

URGE SOLDIERS TO KEEP INSURANCE AFTER DISCHARGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—As soldiers are demobilized, efforts will be made to impress on them the desirability of their continuing payments on their government voluntary life insurance, which can be maintained for five years after peace, even though the soldier has returned to civil life. This will be done by insurance agencies in the army, working together with authorities of the treasury's war risk insurance bureau.

Secretary McAdoo in a statement has urged soldiers to retain their insurance to protect their families and to retain the right to convert this into other forms to be provided by the government. An additional reason, it is said, is the treasury's desire to make of the soldiers' and sailors' insurance a demonstration that government life insurance is successful, and can be extended.

McAdoo's Statement
"I desire to remind all America's soldiers and sailors," said Mr. McAdoo's statement, "that it is their opportunity and their privilege to keep up their insurance with the United States government after the war has officially terminated and even after they have returned to civil life.

"In its present form, this insurance is annual, renewable term insurance at net peace rates, issued against death and total permanent disability. Under the provisions of the war risk insurance act, every person holding this insurance may keep it up in this form even after he leaves the service, for a period of five years. All that is necessary is the regular payment of premiums.

"Moreover, the law provides that not later than five years after the termination of the war as declared by presidential proclamation, the term insurance shall be converted, without medical examination, into such form or forms of insurance as may be prescribed by regulations and as the insured may request. This insurance will continue to be government insurance.

Advantages Are Many
"The advantages of keeping this insurance in force cannot be emphasized too strongly. The right to continue it is a valuable right given by the government to our fighting men as compensation for their services. If this right is lost by allowing insurance to lapse it can never be regained. When government insurance is allowed to lapse the holder cannot again obtain insurance except from private companies at a considerable increase in cost. Moreover many of the men may have become uninsurable as a result of the war thru physical impairment, and if these allow their insurance to lapse they will lose the last opportunity for their families to have the protection of life insurance."

PROTECTION FOR CHROME MINERS SOUGHT IN PARKS

SALEM, Nov. 27.—If the men who have made large investments in developing chrome mines in Oregon are not to be forced to lose heavily, the government must give them protection until they have disposed of enough of the chrome ore to repay them for their outlay.

This is the assertion of H. M. Parks, director of the Oregon bureau of mines and geology, who was here Monday interviewing the governor and attorney general on the subject.

Chrome ore is now being mined in five southern Oregon counties and two eastern Oregon counties. These mines were developed as a result of the strong demand for chrome ore for the manufacture of steel for war uses. Mr. Parks said that these mines are prepared to turn out next year 50,000 tons of this ore, which has been selling for $90 a ton. This would amount to $4,500,000.

Now that the war is over the big steel manufacturers no longer want to depend largely on the domestic supply of chrome ore, and they are making a fight against the minerals control law, recently enacted by congress. Secretary Franklin K. Lane of the interior department has been appointed director of that law, under which he has authority to control the importation of chrome ore.

Mr. Parks wants the governor to uphold the hands of Secretary Lane and give any assistance possible in resisting the demands of the steel manufacturers that the law be repealed or abrogated in any way on the grounds that the war is ended. He wants the steel manufacturers to use chrome ore mined in this country until those who have developed mines as a means of helping to win the war have made whole in their investments.

CROWN PRINCE AT WIERINGEN ISLE HOLLAND COAST

AMSTERDAM, Friday, Nov. 22.—The tug bearing the former German crown prince to the island of Wieringen arrived there this afternoon. The crown prince was given an icy reception by the islanders.

Burgomaster Desobroom, who is also the chief of the local police and will exercise direct supervision over the person of the former crown prince, conducted him to an ancient cabin, in which he was driven to the Oosterland parsonage, his place of refuge.

Frederick William is not supposed to leave the island except by special permission by the home office at The Hague. He got food cards the same as an ordinary citizen.

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 26.—The foreign office confirms the report that British law officers of the crown in co-operation with the French authorities, are considering the question of extradition of the former German emperor. The foreign office says that the law officers have not yet made a report and consequently no action has yet been taken.

PRINCE OF WALES REMAINS BOYISH

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The prince of Wales is developing, but remains boyish," says a morning paper which recalls that when King Edward as heir-apparent was the age of the present prince he had been married for five years, had two sons, presided over a large establishment, and was admittedly the chief figure in the social world.

