

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

While on account of Saturday being a holiday the weather bureau of office at San Francisco did not send a prediction for tonight and Sunday for Medford and vicinity, C. C. Cate, who is the local government weather man and who is extremely conservative, when urged to make a local forecast ventured the assertion after looking out the window that it would probably be cloudy tonight and Sunday with probably more or less rain, and that if it did rain the precipitation would undoubtedly be wet. A mixture of half rain and snow fell all this forenoon, and bade fair to continue all day. The temperature from 5 p. m. yesterday until 8 a. m. today never varied from 33 degrees above. The precipitation of last night and Thursday amounted to .30 of an inch. Alco Taxi. Phone 95.

Women will not serve on juries in the state of Oregon yet a while as members of the house of representatives by a majority vote decided against the bill introduced by Mrs. Alexander Thompson of The Dalles. In her bill, Mrs. Thompson proposed to make it rather optional as to whether a woman wanted to serve when summoned for jury duty. If she happened to feeling disposed to serve, she could accept the summons and appear. If not, all that was necessary was to sign a statement that she did not care to serve and that was the end of it.—Salem Capital Journal.
