A good many strange things happened during the demobilization of the army, but a peculiar coincidence occurred when the Young brothers, Paul and Embrey arrived at Camp Lewis. Paul had been in the service thirteen months and came from England, and Embrey who had been in the service five months came from Camp Eustis, Va., and both arrived at the camp December 24, one at 3 and the other at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and received their discharge Jan. 11, and came home together. As they had been shifted around to different camps, they were unable to keep tabs on each other and it was a genuine surprise to each when they met at Camp Lewis.

WANTS SHIPYARDS OPENED TO BUILD SHIPS FOR EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Wilson's failure to remove restrictions against the construction in American shipyards of steel ships for foreign account was criticized in the senate today by Senator Jones of Washington, who declared it unjustifiable and "almost criminal."

Such a policy, he said not only compelled shipyards to suspend operations, throwing thousands of men out of employment, but resulted in these contracts being awarded to firms in other countries.

"We were asked," said Senator Jones, "to give up our just rights in the Panama canal to help the President solve mysterious problems between this country and another country. We did it and to this day no one knows what benefit it was to us. After the armistice was entered into and the war practically over, Secretary Redfield recommended that the United States should stand back and allow other countries to have the first chance at the world's export trade in order that they may rehabilitate themselves. And now when we are confronted with the perplexing problems of peace the president himself refuses to permit our shipyards to take contracts to build steel ships for foreign account."

"Foreign shipbuilding contracts are sought in American shipyards. These shipyards cannot take these contracts because they cannot get a permit to do so from their own government. American shipyards are closed. American labor is idle. American resources are unused. Hundreds of millions of foreign capital wanting to come here is directed to foreign countries. Why? Because an American president, using the power given to him to carry on the war, refuses for undisclosed reasons to permit our people to take those contracts and build these ships. No reason can be given to justify it."

"It may be necessary to appropriate millions of dollars to enable the president to consummate a peace in harmony with his idealistic hopes and aspirations, but while we are doing this our people have the right to expect and to demand that an American policy be followed, protecting, safeguarding and promoting the rights, interests and welfare of the American people, labor and industries."

OUR SERVICE And What It Means to You

INVESTIGATE YOUR IMPLEMENT NEEDS CAREFULLY

Whatever You Need—Repairs or New Implements—We Can Supply to Your Satisfaction

You wouldn't spend money to have an old pair of shoes half-soled and re-heeled, when the uppers are about ready to break through, would you?

The same principle can be applied when you study whether you will repair an old implement or replace it with a new one.

There is only one question to consider: Will the old implement, when repaired, give you full service for at least this year?

"Pretty good" service will not be enough. It is never enough, and especially not this year when good prices for farm products will put a premium on extra bushels and extra tons.

If you can repair any of your old implements for full service, that will be real economy, and we are anxious to help you put that economy into effect.

You can meet your repair needs to your full satisfaction through our repair service.

If repairing the implement doesn't assure the best of service, it will pay you to come to our store and select a new implement.

Investigate your needs now. And remember that we are ready to furnish whatever you need to your satisfaction.

STOCKGROWERS WARNED AGAINST OVER-PRODUCTION

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 22.—Soundly warning that over production of meat animals in 1920 would prove disastrous to the industry, President L. T. Prvor of the American National Livestock association, today told delegates attending the association's annual meeting that they should regulate production to the requirements of domestic consumption.

President Prvor declared that the United States has a sufficient supply of meat animals to meet all anticipated demands from hungry Europe and for domestic consumption, despite liquidation during 1918.

"With our export decreasing after 1919 and our over-supply increasing," President Prvor said, "the problem that confronts cattlemen is to regulate supplies in 1920 and thereafter to the needs of domestic consumers. For that is the only sure and un failing market for our product. Even our home market may be affected by the importation of beef from other surplus countries. We must see that this does not happen."

"Our government is not prepared to protect livestock producers from the disasters that would follow over-production. No plan has been evolved to satisfactorily determine costs of production and to stabilize on such a level. The plain fact is that the stockmen are asked to assume all the risks that might follow the government's plan for increased production, and take our chances of securing a fair return. If the food administration were to continue, and there was a certainty of large orders from our allies being placed through it, the situation would be different."

Give Soldiers Preference

When Senator Houston's bill to give former sailors and soldiers preference in public employment came up for final action today in the senate, Senator Houston said the bill was similar to legislation following the Civil war. The bill passed with Jones, LaFollett and J. C. Smith voting against it. The bill affects veterans of the Civil, the Spanish and the world wars and does not discriminate against applicants for employment because of age. It provides that contractors, other things being equal give this preference.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid or premature fermentation by the use of a little Blaudrated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Blaudrated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a detergent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of peptic pills or artificial digestants.
