IT IS UNANIMOUS.

EVERYONE is jumping on Postmaster General Burleson just now. The telephone employees, the telephone employers; the republicans, the democrats; the gentlemen and the ladies; the blacks of Texas and the reds of Tacoma. If he has a friend in the world, said friend doesn't appear either aeropagitic or articulate.

And yet Mr. Burleson probably isn't such a bad sort. He has an excellent reputation as a life long democrat of the old school. Perhaps the trouble is Marse Burleson's school, like Si Perkins' cheese, is too "durned old."

Mr. Burleson is rich. He made his money in Texas land, with the aid of convicts, black, brown and mixed, and he came to the post office department prepared to repeat the performance. He saw no reason why the methods that had brought him a million dollars, shouldn't do the same for Uncle Sam, so in our popular jargon, he went to it.

Mr. Burleson had no use for unions in Texas, so he could see no use for them in Washington; he had successfully operated the sweat shop system in Texas, so he saw no reason why he couldn't repeat the performance in the P. O. department; convicts had labored for seventy cents per day, he saw no reason for pensioning mail carriers and telephone operators.

In other words Mr. Burleson applied the principles of private business conducted for private gain, to public business conducted for public service, and according to his reports the system worked in Washington just as it did in Texas. The books showed a balance on the right side of the ledger, and the Postmaster General was satisfied.

But no one else was. Perhaps no one else was satisfied in Texas, although the record is not so conclusive. At any rate Mr. Burleson's methods impaired the postal service during the war, antagonized the American public regardless of party, produced a labor situation which now threatens to tie up the telephone and telegraph service of the country, and finally called forth a protest from the Wilson club of Massachusetts, demanding the removal of the Postmaster General before he had completely wrecked the Democratic party.

The general esteem in which Mr. Burleson is held will be indicated, no doubt, by the willingness of even our most partisan Republicans, to aid in the rescue of the opposition, by doing all they can to secure a prompt compliance with this demand.

Medford's Spirit

Medford people have launched a campaign to raise $30,000 to keep in operation the Pacific & Eastern railroad, which recently went into the hands of a receiver and stopped running trains.

The road is a short line operating out of Medford, and is a development agency in the Medford district. The $30,000 is to match a like sum pledged by a lumber company at Butte Falls. The plan proposes final purchase of the road through a bond issue.

The drive for the $30,000 in typical of Medford. It is the spirit of self help present there that has made Medford a city of parts and promise.

The people there keep something doing in a public way for home expansion all the time. The war is no sooner over than the old activity for a greater and stronger Medford is resumed.

Accountants say the Pacific & Eastern will pay a profit above operating cost and fixed charges. If not now, a time will come when it will. The road will be the developing agency by which added industries here and there along the line will make it pay a profit.

STATE TO SURVEY EAGLE POINT ROAD GOV'T WILL AID

County Judge Gardner who with W. H. Gore and E. V. Carter of Ashland, was in Portland conferring with the state highway commission about proposed new highways in Jackson county, has returned home enthusiastic in regard to the construction jointly by the government, state and county of a new road between Medford and Eagle Point.

The state highway commission has agreed to send at once an engineer to make a survey of the proposed new highway between Agate and Eagle Point. The government will aid in the expense of the road's construction, and as soon as the commission gets the route located will call for construction bids three weeks later.

The projected new highway between Prospect and the boundary of Crater Lake park, on the Medford Crater Lake highway, is hung up temporarily, Judge Gardner reports. Bids were advertised for but only one bid was received, which was rejected on account of being too high. The commission will readvertise for bids right away.

Judge Gardner reports that the Jackson county delegation received hearty support in Portland for both the Medford-Eagle Point and the Medford-Crater Lake road projects. The Portland chamber of commerce this week adopted the following resolution:

Resolution Whereas, there has been a petition presented to the state highway commission asking the state of Oregon to cooperate on paving 12 miles of road from Medford to Eagle Point, United States government to furnish 50 per cent, state of Oregon 25 per cent and Jackson county 25 per cent of construction costs; and

Whereas, said proposed improvement is on the state road leading from Medford to Klamath Falls which road is known as the Crater Lake road; and

Whereas, the said road is a post road as well as a state road, carrying mail to more than a dozen post offices in the southern part of the state as well as a road leading into the vast undeveloped forest area and of great value from a commercial standpoint as well as a tourist, and of state and national importance;

Therefore, be it resolved, that this body endorse and recommend to the state highway commission that the state participate and approve said Crater Lake road project and to that end cooperate with the U. S. government and Jackson county in paving said section from Medford to Eagle Point during the season of 1919.
