

TRI-COLOR AGAIN FLOATS PROUDLY OVER LORRAINE

Metz Celebrates Return to France—Petain Makes Entrance—People Pull Down German Statues, Except That of Kaiser, Whose Hands They Chain and Padlock.

METZ, Nov. 20.—When Marshal Petain entered this city yesterday, he stood before the statue of Marshal Ney and reviewed the troops. The municipality and local societies welcomed the marshal at the city hall and the vicer-general greeted him at the cathedral where he deems were sung.

The historic event accomplished at 2 o'clock in the afternoon when Marshal Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies, made his entry into Metz, the great stronghold of Lorraine, and the pivot of Germany's effort to crush France, may be said more than any other happening to consecrate the victory of the allies in this war.

From early in the morning all the roads leading to Metz were crowded with Lorrainers on their way to the city to raise their voices there for Marshal Petain and for France. People unaccustomed to any tongue other than the German for years, began many days ago brushing up their knowledge of French in preparation for this occasion, and although the majority of the population undoubtedly has a perfect acquaintance with no other tongue than the German, little of that language was heard in the streets today.

Other things German had disappeared overnight, including the statues of the German rulers, which had been hauled down by the citizens. William I had toppled over by the equestrian monument, while Frederick III, who for many years had pointed a menacing finger at France from the pedestal upon which he stood, had come down with a rum around his neck.

RED CROSS WORK CONTINUES DURING RECONSTRUCTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—To turn war work into peace work is the task which now confronts the American Red Cross. With the American army still abroad and in camps awaiting demobilization orders, with devastation of land, and people in European countries pleading for reconstruction, and soldiers' families at home continuing their demands upon the home service section, all phases of the program constructed for war service must be continued, and according to officials some of them must be enlarged in the emergencies of the present and the future.

The American Red Cross is commencing a survey of all the devastated countries with a view of giving the best service possible in the reconstruction of their civilian life it is announced here. The aid contemplated includes the furnishing of supplies of clothing, implements with which to begin again work on the land, and any other means needed by the returning soldier and his family to take up life again in its peaceful pursuits.

Chapters have also been instructed to continue work on hospital garments, hospital supplies, and knitted garments as usual. All orders for surgical supplies are emergency orders, but they are expected to continue so long as the American army is mobilized. In spite of the fact that fighting has ceased, and no additional cases of wounded are expected overseas, hospital service will continue in the care of the 2,000,000 men in arms over there.

The bureau of personnel will continue recruiting overseas workers. It is expected that all hospitals, convalescent homes, canteens and huts will be maintained until, in turn, each necessity ceases. Supplies for them all will go, for the most part, from Red Cross chapter workrooms in America.

Particular appeal to home service committees in chapters in the Pacific division has been made by the home service section. The work of these committees will have a notable increase as peace conditions assert themselves. Until the soldier arrives home and is actually readjusted to civilian life, the Red Cross will continue its service to both him and his family.

The program of the Junior Red Cross was given larger scope as the word of peace converted its features from palliative to constructive work. Three outstanding phases of the plan for the school children projected by the bureau of Junior Red Cross are education, production, and finance. The educational feature will be used more than ever, particularly to spread the health program, and as propaganda for democratic ideals.

The Red Cross in the present war emergency has made possible an expression by the American people which they scarcely realized was in their power. The Red Cross will never go back," said Mr. Dohmann, today. "The American people have found out something about themselves and they do not want to forget it. When censorship releases the publication of certain details of the terrible conflict overseas, and the story of situations met by the Red Cross become known in America, new impetus will be given the organization. To secure a unanimous answer to the Christmas roll call is expected to be an easy task in the face of the pride which all Americans feel for their own loyal organization.—The American Red Cross."

All Choked Up With Catarrh? Why Continue Makeshift Treatment? Sprays and douches will never cure you.

Catarrh is annoying enough when it chokes up your nostrils and air passages, causing pain and difficulty breathing and other discomforts. But the real danger comes when it reaches down into your lungs. This is why you should at once realize the importance of the proper treatment, and use no time experimenting with worthless remedies.

ASHLAND AND VICINITY

In the midst of club, society, fraternal, and other meetings galore, the semi-annual gathering of the Commercial club should not be lost sight of. Due to the war and other high pressure activities, the commercial body has been quiescent for several months past, but it must not be allowed to continue in this state and will not be either. All thru the war, and in connection with local aid in behalf of the struggle, the club has been a clearing house for ideas which developed action in a most helpful way.

Roy Van Natta, grandson of Geo. O. Van Natta, recently written relatives here interesting letters concerning his experience on the ocean wave. Roy is only 18 years of age, but has won considerable service aboard ship already. When last heard from he was at Newport News, one of the chief naval stations of the nation. His ship, the name of which of course cannot be given, is one of the convoy which has been accompanying army transports overseas, and in connection with this service he has made ten trips across the Atlantic. This has been accomplished safely, and although visiting various foreign ports he has not as yet set foot on foreign soil. This is due to the fact that the convoy naval vessels either do not make port on many of their voyages, or even if they did the return trip is under way before the sailors can avail themselves of shore privileges. Roy is well pleased with the naval service.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink lots of water and stop eating meat for a while if your bladder troubles you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and lazy.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it is no longer irritating, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.