The question of the prince's marriage is in abeyance, as is that of Princess Mary's. Queen Victoria was determined that her daughters should marry young, and openly said so. Queen Alexandra never encouraged match-making for her daughters, nor Queen Mary for hers.

Arrangements have been made, it is understood, for the prince of Wales to go to Cambridge this fall for an officers' staff course, but the plan was altered and the prince was directed to go to France, where he visited in turn the various forces of the allies.

MINERALIZATION OF FOODS USED BY GERMAN SCIENTISTS

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 27.—German science is capable of all things, especially if it is a question of supplying the deficiency of certain kinds of human foods. His latest bewildering discovery is the mineralization of foods. What does it mean? Dr. Rehrig, director of the office of chemical analysis of the University of Leipzig explains.

"The most useless residues," he writes in the Tribune de Geneve. "The most unthought of things are employed in making sausages and gelatines which sell at fantastic prices."

In other words, clay, plaster, salt, earth, soda, saw-dust, ground straw, and flour made of nut shells and husks enter in larger or smaller quantities into the manufacture of delicatessen. The process is called the mineralization of foods; but the latest invention of the makers of sausage is bread without flour.

"We read in fact in the Nation Belge that a proposition for legalizing the fabrication of such bread has been made by Dr. Gross to the imperial office of cereals and that it was refused. The company organized for the manufacture of cereals after the Gross system protested actively against the decision declaring that it should have been submitted to the judgment of the kaiser and kaiserin, who, the society says in its protest, eat only bread made without flour and prefer it to all others."

BARUCH OFFERED TREASURY JOB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board, it was understood today, has been offered the post of secretary of the treasury to succeed Secretary McAdoo.

Whether he will be nominated is an open question. Without actually declining to serve, it is said, Mr. Baruch has urged upon the president strongly his belief that he should not enter the cabinet, on the ground that his wealth, largely in government and other securities, would be seriously embarrassing.

BRITISH BALK AT SURRENDERING RULE OF HIGH SEAS

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Speaking at Dundee last night, Winston Spencer Churchill, minister of munitions, said that while he would do everything in his power to make a league of nations a practical and powerful reality it would be no substitute for the supremacy of the British fleet.

In reference to the freedom of the seas he said:

"From the battle of Trafalgar to the end of the 19th century we were absolutely free at sea. We were the only nation whose ports were open to the world, whose markets were unrestricted by any tariff and whose coastwise trade was not held as a national monopoly. Even our kith and kin from the United States, whose affection and aid have been so dear to us, never practiced that broad liberal policy which we, for a century of unchallenged supremacy, have shown upon the sea. If other nations of the world are content to allow us to keep the supremacy of the seas without demur it will be because we hold it as a trust for all."

TREASURY CERTIFICATES OFFERED TO BANKS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—In preparation for the fifth war loan, the treasury announced today the issuance of $600,000,000, or more of certificates of indebtedness, payable May 8, 1919, and paying 4 1/2 percent interest.

The subscription period will run from December 1 to December 10. The maturity date of the issue indicates that the fifth loan will be floated in April.

SOIF AGAIN REQUESTS MODIFICATION OF TERMS

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 26.—Dr. W. S. Soif, German foreign minister, has asked the allies once more for a mitigation of the armistice conditions and has requested permission to delay the delivery of railroad rolling ing stock under the terms of the armistice, on the ground of difficulties caused by bad agreement, between Germany and the conditions and the lack of lubricants, until February 1, on the rolling stock.

WOMAN OPPOSING FORMER PREMIER

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Herbert Asquith, liberal leader, will be opposed for his seat from the East district of Pineshire in the coming elections by Mrs. George E. Hope, widow of Lieut. Col. Hope, who was killed during the war. Colonel Hope was a nephew of the Earl of Rosebery.

Mrs. Hope is running independent, and one of her planks is a demand that William Hohenzollern, former German emperor, be brought to England to be tried for murder.

COLLECT NEXT YEARS TAX UNDER OLD LAW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Plans for collecting next year's tax under the old law have been made by Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper because of the fact that the revenue bill may not be enacted in time to allow the printing and distribution of reporting forms under that measure by January 1, the opening of the period for filing of returns.
