Women in War Work

The local Red Cross wishes to thank Dr. Page for his hearty cooperation in their behalf the night of Col. Kelly's address. Dr. Page gave a very substantial reduction on the Page theater, furnished the music and two films for the evening's entertainment.

Church, lodge or women's societies of Medford wishing to do Red Cross work as a society can have refugee garments and layettes to make by applying for same to Mrs. Mears at local Red Cross.

Any lady having out in 800 hours during the war at Red Cross rooms will please send her name to Mrs. Mears. This is the only way we have to determine who are eligible to service badges, and with the aid of registers and those in charge during the two years we were at war, some idea of those entitled to wear the badge will be determined.

The American Red Cross distributed 200,000 flu masks among the American troops in France.

The American Red Cross cantiniers and nurses marched in the parade that celebrated the return of Alsace-Lorraine in Paris.

The surgical dressing department, the hospital garment department, the knitting department and the refugee garment department of the local Red Cross hold honor certificates for first class work.

To the Chapter Chairman. Attention: Supervisors of garments and knitting. We have a telegram from headquarters at Washington, stating that Mr. Gibson, Red Cross commissioner for France cables as follows: "We need large quantities of garments sent monthly for destitute countries. This means continued production of refugee garments, including certain knitted goods, on the largest possible scale. Detailed instructions will be sent out shortly and in the meantime all work now in the hands of chapters should be pushed to completion."

With this information from headquarters, we would request that all supervisors complete the work on the chapter production orders already sent out as quickly as possible under the present adverse conditions, and that they impress upon the women who have so willingly helped in the past, the necessity of keeping up the good work for sometime, at least, until the needy civilians in European countries which have been devastated by the war are well supplied with the necessary articles of wearing apparel.

Instructions have not been sent as to what knitted articles will be required but the telegram indicates that there is no necessity of disposing of the small amount of yarn left on hand immediately, as it will probably be put to good use as soon as orders come through from Washington.

Very sincerely yours, E. J. SAUNDERS, Director, Chapter Production.

CONGRESSIONAL EFFICIENCY.

"WE HAVE got to the point where everybody regards congress with open and undisguised contempt," stated Senator Sherman of Illinois in a senate speech the other day. It was the truest thing he ever said, and every day's record adds to the contumely in which congress is held.

While important legislation lags, the senate spends its time airing its views on the peace congress, criticising the formation of a league of nations and finding fault with everything said or done at Paris.

Lengthy debates on newspaper rumors, accepted as facts, are of daily occurrence and give occasion for airing the megalomania of these camouflaged statesmen, whose sole object is to discredit the president, and delay necessary legislation to force an extra session which will be controlled by the republicans.

The revenue bill for 1918 affords a fine example of congressional efficiency. President Wilson sent an urgent message asking speedy passage of the measure on May 27 last. The measure is the most important before congress, as upon its passage depends the collection of the revenue to operate the government the present year.

For months congress refused to touch the measure and then went about it in a half-hearted manner. Before the elections, democrats stalled on the theory that the higher taxes essential would hurt the party at the election. Since the election, the republicans have been jockeying for an extra session, and held it up. So the taxes to be levied upon capital, business and industry for a year whose books are closed, are not known yet.

Business, uncertain of the toll it must pay, is upset by the delay. The credit and efficiency of the government are involved and the treasury is forced to intolerable makeshifts—and the secretary of the treasury asserts, the situation is not only embarrassing but perilous.

Perhaps berating the administration for having won the war, scoffing at the peace congress, viewing with alarm the league of nations and grilling the president, is more important than the business of the nation and its industrial prosperity, but the people do not think so, and the policy of knocking is the wrong one to win popular favor.

The inefficiency of congress is in marked contrast to the efficiency of the president, who has repeatedly demonstrated his capacity to force the hand of congress and secure what he deems vital for the nation despite their opposition, and he is now demonstrating the same efficiency among the diplomats of Europe in forcing a democratic peace—to the lasting benefit of humanity.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AT LIBERTY SUNDAY

A dangerous automobile ride down the side of a California mountain, furnishes some thrills and much excitement to all who see "He Comes Up Smiling." Douglas Fairbank's new Artercraft photoplay, which will be shown at the Liberty theater tomorrow. The picture is based upon the famous stage play in which Mr. Fairbanks appeared in New York in 1914.

There are many Fairbanksian stunts in this new picture, all of which are thrilling and many of them most unusual even for this athletic screen star. Independent of these, the story is an excellent one and provides many dramatic moments in its development. The cast generally is of the best, the leading woman being Marjorie Daw, who is well known in Fairbanks and Hart pictures. Frank Campena has an excellent role, as also has Bull Montana, with whom Fairbanks, as Jerry, the tramp, has an exciting battle.

Marguerite Clark in "Little Miss Hoover" will be shown for the last times tonight.

Wearing the most sumptuous and varied wardrobe that she has ever appeared in during her entire screen career, Madame Petrova comes to the Page theater Sunday and Monday in her latest production, "Tempered Steel," written by George Middleton and directed by that master of smiles and thrills, Ralph Ince.

