susceptible, as the inflamed mucous membrane linings of the nose and throat are an open door to the germs. This condition is almost always accompanied by a weakened condition of the system.

If you are suffering from any of these symptoms, nothing on earth will build you up and strengthen you like Tanlac, which contains the most powerful tonic-properties known to science.

This statement is easily proven by the fact that Tanlac is now having the greatest sale of any system tonic in the history of medicine. In less than four years time over Ten Million Bottles have been sold and the demand is constantly increasing. Thousands are using it daily for the above troubles with the most astonishing and gratifying results. Tanlac increases your strength and weight and creates a good healthy appetite for nourishing food. It keeps you physically fit and helps every organ of the body perform its proper function in the natural way.

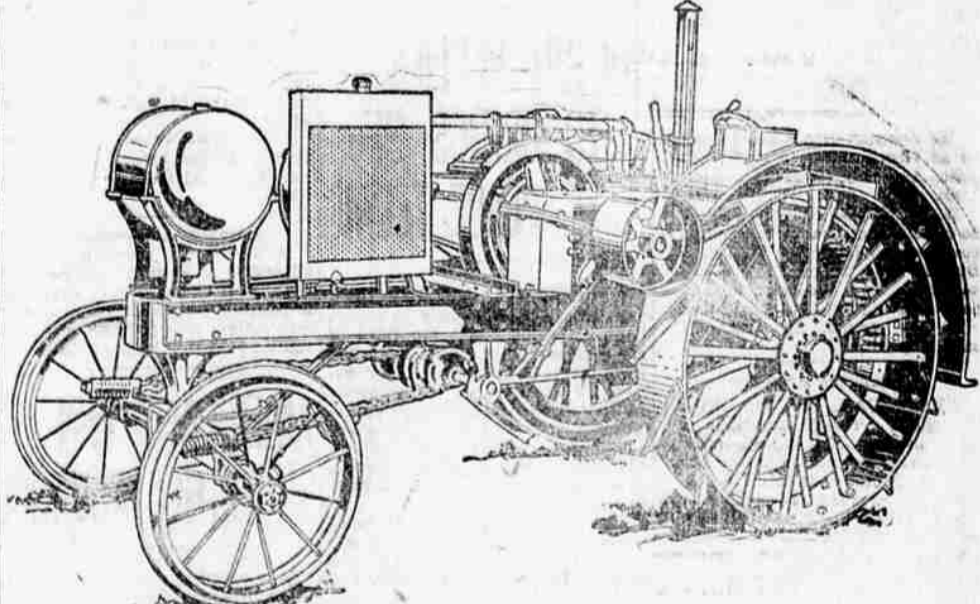

In conjunction with the Tanlac Treatment be sure and keep the bowels open by taking Tanlac Laxative Tablets, samples of which are included in every bottle. Tanlac is sold in Medford by West Side Pharmacy, in Gold Hill by M. D. Flowers, in Central Point by Miss M. A. Moo, in Ashland by J. J. McNair, Advr.
