YANKEES BREAK GERMAN LINES ON MEUSE FRONT

oral hundred Germans found themselves in an untenable position at Imecourt. A garrison had been left to defend the position and had performed its part well when the Americans stormed the place. Machine guns sent a murderous shell fire into the valley until, on signal to the American batteries, there was laid down a barrage, not on the town, but along a line to the rear of it. The Germans say that the bursting shells came creeping toward them from the rear and that at the same time American infantrymen advanced up the slope toward the village. The defending troops immediately rushed down toward the Americans with upraised hands, crying "kamerad."

Many Machine Guns

In the woods encountered by the Americans, especially in Bois de Bourzeogne machine guns were left to a number probably not surpassed by those in the Arconne woods to the south. German forces are making desperate efforts and gas is being used in great quantities. Bois de Lozes and Bois de Bourzeogne were literally drenched with fumes.

Frontal attacks against these strongholds are not a part of the American plan. The French are moving upon the west side of Bois de Bourzeogne and the Americans on the right, and a similar enveloping of Bois de Lozes has been undertaken. The Germans were forced to move out early in the day to the edges of these patches of timber, where they manned heavy and light machine guns and in many cases fought to the end.

Late this afternoon the air cleared and scouting airplanes reported enemy troops moving well toward the northern edges of both sides.

Story of Attack

When the order for the attack was given the Americans moved forward unhesitatingly and the advance was carried out on schedule.

In the center La Dhuy farm, about two-thirds of a mile from the starting points, was taken by 7 o'clock. It was defended by infantry, machine guns and some artillery. The Hazois wood was cleared by 10 o'clock, 500 prisoners being taken there. The village of Landreville, one mile northwest of the wood, was occupied at 10:45; and Remonville, about a mile northeast of Landreville, was taken at 11:30. The village of Imecourt, to the southwest, was captured at 10 o'clock in the morning, and shortly after noon Bayonville, north of Remonville, was added to the list.

In breaking through this front the Americans shattered the last strongholds of the Kriemhilde positions, to which the Germans had clung so stubbornly. The positions were protected by wire entanglements, machine guns and artillery, but the light tanks leading the infantry moved forward almost uninterfered. Very strong opposition was met on the extreme left.

FOCH PUSHING CAMPAIGN ON WESTERN FRONT

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Unperturbed by armistice proceedings, capitulations and revolutions, Marshal Foch, the allied commander-in-chief, is going ahead deliberately and methodically with the carrying out of his military plans. Thus yesterday witnessed a series of stunning blows dealt by him on the western front.

Notable in the concrete development of the marshal's program was the resumption of the drive by General Gouraud with his French forces, and General Lizzetti, with the American First army, between the Aisne and the Meuse. After preparing the ground by a number of local actions the offensive was begun on a 10-mile front on either side of Vouziers and excellent progress was effected.

Between Grand Pre and the Meuse the Americans pushed ahead two and a half miles and won the heights which dominate Bazanet, an important center of the enemy communications. On the other wing General Gouraud reached the approaches to the Ardennes canal between Atigny and Le Chesne, tending to outflank Rethen from the east, while the French Fifth army began to outflank it to the northwest of Chateau Porcien.

This success, together with the advance of the Flanders armies along the Scheldt, involving the capture of several bridgeheads and sealing the fate of Valenciennes, adds considerably to the dangerous situation for the enemy along the whole great front.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 2.—A plot against the soviet government has been discovered among the sailors of the flotilla on the river Volen, according to reports from Petrograd.

Russian Minister Trotsky in an order of the day to the army denounces the cowardice and flight of several fighting units. He threatens to court-martial any unit showing the least sign of panic in the future.

J. A. WESTERLUND

To the Voters of Medford and Jackson County: I am a candidate for representative from Jackson County in the state legislature, where I have already served two terms as your representative. During my former period of service, I worked and voted for our Normal School at Ashland for Southern Oregon. I have always considered the re-establishment of this much-needed institution of learning, bigger and better than ever, one of the most important questions for our legislative delegation to work on, and one which will always have my undivided support. I am heartily in favor of nation-wide prohibition, and if elected I will work and vote for the ratification of the national prohibition amendment. I have always been in favor of good roads for the farmer and for general traffic. If elected, I will make every effort to secure for Jackson County its due share of the state funds devoted to road building, and especially will I work for a satisfactory adjustment of the expenditures already made by this county on the Pacific Highway. During the many years of my residence in Jackson County, I have developed and operated one of the largest horticultural and farming operations in the state, which I am still conducting. I am a practical farmer and orchardist, and I believe that I know the needs of the people of the county well, and how best to serve them in the legislature, from my former experience there. If you believe that I deserve the honor of another term in the legislature as your representative, I am ready and willing to serve you in that capacity. Sincerely yours, J. A. WESTERLUND. (Paid Adv.) My number on the ballot is 40.
