

WILSON AND TAFT ADVOCATE LEAGUE AT SAME MEET

of settlement. Germany did not dare permit a day's discussion. You know what happened. So soon as the world realized that an outlaw was at large the nations began one by one to draw together against her.

Notice to Outlaws
"We know for a certainty that if Germany had thought for a moment that Great Britain would go in with France and with Russia she never would have undertaken the enterprise and the league of nations is meant as a notice to all outlaw nations that not only Great Britain but the United States and the rest of the world will go in to stop enterprises of that sort. And no the league of nations is nothing more nor less than the covenant that the world will always maintain the standards which it has now vindicated by some of the most precious blood ever spilt.

"The liberated peoples of the Austro-Hungarian empire and of the Turkish empire call out to us for this thing. It has not arisen in the council of statesmen. Europe is a bit sick at heart at this very moment, because it is seen that statesmen have had no vision, and that the only vision has been the vision of the people. Those who suffer see. Those against whom wrong is wrought know how desirable is the right and the righteous.

Submerged Peoples
"The nations that have long been under the heel of the Austrian, that have long cowered before the German, that have long suffered the indescribable agonies of being governed by the Turk, have called out to the world, generation after generation, for justice, for liberation, for sever; and no cabinet in the world has heard them.

"Private organizations, pitying hearts, philanthropic men and women have poured out their treasure in order to relieve these sufferings; but no nation has said to the nations responsible 'you must stop; this thing is intolerable, and we will not permit it.' And the vision has been with the people.

"My friends, I wish you would reflect upon this proposition. The vision as to what is necessary for great reforms has seldom come from the top in the nations of the world. It has come from the need and the aspiration and the self assertion of great bodies of men who meant to be free. And I can explain some of the criticisms which have been leveled against this great enterprise only by the supposition that the men who utter the criticisms have never felt the great pulse of the heart of the world.

Amazed at Ignorance
"And I am amazed—not alarmed, but amazed, that there should be in some quarters such a comprehensive ignorance of the state of the world. These gentlemen do not know what the mind of men is, just now. Everybody else does. I do not know where they have been closeted, I do not know by what influences they have been blinded; but I do know that they have been separated from the general currents of the thought of mankind.

"And I want to utter this solemn warning, not in the way of a threat; the forces of the world do not threaten, they operate. The great ideas of the world do not give notice that they are going to rise and run; they rise in their majesty and overwhelming might, and those who stand in the way are overwhelmed. Now the heart of the world is awake and the heart of the world must be satisfied.

"Do not let yourselves suppose for

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Often Followed By Serious Gastric Ulcers, Says Authority. Most Frequent Cause of Dyspepsia and Indigestion, Says Keep Stomach Sweet With Magnesia.

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic 'acid stomach,' says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines. The acid, which caused the trouble, remains in your stomach as dangerous as ever.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisulphate Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better to sweeten and settle an acid stomach than a good magnesia bath. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisulphate Magnesia is the special magnesia that should be used for this purpose and it can be obtained from any reliable drugist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive. Adv.

a moment that the uneasiness in the populations of Europe is due entirely to economic causes or economic motives; something very much deeper underlies it all than that.

Cannot Be Dammed
"They see that their governments have never been able to defend them against intrigue or aggression, and that there is no force of foresight or of prudence in any modern cabinet to stop war. And therefore, they say: 'There must be some fundamental cause for this.' The fundamental cause they are beginning to perceive is that nations have stood singly or in little jealous groups against each other, fostering prejudice, increasing the danger of war, rather than concerting measures to prevent it; and that if there is right in the world, if there is justice in the world, there is no reason why nations should be divided in the support of justice.

"They are therefore saying if you really believe that there is a right, if you really believe that was ought to be stopped, stop thinking about the rival interests and think about men and women and children throout the world.

Object of Nations
"Nations are not made to afford distinction to their rulers by way of success in the maneuvers of politics; nations are meant, if they are meant for anything, to make the men and women and children in them secure and happy and prosperous and no nation has the right to set up special interests against the interests and benefits of mankind, least of all, this great nation which we love.

"It was set up for the benefit of mankind it was set up to illustrate the highest ideals and to achieve the highest aspirations of men who wanted to be free; and the world—the world of today believes that and counts on us, and would be thrown back into the blackness of despair if we deserted it.

"I have tried once and again, my fellow citizens, to say to little circles of friends or to larger bodies, what seems to be the real hope of the peoples of Europe and tell you frankly I have not been able to do so because when the thought tries to crowd itself into speech, the profound emotion of the thing is too much, so speech will not carry. I have felt the tragedy of the hope of those suffering peoples.

