No Immediate Danger

Vice Admiral Albert Gleaves today issued the following statement: "The Northern Pacific is in no immediate danger and until there is a change of the wind from the westward no attempt will be made to transfer those on the ship. Such transfer, if it is made today, will probably be to other ships standing by, as it is safer to transfer them to ships than to try to take them ashore through the breakers."

Twelve cruisers and destroyers and other rescue ships maintained vigil throughout the night in a semi-circle a mile outside the bar, their blinker lights flashing incessantly. At dawn they prepared for a day of maneuvering about the stranded vessel. Fresh coast guard crews replaced the ones which spent the night near the breeches boy which could not be used and are in constant communication with the transport.

Twenty Red Cross nurses with food and supplies landed on Fire Island today ready to care for any troops which might be brought ashore. The nurses were accompanied by Camp Upton soldiers who will be sent to aid the coast guard men.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 350,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.
