COLONEL KELLY IN FINAL DRIVE AGAINST SEDAN

That Lieut.-Colonel E. E. Kelly was in the thick of the closing battle of the war is indicated by the announcement that the 80th division, of which he is chief signal officer, captured Buzanov, Nov. 1 in the advance upon Sedan. Before his transfer to the 80th division, he participated in the St. Mihiel advance and in other battles.

The following is the line-up of divisions in the advance on Sedan: To the Rainbow division, which was the third American contingent to reach France, belongs the glory of Sedan, the scene of the defeat of the armies of Napoleon III, by the forces of the king of Prussia in 1870. That event marked the downfall of the military prestige of France. Sedan's loss marked the collapse of Prussian militarism.

In close company with the Rainbow boys, across of the regular army 1st and 2nd divisions, drove hard along the Meuse. East of the river the 20th division faced the enemy, swept clean the ridges of the Freya line and pushed on to Stenay.

It is a fine and fitting climax to the epic of our wartime achievements that those divisions, whose records are so gloriously given in the rings of Cantigny or the shattered tree-stumps of Belleau Wood, along the bloodstained banks of the Marne. Oursin and Vesle, and amid the rolling meadows north of St. Mihiel, should lead in the final victory.

Gen. Liggett on Nov. 1 renewed his assaults on the eastern lines of the German defensive system. Within a week the lines were smashed and Germany was hewing to the ultimatum of Gen. Foch.

In the thunderous thrust that brot these things about, the 2d division played a prominent part from the beginning. Subsequently the 1st and 42nd divisions had their turn. It was the 2d division—mindful of the triumph of its marines in Belleau Wood, of its infantrymen at Vaux and of both brigades in the Soissons drive last July, and the storming of Blanc Mont in Champagne a month ago—that swept the foe from Barreourt Woods and by nightfall of Nov. 1 was master of all the Freya positions east of Buzanov.

New Yorkers in Bitter Fight

On its left, the 80th division from Virginia and Western Pennsylvania took Buzanov. Further westward New Yorkers of the 77th division stormed Champagneville and pressed onward, after bitter fighting, to assist in the process of pinching out the Bourgeois Woods, between our army and Gen. Gouraud's 4th French army.

At nightfall on Nov. 2 the Rainbow and 1st divisions were preparing to enter the fray. They were to attack respectively with the left and centre corps. But the Boches broke and ran—and thereafter the battle, save for brief periods of German resistance, was a Boche chase.

On our extreme left, marching day and night to catch up with the front line, the Rainbow division pursued the foe for ten miles and eventually lung him from the western part of Sedan. The old 9th, now the 165th infantry, the first New York unit to get into action in this war, upheld the splendors of its past in this final series of attacks. This gallant herald of the millions of soldiers Uncle Sam was to send to France, maintaining the rapid pace which the 2nd division had set on Nov. 1, advanced to the west bank of the Meuse, leaving in its wake scores of wrecked machine guns and the bodies of those who had manned them.

First Holds Record

The 1st division holds the record of the longest service in France, as the 42nd holds that for the most continuous service. Another division which is rated as a tomcat by the general staff and by the doughboy too is the 32nd made up of Michigan and Wisconsin national guardsmen. This division came into the final battle on the right and drove the enemy from his formidable fortress of resistance on the heights north of Verdun.

It was the 32nd which, having showed the enemy to the Vesle in July and August was further hurled a few weeks later when in a terrific offensive staged by Gen. Mangin's 10th French army north of Soissons it took Juvency and paved the way for the German withdrawal from Chemin-des-Dames.

NEW RULES FOR SENDING CHRISTMAS PARCELS TO TROOPS

The local Red Cross has received the following instructions regarding the sending of Christmas packages to troops overseas, making important changes in rules and extending mailing time to November 20. The new order follows:

"The war and postoffice departments will issue an order today, November 15th, extending the mailing date for Christmas parcels thru November 30th. This means that parcels may be mailed up to the time that your local postoffice will receive mail on Nov. 30th.

"Provisions for boys whose labels not received: An individual, who should have received a label but who failed to receive it or who has lost or destroyed it, may receive carton not earlier than November 21st upon signing a statement at any Red Cross Christmas parcel station substantially as follows:

"The undersigned hereby makes application to (Name), (Organization) American Expeditionary Forces a Christmas package. The undersigned hereby declares that he or she is nearest living relative in the United States of the proposed recipient; that he or she has not received this man's label from abroad; and that should such label be received it will not be used; and that to the best of his or her knowledge and belief only one Christmas parcel will be sent the proposed recipient.

"The following regulations will govern the sending of these parcels and should be strictly followed:

1. No carton can be given on such a request until November 21st.
2. All regulations hitherto issued concerning contents, inspection, addressing, stamping, sealing and mailing apply, even to the extent that the parcel must bear a regular overseas label. The division office has authority thru department headquarters from the war department to print a quantity of these labels to be used on cartons mailed under the above form of request. A supply of these overseas labels will be mailed to your chapter at once by special delivery and should be restricted religiously to the use for which they are intended, your inspectors being impressed with the fact that the war department is imposing great confidence in the Red Cross and in them."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Reduction of the enlisted strength of the navy has commenced, Secretary Daniels said today, and applications for discharge by men both in the regular service and in the reserve divisions are being received. First consideration is being given, he added, to youths seeking to return to school or to positions in civil life which they gave up to join the naval forces.

Mr. Daniels did not indicate the extent to which the reduction in strength was planned to go. It has been intimated previously, however, that the navy could spare 50,000 men during the next month.