Tragedy of Hope
"It is tragedy because it is a hope which cannot be realized in its perfection, and yet I have felt besides its tragedy, its compulsion, its compulsion upon every living man to exercise every influence that he has to the utmost to see that as little as possible of that hope is disappointed because if men cannot now, after this agony of bloody sweat, come to their self possession and see how to regulate the affairs of the world, we will sink back into a period of struggle in which there will be no hope, and therefore no mercy. There can be no mercy where there is no hope, for why should you spare another if you yourself expect to perish. Why should you be pitiful if you can get no pity? Why should you be just if, upon every hand, you are put upon?

"There is another thing which I think the critics of this covenant have not observed. They not only have not observed the temper of those splendid boys in khaki that they sent across the sea, I have had the proud consciousness of the reflected glory of those boys, because the constitution made me their commander in chief and they have taught me some lessons. When we went into the war, we went into it on the basis of declarations, which it was my privilege to utter, because I believed them to be an interpretation of the purpose and thought of the people of the United States.

Spirit of Yanks
"And those boys went over there with the feeling that they were sacredly bound to the realization of those ideals; that they were not only going over there to beat Germany; they were not going over there merely with resentment in their hearts against a particular outlaw nation; but that they were crossing those three thousand miles of sea in order to show to Europe that the United States, when it became necessary, would go anywhere where the rights of mankind were threatened.

"They would not sit still in the trenches. They would not be restrained by the prudence of experienced continental commanders. They thought they had come over there to do a particular thing, and they were going to do it and do it at once. And just as soon as that rush of spirit as well as rush of body came in contact with the lines of the enemy they began to break, and they continued to break until the end. They continued to break, my fellow citizens, not merely because of the physical force of those lusty youngsters, but because of the irresistible spiritual force of the armies of the United States. It was that they felt. It was that that awed them. It was that that made them feel, if these youngsters ever got a foothold, they could never be dislodged and therefore every foot of ground that they won was permanently won for the liberty of mankind.

Crusading Spirit
"And do you suppose that having felt that crusading spirit of those youngsters, who went over there not to glorify against, but to serve their fellowmen, I am going to permit myself for one moment to slacken in my effort to be worthy of them and their cause. What I said at the opening I said with a deeper meaning than perhaps you have caught; I do mean not to come back until its over, over there and it must not be over until the nations of the world are assured of the permanency of peace.

"Gentlemen on this side of the water would be very much profited by getting into communication with some gentlemen on the other side of the water. We sometimes think my fellow citizens, that the experienced statesmen of the European nations are usually hard headed set of men, by which we generally mean, although we do not admit it, that they are a bit cynical; that they say 'this is a very practical world' by which you always mean that it is not an ideal world. Well, I never came into contact with them before, but if they used to be that way, they are not that way now. They have been subdued, if that was once their temper, by the awful significance of recent events and the awful importance of what is to ensue; and there is not one of them with whom I have come in contact, who does not feel that he cannot in consequence return to his people from Paris unless he has done his utmost to do something more than attach his name to a treaty of peace. Every man in that conference knows that the treaty of peace in itself will be inoperative, as Mr. Taft has said, without this constant support and energy of a great organization, such as is supplied by the league of nations.

Skepticism Removed
"And men who, when I first went over there, were skeptical of the possibility of forming a league of nations admitted that, if we could but form it, it would be an invaluable instrumentality thru which to secure the operation of the various parts of the treaty; and when that treaty comes back, gentlemen on this side will find the covenant not only in it, but so many threads of the treaty tied to the covenant that you cannot dissect the covenant from the treaty without destroying the whole vital structure. The structure of peace will not be vital without the league of nations and no man is going to bring back a cadaver with him.

"I must say that I have been puzzled by some of the criticisms, not by the criticisms themselves; I can understand them perfectly even when there was no foundation for them, but by the fact of the criticism. I cannot imagine how those gentlemen can live and not live in the atmosphere of the world.

Out of Tune With the Time
"I cannot imagine how they can live and not be in contact with the events of the times, and I particularly cannot imagine how they can be Americans and set up a doctrine of careful selfishness throughout the last detail. I have heard no counsel of generosity in their criticism. I have heard no constructive suggestion. I have heard nothing except 'will it not be dangerous to us to help the world?' It would be fatal to use not to help it.