Madame Petrova is shown at the opening of the story in a smart riding habit which she wears as the daughter of the proud old Caruthers family of Kentucky. She is then shown in the garb of a typical Greenwich Village denizen, and from this rapidly changes into the abbreviated but highly effective costume of "The Siren of the Nile," in which her debut as a Broadway favorite is made. Then there follows in quick and fascinating array a whole host of frocks and gowns, topped off with a fur coat of a cut that should make its wearer the envy of every woman in her audience.

LAST CHANCE TO SEE WAR FILM

It is probable that very few of the hundreds of people who crowd into the Page theatre for the last time today to see "America's Answer," the second official government war picture, will realize the time, effort and risk involved in the taking of the negatives from which this thrilling and instructive picture was made. The taking of pictures for the United States official war films is thoroughly organized. The pictures are taken in different sectors by different photographers assigned from the signal corps. These photographers, who are all experienced men, know exactly what is expected of them, and, being given carte blanche by General John J. Pershing to go anywhere. Often they are under fire; several have already lost their lives or been incapacitated by wounds, but the work goes on. The photographers are taking their chances with the soldiers who go "over the top" or who lead the charge, and they do not know the meaning of the "white feather." The usual war drama is staged. "America's Answer" visualizes the greatest of all war dramas, and no incident is staged. It is all real.

The month was dry and cold, with 9 sunny days, 5 partly cloudy, 16 cloudy and 1 rainy day. The rainfall was distributed in small dribbles, scattered from the 10th to the 26th, with .46 the heaviest precipitation on the 10th. The seasonal precipitation (since Sept. 1.) is 9.10 inches, against an average of 14.79, making a seasonal shortage of 5.69 inches.

KIDNEYS WEAKENING? BETTER LOOK OUT!

Kidney and bladder troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow upon you, slowly but steadily, undermining your health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease. Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarleim Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you feel that you are entirely free from pain. This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1696 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its sale. The good housewife of Holland would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarleim Oil Capsules. Their use restores strength and is responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders. Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarleim Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

PLAN OUTLINED TO MAKE UP LOST TIME IN SCHOOLS

County Superintendent Ager has addressed the following letter to teachers:

"Requests are often made for suggestions regarding suitable methods to use in order to 'make up' work which has been lost in our schools because of the epidemic. In response to these requests I wish to submit the following, and shall from time to time prepare outlines or suggestions on particular subjects, which I think may be of some assistance especially to classes that must necessarily complete in a satisfactory way a definite line of work entitling them to admission into the high school or other advanced class.

"Please permit me to call to your attention again what I stated in a circular to teachers under date of Nov. 1918, that, trying to 'make up' work by teaching on Saturdays is not usually advisable, nor can we expect to accomplish much by lengthening the school days which are now long enough for that average child. We should not expect to do the nine months work in five or six months. If we should be able to do nine months work this year in five, six or seven months, why have we not been doing so in past years? We can with profit devote more time than usual to selecting and teaching in a systematic way the essentials in each and every subject, and in some cases actually 'make up' a certain amount of work; but, if we are permitted to hold but six months school this year, we should do that six months work well. We must not overwork the children nor should we permit them to hurry over important work in a haphazard way. In most cases it will not be possible nor will it be advisable to extend the term into the summer months, unless the children of the school are young and a regular summer school is planned for them.

"In justice to the children and to prevent further complication of school work, I believe all pupils in the 6th grade who have been in school all the time except during forced vacations and who have done all the school work, especially in physiology, that could reasonably be expected of them, should be permitted to take the state examination in physiology. The same may be said of the 7th grade geography class, and all 8th grade students who should have been promoted to the high school at the close of this year under normal conditions. In any case, however, where students are promoted but have been compelled to omit certain important work, which, because of its nature, is indispensable to the child in order that he may make further progress, directions to that effect should be left in the registers, on annual reports, etc., so that succeeding teachers may know exact conditions and will see that the work is properly presented at some future time. Very sincerely yours, G. W. AGER, County School Superintendent.

Daily Health Talks. The Best Way to Treat Constipation. BY S. C. BAIRCOCK, M. D. The medical books name many drugs that will move the bowels. The drug store shelves are loaded down with laxatives, purgatives and pills. The trouble with most of them is the after-effects. Constipated people know that pills work all right for a little while, but they soon lose their effect, and a change has to be made to something else. The constant taking of pills results in a form of bowel inactivity that is difficult to cure. The system becomes so accustomed to laxative drugs that the organs just won't work without them, and so the pill habit becomes as bad as constipation itself. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., seems to me to have the right idea. He says the bowels should first be gently moved with Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and in the meantime laxative foods only should be eaten. Figs, prunes, olive oil, spinach, bran, vegetables and fruits are fine for constipation. Chew every bite thoroughly, eat little meal, and be as active as possible. Now, doesn't that seem sensible? Pleasant Pellets will start the bowels working right; then it is up to you to keep them right by right eating. Try Pleasant Pellets for sick headache, coated tongue, biliousness, dizziness, torpid liver or to break up a cold. They are just fine! Dr. Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment soothes, cools and heals piles in a most gratifying way. Perhaps there is no other remedy for this torturing trouble that relieves so surely and quickly. Dr. Pierce believes Anodyne Pile Ointment will overcome any case that can be overcome by medical treatment. Try it right now. Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets are intended for people who suffer from kidney disorders—whose backs ache, and whose systems are overrun with uric acid. Nearly everybody has too much uric acid. Anuric Tablets dissolve uric acid quickly, as they are made double strength. Adv.
