

FLU MASK FINES TURNED OVER TO LOCAL RED CROSS

An echo of the flu mask controversy protest that came up at the last council meeting of the old year, and which was unheeded, came up at last night's council meeting whereby the local chapter of the Red Cross is enriched by $65.

The action arose following the reading of the December report of Police Judge Taylor, which showed 16 persons were fined that month for violating the flu mask ordinance. At the conclusion of the reading of the report, Councilman Keene, who was a leader in the flu mask protest called attention to the arrests and fines of flu law violators and made a motion that the fine money instead of going into the city treasury be turned over to the local chapter of the Red Cross.

There was no debate on this motion and inasmuch as the flu epidemic and its controversies was a thing of the past, the motion was adopted unanimously by the councilmen.

The annual report of Judge Taylor also submitted to the council last night showed Medford to be a very orderly city during 1918. The total number of defendants appearing in the police court during the year was 116, the majority in minor cases, and the total number of fines and cash bail collected amounted to $398.45.

The commonest offenses of those before the court were as follows: Drunk on the streets, 13; violators of the traffic and vehicle ordinance, 18; disorderly conduct, 11; violators of the flu mask ordinance, 16. The fines imposed far exceeded the salary of the police judge, which is only $25 a month.

In addition there were many minor offenses of various natures, only a part of which were docketed, although all were investigated in open court.

FIGHT PROHIBITION IN HIGHEST COURT

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Counsel for the distilling interests of the United States began preparations today for carrying on a legal fight against the prohibition forces to the highest court of the land. Not only will the fight against prohibition be waged in every state in the union, they said, but a concerted attack on the constitutionality of the national prohibition amendment will be started as soon as the preliminaries can be drafted.

BARONESS LECTURES ON THURSDAY EVENING

Baroness Huard, who comes to the Rialto theatre Thursday evening, Dec. 16, is a daughter of Francis Wilson, the eminent American actor, and wife of Baron Charles Huard, a prominent French artist. Her home for many years has been a beautiful chateau in the Villiers district of France. Every village noted in the last great Marne drive is known and loved by Madame Huard and she is able to present to her audience, both by word and by pictures a story graphic and comprehensive, such as no other platform speaker has attempted. Madame Huard reveals to her audience a humorous human touch that has helped her to live thru four years of unprecedented adventure.

JANUARY

This Store's Greatest Offering of High-Class Merchandise at Reduced Prices

An extraordinary combination of circumstances will make this the greatest bargain-event we have ever held! The welcome coming of Peace naturally tended to upset conditions in the wholesale market with the result that manufacturers have been "unloading." Ever alert to serve you, we have taken full advantage of these conditions and have made special purchases which enable us to offer extraordinary values.

Then, too, our own regular stocks of Winter goods are large. The influenza epidemic last fall plus the general effect of the war, retarded business. Our stocks must be reduced and to quickly accomplish that end, we have reduced prices. So this sale offers our own stocks, as well as scores of special purchases, at less than you could have expected to pay this season for merchandising of equal quality. The event begins tomorrow morning with every department of the store participating.