"From being what I will venture to call the most famous and the most powerful nation in the world we would of a sudden have become the most contemptible. So, I did not need to be told, as I have been told, that the people of the United States would support this covenant. I am an American and I knew they would.

"What a sweet revenge it is upon the world. They laughed at us once, they thought we did not mean our professions of principles. They thought so until April of 1917. It was hardly creditable to them that we would do more than send a few men over and go through the forms of helping, and when they saw multitudes hastening across the sea, and saw what those multitudes were eager to do when they got to the other side, they stood amazed and said, 'the thing is real, this nation is the friend of mankind as it said it was.' The enthusiasm, the hope, the trust, the confidence in the future bred by that change of view is indescribable.

Friend of Mankind
"Take an individual American and you may often find him selfish, and confined to his special interests, but take an American in the mass, and he is willing to die for an idea. The sweet revenge therefore is this, that we believed in righteousness, and now we are ready to make the supreme sacrifice for it, the supreme sacrifice of throwing in our fortunes with the fortunes with men everywhere. Mr. Taft, was speaking of Washington's utterance about entangling alliances and if he will permit me to say so, he put the exactly right interpretation upon what Washington said, the interpretation that is inevitable if you read what he said, as most of these gentlemen do not, and the thing that he longed for was just what we are now about to supply, an arrangement which will disentangle all the alliances in the world.

Disentangling Alliances
"Nothing entangles, nothing entangles a man except a selfish combination with somebody else. Nothing entangles a nation, hampers it, binds it, except to enter into a combination with some other nation against other nations of the world. And this great disentanglement of all alliances is now to be accompanied by this covenant, because one of the covenants is that no nation shall enter into any relationship with another nation inconsistent with the covenants of the league of nations.

"Nations promise not to have alliances. Nations promise not to make combinations against each other; nations agree that there shall be but one combination and that is the combination of all against the wrong doer. And so I am going back to my task on the other side with renewed vigor. I had not forgotten what the spirit of the American people is, but I have been immensely refreshed by coming in contact with him again. I do not know how good home felt until I got there.

People Favor It
"The only place a man can feel at home is where nothing has to be explained to him. Nothing has to be explained to us in America, least of all the sentiment of the American people. I mean about great fundamental things like this. There are many differences of judgment as to policy—and perfectly legitimate. Sometimes profound differences of judgment, but these are not differences of sentiment, those are not differences of purpose, those are not differences of ideals. And the advantage of not having to have anything explained to you is that you recognize a wrong explanation when you hear it. In a certain rather abandoned part of the frontier at one time, it was said they found a man who told the truth; he was not found telling it, but he could tell it when he heard it, and I think I

Millions of Catarrh Germs Afloat in the Air

Atmosphere is Laden With Germs of The Disease.

Every person afflicted with Catarrh releases millions of the tiny disease germs with every cough or sneeze, so that whenever on the street cars or street or other public place you see a person afflicted with this disease hawking and coughing and sneezing, everyone in their vicinity is exposed to the disease.

You along with everyone else will find yourself exposed to the germs of Catarrh several times every day. The germs multiply by the millions, and the air you breathe is thick with these tiny little disease demons that cause so much distress and suffering.

Catarrh is one of the most stubborn diseases, and is always worse in cold, damp and disagreeable weather. It should not, however, be considered incurable, though there are thousands afflicted with it who are doubtless ready to believe that a cure is impossible, because of their experience.

But like all other afflictions, the main trouble is that Catarrh is entirely misunderstood, and therefore treated in the wrong way. Because these little germ demons attack the delicate membranes of the nose and throat, choking up the six passages and irritating the tender lining of the nostrils and bronchial tubes, the average sufferer makes the mistake of treating merely the symptoms of the disease, and overlooks its cause.

You must realize that Catarrh is more than a mere local irritation that stops up your nose and irritates your throat and chokes up your breathing apparatus.

Your blood is saturated with Catarrh germs, and these will continue their irritating attacks as long as they remain in the blood.

The only sensible treatment, therefore, is the one which will rout the disease germs from the blood.

This is why the most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh is S. S. S., the famous old reliable blood purifier. S. S. S. has been used successfully for Catarrh for more than fifty years, and it is the one remedy that attacks the source of the disease, cleansing the blood thoroughly, and eliminating from it every trace of disease germs.

If you want a remedy that goes direct to the seat of the disease, begin to take S. S. S. to-day, and then throw away your atomizers and other local treatment that cannot possibly reach your Catarrh. You will be delighted after giving this remedy a trial, and will soon find yourself on the road to a complete recovery. S. S. S. is sold by druggists everywhere.
